(This is the last of a series of articles by a noted Indian social scientist summarizing his impressions of Red China, based on a six-week tour behind the Bamboo Curtain.)

An intriguing, if disconcerting, aspect of the contemporary Chinese scene is the tremendous nationwide political propaganda concerning who Red China's friends and enemies are.

The whole nation has been taught that there is one great socialist friend of China—the "selfless" Soviet Union—and one irreconcilable "imperialist enemy"—the United States.

The first is understandable, for Russia is the leader of the Communist camp. It is also true that this friendly Soviet Union, whether selfless or not, is responsible for 90 per cent of the heavy machinery, an overwhelming majority of all technical experts and almost all the blue-prints of China's industrial progress.

In fact, the Russians are almost exclusively responsible for such industrialization as has taken place in China in recent years.

It is no wonder that Russians receive special, preferential treatment all over China. The Chinese are now building special hotels for Russians so that they can have their own life without meeting or mingling with other foreigners from within or without the Communist world.

At every hotel in which I stayed during my six weeks in Red China, from Canton to Harbin in Manchuria, I found that my fellow guests belonged to some Soviet delegation or other.

THE ONLY FOREIGN LANGUAGE recognized in China is Russian. From menus to theater notices, from directions at stations and airports to travel information, I found only two languages—Chinese and Russian.

Today Russian is taught at most universities in place of English, French and German. The English language was fairly widespread as a means of instruction before the Communists took over.

I have heard Chinese speaking Russian but I discovered that English-speaking Chinese preferred speaking in Chinese rather than English. I have seen students using Russian textbooks in medical colleges and technical universities. All libraries that I visited were filled with Russian books, mostly technical.

In every factory I visited I was told the same story of the "selfless help" of the Soviet Union in giving technical aid and machinery. Whether it is the heavy machine tool factory in Harbin or the iron and steel complex at Wuhan or the great new bridge on the Yangtze River linking the North and South of China with the triple cities at Wuhan—all have been accomplished with Soviet assistance.

The Russians draw up the plans, bring the machinery and raise the plant with, of course, the help of Chinese engineers and workers. But the Russian engineers stay behind the scenes.

Kennedy Camp Evaluates Demo Candidate Threats

Symington, Humphrey on Top of List

By ROBERT E. LEE
Of L. P. T. Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON—Sen. John F. Kennedy's camp now considers Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri its biggest threat and the most likely Democratic presidential nominee in 1960.

The Kennedy people, staging one of the earliest and most frankly aggressive pre-convention campaigns in history, already are sizing up the probable competition with a realistic eye.

Friends of the 41-year-old Massachusetts senator have great respect for the vote-getting ability of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.) and despite the twin handicaps of a weak heart and a Southern background, that of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.). But they are writing off Adlai Stevenson except as a deadlock-breaking compromise nominee. They foresee no serious challenge from any of the several able Democratic governors standing in the wings.

Kennedy's closest advisers think Humphrey has the next best chance of getting the nomination if Symington misses. This is the way top Kennedy aides are reported privately rating the field in the current winter book.

The Democratic nominee who would get the most votes—Kennedy, Humphrey, Symington, Johnson, Stevenson, in that order.

The most likely nominees—Symington, Humphrey, Kennedy, Johnson and Stevenson.

AF Plans Airborne A-Missile

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force is planning to bolster U.S. retaliatory power with a revolutionary ballistic missile that can be fired from bombers, it was disclosed Saturday.

A highly placed official said the first of the high-speed, nuclear-tipped weapons may be ready by late summer 1960.

They will have a range of more than 1,000 miles and will zoom from beneath the wings of the launching bombers.

THE PROJECT is known as Bold Orion. So far it has been limited to studies and missile launchings by three companies which have demonstrated the feasibility of the radical new weapon.

Authorities revealed that 24 companies participated in an Air Force conference on the weapon this month. They said a choice would be narrowed to not more than a half dozen companies from which Air Secretary James H. Douglas and Chief of Staff Gen.

Californians to Head Tickets, Says Hosmer

By BILL BROOM
Of L. P. T. Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON—Rep. Craig Hosmer (Long Beach), who claims to have no special inside information, came out Saturday with a California parlay for the 1960 presidential races.

Four Californians have a chance to be nominated for the presidency or vice presidency, Hosmer said. To the names of Vice President Nixon and Gov. Edmund F. (Pat) Brown, both of whom have been mentioned as candidate in a tie, the congressman added the state's two U.S. senators, Thomas H. Kuchel (R) and Clair Engle (D).

Hosmer predicted there will be a Californian at the top of both party's tickets because both Republicans and Democrats "see California's large presidential electoral vote as decisive in 1960."

"TO HELP SWING the state, both are eyeing Californians for the No. 1 and No. 2 spots on their tickets," he said in a report prepared for his constituents.

If the Democrats do not select Brown as their presidential or vice presidential nominee, they will pick Senator Engle for the vice presidency, Hosmer predicted. Engle was elected to the Senate last November after serving as a congressman for 14 years. His home is in Red Bluff.

Hosmer said Nixon probably will be the GOP presidential nominee. If New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller gets it, he predicted Sen. Kuchel will be in the No. 2 spot as his running mate.

AS FOR A FIFTH national-known Californian, ex-Sen. William F. Knowland, the congressman said he "is out of the picture."

Brown's chances are "better than so far rated," Hosmer said, because he is a governor.

Brazil Okays Envoy Post for Clare Luce

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Brazilian foreign ministry sources said Saturday Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce is acceptable as U. S. ambassador to that country.

A foreign government's acceptance of a prospective ambassador usually is a prelude to the formal announcement of appointment of the individual in question.

The word from Rio de Janeiro that Mrs. Luce, former U. S. ambassador to Italy, was acceptable to the Brazilian government followed word from informed sources here Friday that the appointment was imminent.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said reports that President Eisenhower is considering the appointment are "news to the White House."

Mrs. Luce's secretary in Tucson, Ariz., said "no comment" when asked about the matter.

Mrs. Luce is the wife of editor-in-chief Henry R. Luce of Time and Life magazines. She served as this country's first woman ambassador to Italy from 1953 to 1956. She stepped down to recover from an illness which was traced to arsenic poisoning from paint flaking from the ceiling of her embassy bedroom.

M'millan to Visit U.S., Report on Russ Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials look forward to a Washington visit by British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan about mid-March to report on his 10-day visit to Moscow which started Saturday.

No special arrangements have been made in Washington, and no specific date has been set, officials said. But they added they expect Macmillan to come to Washington after visiting Paris and Bonn.

His account of what he learned on what he terms a reconnaissance trip to Moscow would be made to President Eisenhower, President Charles de Gaulle of France, and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany.

AS A GUEST of the Kremlin, British Prime Minister Macmillan Saturday night challenged the statesmen of the world to reduce the danger of war that might arise through "miscalculation or muddle."

The first British prime minister to visit Moscow since the war, Macmillan arrived wearing a light gray fur hat that delighted the Russians.

Macmillan made it clear to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the very outset that he had brought no particular subject, such as the Berlin crisis, on which he wanted to negotiate.

A Kremlin Palace dinner climaxed his first day in Moscow.

He said Britain does not fear acts of calculated aggression, "and I hope that you do not." In this day and age, he added, "such aggression between the great powers, at least, would be suicidal folly."

Storm Drops .98 Inch and Moves Along

The third Pacific storm this month passed over Long Beach Saturday, dumping .98 inches of rain, but the Weather Bureau forecast it was almost over today.

Although a similar storm is again moving in on this area from off the Oregon coast, the Weather Bureau said skies will be only partly cloudy today and Monday.

Arrival of the next storm has not yet been predicted.

PRECIPITATION from Saturday's storm brought snowfalls as low as the 2,100-foot level in the hills back of Burbank, Glendale, Montrose and La Canada. Many mountain roads were slick and slushy and chains were needed on several major traffic arteries.

Frequent showers brought Long Beach's total rainfall for the season to 5.29 inches, somewhat less than normal.

In other Southland communities, Torrance had 1.32 inches and San Pedro, 1.02 inches.

The Weather ---

Partly cloudy today and Monday with little chance of rain. Not quite so cool with a high near 60. High Saturday, 56; low, 46.

Five Victims Members of Grove Family

Three Men Killed in Car Smashup at Westminster

Ten lives were snuffed out by two shattering highway accidents in the Southland Saturday.

Seven persons, including five members of a Garden Grove family, died in a five-car pileup which critically injured four others on rainswept Highway 101 near Oceanside.

Three men died in their car when it crashed at 17th St. and Swan Ave. in Westminster.

Killed in the Oceanside crash were Arnold Boatner, 34, of 9071 Timothy Lane, Garden Grove; his wife, Lois, 30, and three of their four children—David, 11; Becky, 8, and Eyvonne, 4 months; Bernard W. Patterson, 36, of 2317 Sycamore Ave., Anaheim, and Mrs. Carmen Carsillas, 45, of Los Angeles.

STILL IN critical condition Sunday night were Danny Boatner, 9, sole survivor of his family; Harry Caspari, 11, of 12172 Aero St.; Tommy Steel, 11, of 12151 Ditmar St.; and Tommy Weden, 12, all of Garden Grove. All four were riding in the back of the Boatner pickup truck with Becky and David. Boatner, his wife and the infant were in the cab.

L.B. Man Killed by Hit-Run Car

A middle-aged man was struck and killed by a hit-and-run driver on Wardlow Rd. near Pacific Ave. late Saturday night.

The man, identified as John E. Vickery, of 406 W. 35th St., was dead on arrival at Seaside Hospital.

Police said the man apparently was crossing Wardlow Rd. when he was struck by a car traveling at high speed. The impact knocked the victim's shoes off, emptied his pockets of money, billfold and knife, and threw him 40 feet.

Fragments of an automobile windshield were found near the scene. Police said there were no witnesses.

Boy Swept 1/2-Mile by L.A. River

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An 11-year-old boy fell into the storm-swollen Los Angeles River Saturday and was swept more than half a mile before two policemen saved him.

Martin Betancourt tumbled into the water near the Seventh St. bridge. A friend tried to save him but failed. Police were called and a dozen officers rushed to the river bank downstream.

Officers John Sparkenbach and Edward Kenny saw Martin struggling in the water near the Olympic Blvd. bridge. One held to the bridge and the other, holding onto him, plunged into the river and pulled the boy to safety.

The boy was treated for shock and exposure.

Taxes Take 1/3 of Average Family Income

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Smith is a typical American. He works full time for a company which pays him $4,500 a year and part-time for the government which takes $1,393 from him.

The sad fact of the matter is that Joe Smith spends more of his working day earning his taxes than he does to pay for any major item in the family's budget.

THE TAX FOUNDATION estimates that the average worker toils 2 hours and 29 minutes each day to earn his taxes, compared with 1 hour and 39 minutes to earn his food money, 1 hour and 25 minutes to pay the mortgage or rent, 37 minutes for clothing, 42 minutes for transportation, 24 minutes for medical care, 20 minutes for recreation and 24 minutes to pay for his other purchases.

It has been estimated that direct and hidden taxes siphon off one-third of the family's income.

Everybody is painfully aware of income taxes, which range up to 91 per cent on individual incomes and 52 per cent on corporate incomes. Most people also are aware of the excise taxes they pay when they buy cigarettes, liquor or furs.

However, not many Americans are aware of the number of taxes hidden in the price of things they buy. The really hidden ones are the excise taxes which must be paid by manufacturers.

Manufacturers of refrigerators, for instance, must pay a five per cent tax on each unit they sell to retailers. Although this tax doesn't appear in the price tag, it is included in the price the consumer pays.

The Tax Foundation estimates that there are 151 taxes on a loaf of bread, 116 on a man's suit, 100 on an egg, 150 on a woman's hat, and 600 on a house. Taxes, direct and indirect, account for 25 per cent of the $2,000 cost of a low-priced car.

THE PLAIN FACT of the matter is that only people pay most of the hidden taxes. Business—from the giant corporation to the corner grocery store—collects them.

The foundation points out that companies, large and small, couldn't stay in business long if they had to pay all these taxes out of their own pocket. Taxes are a cost of doing business and are taken into account when setting prices.

The foundation said practically everything a consumer buys "has a hunk of tax hidden in the price."

L.A.C. Says: Curing Unemployment

The 4.7 million unemployment figure for January is disturbing news. It has brought demands from the AFL-CIO for shorter hours and a much greater spending program by government to produce more jobs. Walter Reuther advocates an unemployment march on Washington to dramatize the demands.

It would be unrealistic to ignore the dangers of widespread unemployment. But it is equally unrealistic to expect that full employment can be achieved by unsound measures. Actually we have had an average of about 3 million classified as unemployed for most of the past 10 years. These are largely people who are in process of changing jobs—there is a normal turnover of jobs which brought this 3 million unemployed to be viewed as normal during our most prosperous years. It was about 4 to 5 per cent of the available working force.

We are just coming out of a recession. Our labor force increases at the rate of about 1.5 million a year. New jobs must be created for this new working population. We have met this increase in the past. The big question is how we are to do it for the future. This raises the question of shorter hours—or creation of new jobs by private enterprise or government spending.

There is a grave question that shortening the work week would provide the needed new jobs. Such action would mean a reduction in the weekly pay of workers and thereby less purchasing power. Or if present 40-hour pay were maintained for 35 hours work it would add to the cost of everything produced by the workers. This would reduce the amount of purchasing power of workers.

When it comes to providing jobs by government spending we should look back to the 1934-1939 period when billions of dollars were expended by many alphabetical agencies. There was never a year during this period that unemployment fell below 7 million workers—with a working force 10 million less than we have at present. It was only when war broke out in Europe and we became the arsenal for France and Britain that we pulled out of that depression.

After World War II we were busy making up the shortages created by four years of war and austerity. Then private enterprise poured billions of dollars into new products, plants and machinery. Prices increased 100 per cent over the 1930s—but income of workers increased 150 per cent. The result has been higher living standards, more people employed and general prosperity. We have had three minor recessions during the last 10 years. But we pulled out of two without a serious economic disorder. We are very close to being out of the recession which started some 18 months ago.

Some of the added 1.7 million unemployment above the 3 million normal is caused by workers producing more—the extension of working hours of those employed and the wage and fringe benefit increases given unions the past year. Production is at high levels—prices are stabilized and with winter over there is good reason to expect jobs to be more plentiful.

There is every reason for concern over our ability to provide the new jobs needed for our expanding working force. It is probable there will be shorter hours in the future. But such changes should not be allowed to increase costs of production and thereby create a destructive inflation spiral. Unless unions and their supporters in Congress accept this view, they will be creating greater unemployment and destroy the value of dollars now held or hoped for by all the people.—L.A.C.

Bandit Gets $250, Then Returns Six

WILMINGTON — A robber who tossed his victim some money so he could make change held up a market here Saturday and escaped with about $250.

Henry Bagdasar, owner of Henry's Market, 1026 Wilmington Blvd., said the considerate bandit pulled a small revolver and ordered him to turn over the money in the cash register.

AFTER STUFFING most of the money in his trousers pocket, the holdup man tossed six $1 bills back on the counter and told Bagdasar, "Keep these for change."

Then the bandit backed out of the store, ran to an automobile parked across the street and drove off.

decisively to either Vice President Nixon or Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York. At the moment the view is that any of the aforementioned Democrats could beat Nixon. Those close to Kennedy think that probably only he could win over Rockefeller, and only in a close fight.

UNLESS Rockefeller's present popularity nosedives, Kennedy will find himself on the horns of a dilemma next year.

His supporters will advance the theory that the party needs his national appeal to offset the Rockefeller charm. Therefore his chances of nomination will improve if the New Yorker looks like the probable Republican choice. Yet they think his best chance of getting picked is to run against the Republican he considers the harder to beat.

The emergence of Symington as the man the other Democrats are watching is based on two factors. He ran way ahead of everyone else in a recent congressional quarterly poll of House and Senate Democrats, the favorite of a third of all those voting while Kennedy was first choice of only 17 per cent.

MOREOVER, Symington is rich in what the politicians call the external virtues — he comes from a border state, is good looking, the right age, 57, a businessman with "good" voting records on farm and labor questions, and has a popular issue to plug as the ranking advocate of stronger armed forces.

It is known that Kennedy frankly regards his own youth and the fact that he is a Roman Catholic as his two chief drawbacks.

He can't do anything about his age, but he's counting on a theory once advanced by former Sen. Herbert Lehman (D-NY) to offset objections to his religion. This is that people vote by race and not by religion. That is, persons of Irish descent vote for the Irish, not necessarily for Catholics and Scandinavians vote for Scandinavians, not Lutherans.

As for another issue which will be often raised in the next 17 months, Kennedy along with the other senators who covet the nomination firmly believe that the old tradition that governors and not senators get named for the presidency is outmoded in a day when national and international affairs are paramount. They think being in the Senate is an advantage, not an obstacle.

GEN. TAYLOR
"We Have Strength..."

Taylor Sees Possible Full Mobilization

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, has suggested to Congress that mobilization of the entire nation might be necessary if the Russians use military force this spring to prevent access to Berlin.

Taylor said in closed-door testimony given Feb. 2 and released Saturday that "we have all the strength that is necessary if we are willing to mobilize it and to do so in the Senate disarmament subcommittee."

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) asked whether Taylor meant "mobilize the entire nation."

"Yes," the general replied. "You cannot play around in this business unless you have a lot of blue chips in your pocket. This is unlimited power."

Military leaders are known to have suggested land convoys if necessary. They have contended that an airlift could not again supply Berlin's needs as in 1948-49.

Panama Claims Troops Crush Rebellion by Municipal Junta

PANAMA (AP)—A municipal revolt in this capital apparently collapsed Saturday under vigorous strokes by the national government. The government named a City Council to supplant a rebel council and sent armed troops to City Hall in a show of force.

The Revolutionary Municipal Junta, its selected council, including Chairman Carlos Enoch Adames, and about 80 supporters, fled out of City Hall under the watchful eye of the troops. The junta had held out in City Hall since seizing it Wednesday. The junta demanded the ouster of the 15-man council elected in 1956, accusing it of mishandling city funds. The uprising won a partial victory because the elected council stepped aside pending investigation.

A general strike, ordered Friday to support the revolutionary movement, ended. Businesses reopened, and public transportation was rolling again.

PANAMA (AP)—The Panama Canal, once ringed by the most modern of weapons, now has no missile defenses. Moreover, there seems little air of urgency in establishing missile defenses for the United States' Canal Zone, in an era when rocket weapons are becoming of major importance.

Bombers to Fire A-Missiles

Thomas D. White would select the contractor.

THIS CONTRACT will call for development only, but a production contract will follow quickly.

Officials said the first weapons should be ready in about 18 months.

Officials said the ALBM (air launched ballistic missile) will have these advantages:

It will be a retaliation weapon that can't be knocked out easily. Hence it will vitally strengthen U.S. deterrent power.

—It can extend the useful life of present-day bombers by enabling them to fly well away from enemy defenses and launch missiles over any number of courses. The Air Force has about 1,500 B47 bombers and several hundred B52's, all candidates for the new missile. The new supersonic B58 likewise can carry the weapons and, moreover, launch them while traveling faster than sound.

—The weapon could counter found Russian defenses because it will be in motion constantly and relatively invulnerable compared with big, fixed-base intercontinental ballistic missiles. Also, it can be flown relatively close to targets in emergencies but recalled. An ICBM cannot be stopped once it is launched. —The ALBM, because of prior research and development on submarine Polaris and other weapons, can be developed quickly and relatively inexpensively.

Feasibility of the ALBM was demonstrated to Air Force satisfaction last year by the Martin Co., Baltimore, Convaiv division of General Dynamics Corp., San Diego, and Lockheed Aircraft Corp., Burbank, Calif.

'Love Russia, Hate America'

and Russian thinking have invaded from Mukden to Canton. In every city of importance the Chinese have erected massive structures in honor of Sino-Soviet co-operation and these buildings usually house permanent exhibitions of the Soviet Union's technological achievements—which are extremely impressive.

China is fast becoming an image of Russia.

ON THE OTHER HAND, there is the painful contrast of China's attitude to America. America has acquired the permanent adjective of "imperialistic" in the Chinese language. Everyone, from a village schoolgirl to a cabinet minister, will tell you that China's enemy No. 1 is the United States.

In every town the visitor is greeted, at the station or in the market place or a busy thoroughfare, by a huge poster—some 40 by 60 feet—showing a picture of Communist China crushing America and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The most common of these posters were of three kinds. One showed molten steel pouring out of mainland China on Dulles and President Chiang Kai-Shek of Nationalist China on the fast-sinking island of Formosa. The second type showed an American G1 being pierced to death by a Chinese soldier's bayonet. The third showed a cringing Chiang and a shivering Dulles hanging from a Chinese noose.

All mass media—press, platform, radio and the inevitable loudspeaker—have been harnessed to din into the Chinese that America is the greatest menace to peace and prosperity. One can see films and exhibits purporting to show American interference, espionage, and subversive activities on the mainland.

And, I believe, they have largely succeeded in training a nation of 650 million to hate the United States.

Various American campuses have been renamed, and the American-educated Chinese staff has been de-Americanized. After going round in Tsing Hua University in Peiping I asked whether this was the campus run with the Boxer Indemnity Fund. I was told that only a paltry few thousand dollars had been spent on that campus in the past, but that this was just as well, as Tsing Hua trained only "lackeys of American imperialism."

They have also closed down the Peiping Union Medical College—donated and run by the Rockefeller Foundation for a number of years. This institution, by all accounts, rendered valuable service to the people but it had to be closed to erase the memory of its past connection with America.

I VISITED UNION MEDICAL and found that the college was no more but that the attractive hospital had grown enormously and continues to minister to the ill. The Union Medical College has now become the Chinese Academy of Medical Sciences.

I met a few members of the staff—Chinese graduates of American medical colleges. In fact I discovered that none had any warm recollection of the United States. (This surprised me considerably, for I can remember how happy most of my Chinese fellow students at American universities were and how much they seemed to appreciate the warm and generous treatment they received on American campuses.)

But what is China's case against the United States? It is a simple one. America should withdraw the Seventh Fleet and get out of Formosa so that the Communists can occupy it. To them, the Formosa issue is purely a domestic problem.

"Taiwan (Formosa) is an internal problem. It is a continuation or an extension of our civil war, if you like. We know how to deal with Chiang Kai-shek. We may appoint him a governor or liquidate him for his past criminal acts. But the Americans are in the way." This, I think, correctly sums up their attitude.

THE SECOND GRIEVANCE is that the United States is preventing China from taking her place in the U. N. These twin grievances stem from the basic fact of America's non-recognition of Communist China. If communism is the barrier, they ask, then how is it that America has recognized the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland, etc?

It is obvious that all this ignores numerous historical factors which account for the two Chinas of today. And even more basic is the recognition of regimes which come to power through force, violence, and bloodshed.

At any rate, the psychological need for creating Anti-American hysteria is evident, from the Communist point of view. The creation of an external enemy, who threatens to destroy the very existence of China, is a powerful force to cement internal unity and secure support for the existing regime—a regime which is not entirely loved by all the 650 million Chinese.

There is no denying that the Chinese Communists feel strongly about their dispute with the United States. Peace in Asia may well be threatened by the way the Formosa problem is solved.

There are three ways to dispose of it. One is to declare the island independent and let the people of Formosa choose whatever government they like. The second is to make it a United Nations trust territory, as suggested recently by Lord Attlee, former British prime minister. The third way out is to hand it over to the Peiping regime.

Whatever the ultimate solution, the need for preserving peace in the area is imperative.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The mass move to suburbia is turning vast big-city areas into "gray belts" of slums that might be wiped out by the return of middle-income families or government subsidies, the committee for economic development reported Saturday.

The committee, in a study financed by the Ford Foundation and the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, said rapid economic changes have led to deterioration of the nation's great central cities.

There has been a decline in population, jobs, values and economic activities in the older central cities, the report said.

The cores of the cities continue to thrive, the committee reported, while the gray area has developed around it.

The report was based almost entirely on studies of New York City. But the same problems were said to exist in 12 other cities: Baltimore, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and San Francisco.

"The outward movement of people will be matched by an outward movement of jobs," the report said. "Retail trade will follow the populations. Manufacturing and wholesaling establishments will continue to respond to obsolescence by looking for new quarters, and by renting in structures in the suburban industrial areas where obsolescence is less advanced."

Highway Patrol officers said the accident occurred when Patterson's northbound car swerved into oncoming traffic, striking Boatner's pickup head on.

Seconds later, a southbound car driven by Lazaro Samudio, 50, of Los Angeles, struck the spinning pickup. Mrs. Casillas was a passenger in his car.

A FOURTH AUTO, driven by Owen Rafferty, of Los Angeles, swerved to avoid the wreckage, striking a car driven by Marine Robert O. Burton. Both escaped injury.

CHP officers said all the passengers in the pickup were hurled out in the crash.

Killed in the Westminster accident were driver Ross S. Lugo, 27, of 14871 S. Jackson St., Santa Ana; Jesus Lugo, 23, of 624 Daisy St., Santa Ana, brother of the driver, and Richard Bill, 21, of 10891 Peters St., Stanton.

THEIR CAR, traveling at high speed, struck a car driven by Anthony F. Miscione, 29, of 1129 E. Ocean Ave., shoving it into an open field.

The careening Lugo car then collided head on with another car driven by Donald E. Jean, 33, of 7142 Park St., Westminster, injuring him and critically injuring his passenger, Betty Jo Coates, 36, of 2970 Babb St., Costa Mesa.

Miscione, a teacher at Santa Ana-Mater Dei Catholic High School, escaped injury.

Family of 5 on Bay Light 5 Days, Safe

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Coast Guard here said a family of five, including a girl less than one year old, was found stranded Saturday on a navigation light in Corpus Christi Bay, Tex., after a three-day search.

A spokesman said the family of Leslie Schmit, of Port Aransas, Tex., had been on the tiny triangular light platform since Wednesday night, when Schmit's boat sank.

Schmit had removed the batteries from a box on the light and his family huddled inside for shelter.

The fishing vessel Carrol Ann rescued the Schmit family. A Coast Guard patrol boat from Port Aransas, 10 miles away, returned the family to port. The parents and children were taken to Aransas Pass Hospital.

The Coast Guard said the three children were suffering from shock and exposure and the parents were in poor condition.

ROK Colonel Slays Inspecting General

SEOUL (Sunday) Feb. 22 (AP)—South Korea's minister of defense and its army chief of staff resigned today because of the slaying of a brigadier general by a lieutenant colonel.

The minister and the army chief said they assumed moral responsibility for the case.

"I sincerely regret the incident and apologize to the nation as the man responsible for military affairs," Defense Minister Kim Chung Yul said in a statement. "I feel responsible for lack of sufficient proper discipline among my subordinates."

Spokesmen for Minister Kim and Army Chief of Staff Gen. Paik Sun Yup said they were assuming "moral responsibility" for the incident.

IT WAS NOT immediately known whether President Syngman Rhee had accepted the resignations.

The South Korean defense ministry announced earlier that Brig. Gen. Suh Chung Chul, 40, was shot and killed Wednesday by Lt. Col. Chung Koo Sun, 34, in a "fitful burst of emotion."

The ministry said Gen. Suh was inspecting the colonel's battalion and criticized its training program. Col. Chung "reacted in a disobedient manner," the statement said, and the general struck him across the face with a swagger stick.

Chung drew his revolver and fired seven times at his superior, hitting him with four bullets, the ministry said.

Driver, 17, Injured in Car Crash

COMPTON—A 17-year-old driver was seriously injured Saturday when his automobile crashed into a power pole on Artesia St. near Santa Fe Ave. and overturned.

Alfred W. Jepson, of 123 Magnolia Ave., Compton, was admitted to St. Francis Hospital with a broken back and possible internal injuries, police said.

Jepson, who was pulled from his overturned car by a passing motorist, told officers he skidded as he applied his brakes to avoid a rear-end collision with a truck and skidded off the road into the utility pole, which was toppled by the crash.

Solon Asks for 'Story' on Missile

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La) Saturday summoned the Pentagon's military and civilian chiefs for a March 2 appearance before his House Space committee to tell why the Army was rebuffed on its cherished anti-missile missile project.

Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy and Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, were asked to take the witness stand.

Brooks said there is a "split within the administration" and "it is the intention of the committee to get to the bottom of this matter."

How to Fight Without Bull

By SAUL PETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—I was a bullfighter. for a day.

Well, not exactly a day. More like an hour.

And it wasn't exactly a bull I fought. It was a one-wheeled bicycle with bull horns on the handle bars. But it was a brave bicycle.

We fought in a real bull ring, the downtown Plaza de Toros, on Calle de Abraham Gonzales in Juarez, border city of sin and bull-fighting. The horned bike is the same used by Pat McCormick and other famous matadors for practice and by novices for learning the art.

As we drove up to the arena, a man approached and said, "Meester, you want taxseee—girls?" I said no, this was my day for fighting the bull. He looked at my graying hair, my double chin, my belly and spat on the side-walk.

Since this was out of season, the ring was deserted except for a few hired hands and my teacher for the day, Alejandro del Hierro, a thin, dark, handsome matador who has been fighting bulls for 29 of his 47 years.

SUN DRENCHED the arena and wind kicked up the dust. Alejandro frowned at the wind and said if this were a real bullfight, it would be dangerous. The wind could easily tangle the cape in a matador's legs and the bull would charge the legs. I said I would fight, anyway.

We began with cape work. Alejandro said one must remember it is the motion of the cape, not the color, which attracts the bull. The trouble with most beginners, he said, is that they move their body too much and tend to jerk the cape. Cape and arms should move in one graceful, flowing motion.

Students usually work only with the cape for the first two or three months. Then they work against bull horns on a bike or in the hands of a man charging them. Then, if they are good, they face their first small bull after a year and a half. As the novices improve, the bulls gradually get larger, from about 220 pounds to about 1,200 pounds.

Alejandro showed me the three phases of the Veronica, the basic pass. He profiled to the bull, which in this case was a boy named Jose holding the horns. Alejandro held the cape out and Jose charged and the cape swept back and Jose went through and the cape turned so easily in Alejandro's hands and he was ready for the next charge.

I TRIED IT several times. Jose looked a little sick. It must have been that virus going around. Alejandro said quietly that I shouldn't hold the cape and shake it like I was hanging up laundry. He said it also would be a good idea to suck in my stomach or I might lose an inch or two of my waistline as the horns went by.

We graduated to the horned bike, which actually is a wheel and handle bars attached to long wooden handles. Alejandro showed me how to use the banderillas, two light wooden sticks wrapped in gaily colored paper with small sharp iron harpoons at the end. These are used by matadors for angering and tiring the bull and getting him ready for the kill.

Jose charged with the bike. Alejandro quartered him, moving to the side. Then, with great graceful power he brought the banderillas down and stuck them hard into the wood part of the bike.

I tried. Jose charged. I forgot to quarter and he almost ran me down. I tried again, this time getting to one side but when I brought the banderillas down, they

They stabbed only the air. Finally, I got the darned sticks into the wood.

"That's better," Alejandro said, politely. "But you must raise the banderillas and bring them down. You used them horizontally. That way, storm and buried alive. Geologists date the area back between 15,000 to 30,000 years and say it was a sandy beach then. Now it is about 10 miles from the Mediterranean.

WHAT KIND of an elephant is it? So far the experts think it is a mammoth. But they want to make more studies to be sure it isn't a mastodon or another kind of early elephant.

But scientists and police temporarily put aside the old mystery to solve a new one. During the night the jawbone of the skull disappeared. Police started a hunt for it and promptly ordered a 24-hour guard in the site. Scientists couldn't figure out who would want the jaw. They said it had no commercial value and would only interest an expert.

WORKMEN ON a belt highway around Rome uncovered the animal's skull two days ago as they sought to slice through a little hill. A student happening by identified the remains as a prehistoric pachyderm.

So far only the skull has been uncovered. But scientists say the position of the head suggests the animal was buried in an upright position and that the rest of the body is there, too.

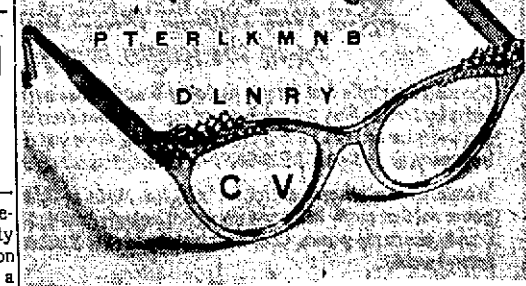

How did it get buried that way? The scientists think it was caught in a sudden sand-

Women Hog Line, Heart Victim Dies

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI)—Two talkative women who refused to give up their party line telephone conversation may have cost the life of a 52-year-old man, the sheriff's office said Saturday.

Authorities said the victim, Anthony Idank, died Thursday night after his son vainly tried to interrupt a telephone conversation between two women so he could call for assistance for his father, who had suffered a heart attack. The incident occurred in nearby Matydale.

FRANK IDANK, the stricken man's son, said the women laughed at him when he told them he was trying to reach a doctor.

you might have caught only the bull's rump and he would have carried you out of the ring."

I TRIED AGAIN, this time near the wooden barrier. Jose charged somewhat impatiently, I thought. My footwork collapsed. Getting out of the way, I found myself, climbing the barrier.

"That is not good," Alejandro said. "You don't go up on the barrier. It is not brave. Besides, it could get you killed and the bull could get killed crashing into the wall. A good bull, remember, is worth $1,500."

I asked about the great moment, the Moment of Truth, the kill. Alejandro said we'd better save that for another day since I seemed to be breathing hard. I asked if he thought I might make a matador some day.

Alejandro said something in Spanish and this in English: "A picador, maybe, not a matador. The picadors ride a horse and help the matadors. The picadors are usually older and fatter."

THE LESSON was over. Nobody yelled, "Ole!" Three male adolescents, probably juvenile delinquents, were lounging in the stands, laughing indecently, in an outrageous display of rampant anti-Americanism.

Several more polite aficionados took me in tow. Like all matadors, they said, we must now go drink the wine from the bota, the goat skin gourd. We went to Pepito's.

Pepito, a short dark man as thin as a jockey, raised the bota high over his head and unerringly the wine streamed into a corner of his mouth, which couldn't have been opened more than an eighth of an inch. Then he did a tricky variation. He aimed the stream of wine at his forehead. It flowed neatly down between his brows, down the side of his nose and into his mouth. He hadn't spilled a drop or gotten a drop anywhere he didn't want it to go.

I tried. The stream of wine caught me in the eye, cascaded down my cheek, mouth and neck. I was able to drink some of it, not neatly but bravely. "Ole!" said Pepito, as I left a tip.

Peace Pipe Too Strong For Allergic President

By J. SERLING
WASHINGTON (UPI)—He was six-foot-two, wore false teeth and turned down a chance to be called "Your Majesty."
He had a vocabulary that would fry asbestos, but he once issued an order which banned any swearing in the Army.
He was one of the most prolific letter writers in American history; one estimate gives 75,000 as the total he wrote during his lifetime.
He was allergic to tobacco smoke and once nearly broke up an important meeting with an Indian delegation when he grimaced while smoking the traditional peace pipe.
He was a notoriously poor speller and couldn't even get the names of close friends right.

HE IS BELOVED as few men have ever been—yet while he was alive, he was castigated and criticized almost beyond belief.
That was George Washington, father of his country—a phrase, by the way, first used on the cover of a foreign language almanac published at Lancaster, Pa., in 1779.
Many of the stories told about Washington may be phony.
The famous cherry tree yarn, which originated in a biography of Washington published in 1860. Modern historians do not deny it never happened, but point out very little is known of Washington's boyhood and that it is strange the cherry tree anecdote never appeared in any other biography.
Washington was a man with human faults and failings. His marriage was unhappy, mainly because he loved the wife of a friend and neighbor to the day he died. He also was something of a hypochondriac. He often complained of illness and in his later years used to tell friends as he left them that it would be the last time he would see them.
HIS MEDICAL HISTORY is obscure.
There was one published report that Washington had six toes on both his feet, but this appeared nowhere else and is undoubtedly false. It is known that he lost all his teeth and wore false ones.

It was the false teeth which ruined the famous Washington portrait by Gilbert Stuart. The image was so unlike Washington that the President's family refused to accept the painting.
The Stuart portrait is accurate in one respect, however. It shows an unsmiling, solemn Washington—which he was. Moody, sensitive, easily hurt by criticism. No president was happier upon leaving the presidency.
All the sniping ceased at his death. The nation mourned him so deeply that the doctors who attended him in his last illness were accused of malpractice. The exact cause of death is unknown, although modern doctors have described the symptoms as those of a strep throat.

3 Beat Chief of Garment Union Strike

TENAFLY, N.J. (AP)—Sol Greene, an official of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, was attacked by three men as he got off a bus near his home Friday night and severely beaten on the head. He required 19 stitches.
Greene, who is active in a strike against 10 New York City jobbers, was taken to nearby Englewood Hospital, where he was treated and released. He returned to the hospital Saturday for a check-up.
At San Juan, Puerto Rico, where the executive council of the AFL-CIO is meeting, David Dubinsky, president of the ILGWU, offered a $10,000 reward for information and asked the FBI to step into the case.
The 10 jobbers involved in the strike, he said, have refused to accept East Coast contract terms in effect for other unionized dress firms.

REAL GEORGE AFFAIR

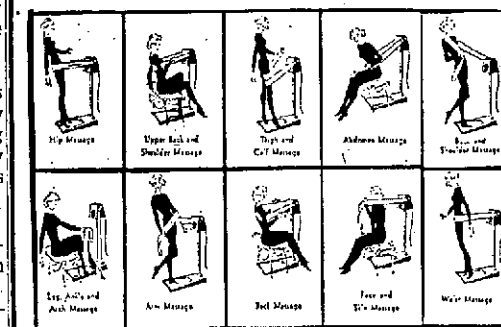

Hoi Polloi Snitch 34 State Seals at Ball

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sponsors of a swank Washington birthday ball here were hopeful but not optimistic Saturday that guests who snitched 34 state seals as souvenirs will return them.
The seals, loaned as decorations by a local department store, are valued at $25 each.
Checkroom attendants at the ball Friday night spotted some of the formally garbed guests carrying the seals home under their coats. One woman pranced out with a seal balanced on her head.
Officials of the conference of state societies which sponsored the affair saved 17 seals and another was retrieved from the men's washroom.
Senators, House members and other government officials were at the black tie affair. A total of 1,500 guests turned out.
"We don't think any of the senators or other officials took them," one spokesman said. No charges will be pressed against anyone returning them to the department store.

Ike Back, Pays Visit to Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower came back from his two-day friendship visit to Mexico Saturday feeling it was well worth while and determined to continue close collaboration on matters concerning both countries.

That was the way White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty summed up the trip soon after the Columbine III returned from an overnight flight from Acapulco, where Eisenhower had five hours of talks with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico.

Hagerty said it is now up to officials of the two countries to follow through on some of the economic subjects discussed, including disposal of cotton and problems relating to U.S. import quotas on lead and zinc.

EISENHOWER PAID a 20-minute sick call Saturday morning on Secretary of State Dulles at Walter Reed Army Hospital. It was his third visit since Dulles was hospitalized.

At a news conference before Eisenhower motored to Walter Reed, Hagerty said of the Mexican trip:

"The President returned to Washington with a feeling he has a friend, and the two Presidents will be in close touch with each other."

DULLES UNDERWENT his second massive X-ray treatment for cancer Saturday.

Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commandant at Walter Reed Medical Center, said Dulles tolerated the one-minute treatment without adverse reaction.

Apparently the treatment was directed at both sides of the abdomen, not exclusively the left. It was on the left side that cancer was discovered Feb. 13 when Dulles was operated on for a hernia.

11 Rescued in Sinking of Vessel

LONDON (AP)—The 1,180-ton German motor vessel Helene B. Schupp sank in the North Sea Saturday night, radio messages heard here said.

A Danish fishing vessel picked up 11 men, the radio message said and one man was still missing.

The Blaavand Radio at Esbjerg, Denmark, reported earlier the German craft was in trouble in the gale-whipped North Sea off Jutland's west coast.

It said the Helene B. Schupp out of Hamburg had flashed distress signals and the Danish fishing vessel Arne Knak immediately went to the aid of the German motorship.

Seas were reported high and rescue operations difficult.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

19 Persons Perish in Home Blazes

At least 19 persons, including 14 children, died Saturday in fires that swept their homes.

Most of the blazes occurred in private homes. Among the worst disasters were these:

At Crisfield, Md., the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miles perished when they were trapped by flames on the second floor of their frame home.

In Los Angeles, Mrs. Carmen Gomez returned home to watch helplessly as a fire—believed started by a cigarette—claimed the lives of her sons, David, 3, and Joseph, 4. The body of Rudolph Rodriguez, 21, her husband, with whom the mother argued before leaving the one-story frame house, also was found in the debris.

At Boston, the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Orland Watkins, ranging in age from 14 months to 12 years, were trapped when a heater exploded near their beds in the living room.

The three victims of the Hanson, Mass., blaze were from a family of 11 children. The father, Richard Sullivan, was able to raise a ladder to save eight of his children, but the three—aged 3, 5 and 9—perished in their second floor bedroom.

Show Ousts Singer

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Tommy Leonetti's manager said Saturday a scheduled guest appearance by the singer on a TV show Saturday night was canceled because Leonetti's name came up in Washington racket hearings.

The manager, Dick Linke, said Leonetti was promised another spot on the Dick Clark Show later—"after this blows over."

Leonetti said he knew nothing about activities of his former manager, John Ambrosia, named in testimony before the Senate Labor-Management Committee.

The committee was told Friday that Ambrosia and others used gangster tactics, including veiled shooting threats, to force use of Leonetti's records on Chicago juke boxes several years ago.

Hayden Reaches South Sea Isles

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Sterling Hayden has sailed his aged schooner into a South Seas port, his ex-wife's attorneys said Saturday.

He left California last Jan. 18 for Tahiti, taking with him four children by his marriage to Mrs. Betty De Noon Hayden. A judge earlier ordered Hayden not to take the children on the trip.

Mrs. Hayden's attorneys said they had been informed by the Marin County district attorney's office that the 98-foot schooner had reached the Marquesas Islands and was riding out a storm at Taiohae.

Mixed Fuel Downs Plane, 33 Prisoners

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A C46 transport carrying 33 men prisoners to federal correctional institutions in Arizona, Tex., and La Tuna, and Texas was forced to make an emergency landing here Saturday because of contaminated fuel it took aboard while refueling at Long Beach.

The twin-engine plane landed at Lindbergh Field without incident. The prisoners were taken by bus to the county jail where they were kept overnight.

CAPT. JAMES Landry of Brownsville, Tex., pilot of the U. S. Border Patrol plane, said that jet engine fuel somehow was mixed with 100 octane aviation gasoline during refueling.

The plane was airborne and en route to Tucson when Landry was notified by radio of the fueling error.

Besides the prisoners, two guards and two other crew

Russ Rift Denied by Nasser

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser, with President Tito of Yugoslavia beside him, Saturday angrily denied there is any rift between the United Arab Republic and the Soviet Union.

He said Soviet Premier Khrushchev has promised to stay out of the internal affairs of the U.A.R.

In a speech celebrating the first anniversary of the Syrian-Egyptian merger, Nasser disclosed an exchange of letters with Khrushchev. He said the letters reaffirmed their mutual friendship despite Nasser's internal anti-Communist campaign.

Nasser told a crowd of 100,000 in Republic Square he had sent a letter to Khrushchev so that "imperialists will not be able to sow dissension between us."

HE SAID Khrushchev's reply arrived Saturday and reaffirmed his solidarity and friendship, despite the ideological differences between the two countries.

"There is an ideological difference between us and Russia," Nasser said. "Every country has its special social system and its special ideology. That is why I talked frankly and sent a personal message to Khrushchev."

At the same time Nasser reiterated a U.A.R. policy of neutrality and asserted his government "will not take orders from London or Paris, or Washington or even from Moscow."

"Some people say we are pro-East, others say pro-West," Nasser added. "But they forget there is an Arab Republic and an Arab nationalism."

Workers to Protest

TORONTO (AP)—Union leaders of aircraft workers said Saturday they are considering a march on Ottawa in protest against the government's decision to stop the Avro Arrow jet interceptor program.

PROGRESS, IN REVERSE

Unstately Outhouse 'Visits' Statehouse

DENVER (AP)—Colorado supposedly is celebrating a century of progress this year, but it didn't look that way at the statehouse Saturday morning, brother.

There on the statehouse lawn was a genuine, honest-to-goodness outhouse.

It had been placed behind the old log cabin which was Colorado's first territorial Capitol building.

Police and statehouse officials set about finding the parties responsible. Turned out it was an organization known as the Cactus Club, a Denver men's eating and drinking club. They said they bought the biffy from a Louisville, Colo., miner for $45.

Officers turned to the City Sanitation Department to remove the outhouse, but the department was closed.

Acting Police Chief Dan Stills refused to take action on grounds:

1. The city has no jurisdiction on state property in matters of this kind.

2. Besides, he said, it might be an authorized rush to the Rockies centennial event.

The latter point drew a sharp denial by William McNichols, brother of the governor and his private secretary.

Finally, the State Highway Department was asked to remove the sturdy wooden structure.

At dusk, however, the not-so-decorative structure still graced the Capitol grounds.

Snow Whips East From Great Lakes

By United Press International
Snow showers raced across the Great Lakes into New England Saturday, with heavy snow squalls battering parts of western New York.

Six inches of new snow fell over the Lacona, N. Y., area, increasing the ground cover to 12 inches.

Although sunny skies failed to push the temperatures above zero over parts of Montana, the sun and southerly winds raised mid-day readings above freezing as far north as Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois. The mercury ranged in the 40s over the Gulf states.

Light rain or drizzle dampened parts of Texas as the warmer air pushed across the plains. There also were spots of freezing drizzle extending into New Mexico. Meanwhile, occasional rain fell over California and Arizona, with some snow over mountain areas.

$15,000,000 Freeway Jobs Budgeted

—(Freeway Map by Staff Artist Parker Markle.)

SAN DIEGO FREEWAY MAP Shows Major Crossings on Eight-Lane Route Angling Through Long Beach

The San Diego Freeway will extend 89 miles from a junction with the Golden State Freeway near San Fernando to the San Diego County line.

By last Jan. 1, 11.5 miles had been completed at a cost of $17,000,000 and 12.7 miles were under construction at an estimated cost of $16,500,000. Total expended for the right-of-way was $50,000,000 and total funds obligated amounted to $84,000,000.

In the 1959-60 fiscal year, the California Highway Department has allocated $15,000,000 to construction projects in an 8½-mile stretch of the eight-lane freeway between Alameda Blvd. and the Orange County line.

structures for the section between Long Beach Freeway and Studebaker Rd. Work will start by late summer on these projects, which include overcrossings, undercrossings, separations, bridges and a pumping plant for a depressed area south of Municipal Airport. Paving will be delayed until these structures are completed. They will require from 18 months to two years.

The remainder of the $15,000,000 will be used for paving 1.3 miles between Long Beach Freeway and Alameda Blvd. and constructing overpasses, underpasses, ramps and one separation in that section.

TOP PRIORITY in construction will go to the major interchange with Long Beach Freeway.

The Spring St. and Cherry Ave. overcrossings and the Lakewood Blvd. and Willow St. undercrossings are expected to receive high priorities.

Budgeted at $1,100,000 are the Spring St. overcrossing and the off-ramp separation at Lakewood Blvd.

Budgeted at $6,000,000 are 14 structures, including additional separations at the Lakewood Blvd. undercrossing, the Los Cerritos Channel bridge, the Temple Ave. overcrossing and the undercrossings for Studebaker Rd., Stearns St., Palo Verde Ave., Woodruff Ave., Atherton St., Bellflower Blvd.-Los Coyotes Diagonal, Clark Ave., Willow St. and Redondo Ave.

Budgeted at $1,300,000 are the Cherry Ave., Walnut Ave., Orange Ave. and Long California Ave. overcrossings.

BUDGETED AT $6,160,000 is paving of 1.3 miles between Long Beach Freeway and Alameda Blvd. with various structures including the Long Beach Freeway separation, Santa Fe Ave. undercrossing, Carson St. undercrossing, McHelen Ave. undercrossing and Terminal Island Freeway overcrossing.

Orange County construction in the 1959-60 budget includes 7.7 miles between Capistrano Beach and San Clemente, costing $7,000,000. This will complete the freeway between a junction with Santa Ana Freeway near El Toro and the San Diego County line.

Now under construction is an 8-mile section between Trabuco Creek and Miguel Rd. costing $4,000,000, scheduled to be completed in July.

Beach Combing

with Malcolm Epley

It's a small voice in a wilderness of time-and-place announcements and calls to order, but I'm happy to note that someone has recognized that there can be too many meetings.

It appears in the current issue of a leaflet called the Unitarian Advance, a news sheet of the Long Beach Unitarian Church.

The Unitarians had scheduled a "parent education" meeting for Monday night, Feb. 23. But before it could come off, somebody saw the light.

The little publication carried this announcement:

"All Unitarians who have children want to be better parents. They join P.T.A. groups, enroll in night classes in child psychology, work in co-operative nurseries and Cub Scouts. One way or another they go to meetings, meetings, meetings.

"Maybe too many meetings... Perhaps one more meeting would defeat the purpose.

"Perhaps the best way to learn how to be a good parent is to stay home and practice.

"Anyway, that's what we are advocating. We ask that all parents stay home with their children on the evening of February 23rd, and glory in familial joy, pop corn, read stories, play games, love one another more than usual."

Here are some features of a proposed master plan for Long Beach.

1. Planting of eucalyptus trees in a central parkway on American Avenue.

2. A splendid drive-way 100-feet wide, to be developed on Ocean Blvd., with a 75-foot strip planted with trees to the edge of the bluff.

3. Except for one or two hotel sites, no buildings to be erected south of Ocean Blvd.

4. Small parks to be plant-

Stanford Salutes LB Grads

Graduates of Long Beach City College who transferred to Stanford University from 1955 to 1958 have maintained one of the highest grade point averages of any junior college students in the nation, according to a report issued by Harvey Hall, university registrar.

The academic report reveals that students who had their freshman and sophomore schooling at Long Beach City College received better grades than students from 48 of the 52 California junior colleges and from 64 of the 72 junior colleges from all parts of the nation.

Average of all grades received by former Long Beach City College students during this three-year period was 3.00, which is a B, the report revealed. The average for all junior college transfers was 2.53.

"WE ARE particularly proud of the high scholastic records established by our former students at Stanford, where academic standards are among the highest in the nation," said Dr. Robert Swenson, dean of the liberal arts division of City College.

"This report is a credit to our able staff of instructors." "More and more students are taking their freshman and sophomore schooling at the City College and completing their junior and senior years at the college or university of their choice. The City College student has the advantage of small classes and excellent counseling.

"Further, he can live at home and save for the expensive upper division years."

Thief Gets Bike Won by Carrier

A thief has punctured the glory of a 13-year-old boy who won a bicycle a week ago for his excellence as an Independent Press-Telegram carrier.

Richard Woolery of 247 Santa Ana Ave. said the bicycle was stolen Friday night while parked in front of the Belmont Theater.

Petite Beauty Contest Still Accepting Entries

Entries still are being accepted by the tourist committee for the Little Miss Winter beauty contest.

Candidates must be unmarried women who are no taller than five feet in their stocking feet. They must be at least 18 years old by March 1 and reside in the Greater Long Beach area.

The winner of the competition will participate in a national publicity campaign to emphasize the pleasant winter conditions here.

THE SEARCH for petite pulchritude is being conducted by the Chamber of Commerce at the Nu-Pike on Sunday, March 8. Contestants will appear in swim suits.

Prizes will include a wardrobe from the House of Nine, a specialty shop catering to small women.

Entries should be submitted to the Chamber of Commerce at 121 Linden Ave., Long Beach 2, according to J. F. McClintock, tourist committee chairman.

LOOKS LIKE A SHORT WINTER

Sandra Glasspoole (center) of Los Alamitos, who weighs 87 pounds and is 4 feet 11¼ inches tall, is first entrant in the Little Miss Winter Contest sponsored by Long Beach Chamber of Commerce. She is pictured with last year's Miss Winter, Loretta Newton, 5 feet 4½ inches tall, and Judge R. A. Reid of the Chamber's board of directors. Contest height limit this year is 5 feet.

Trailer Measures by Grant

By HARRY FARRELL

SACRAMENTO — A series of bills dealing with problems of the Long Beach area trailer coach industry has been introduced by Assemblyman W. S. (Billy) Grant (R-Long Beach).

Most important of the measures, Grant said, is a bill to exempt trailers from the state sales and use tax, if they are purchased for use outside the state.

Under present law, the assemblyman explained, out-of-staters who buy trailers in California sometimes are doubly taxed. They pay sales taxes here, and use taxes when they arrive with the trailers in their home states.

Another of his bills provides for issuance of permits to trailer coach manufacturers, dealers and transporters, for the movement of overweight trailers.

Two other related bills introduced by Grant are technical in nature, he said. One involves the legal definition of a trailer coach; the other abolishes penalty fees for delinquent registration of repossessed trailers.

D.A. Defends Today's Youth

America's youngsters are not going to the dogs in the opinion of Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson.

Speaking at the Western Candy Conference in Los Angeles, he noted Saturday that only 2 per cent of youths under 18 years of age are involved in juvenile delinquency.

McKesson thinks more credit should be given to the other 98 per cent.

"Let's be grateful for the millions of fine boys and girls who are reared in this atomic, jet-propelled, satellite age," he said.

Two Oilers Due Tuesday From Orient

The fleet oilers USS Passumpsic and USS Guadalupe are scheduled to return to their home port of Long Beach Tuesday from tours of duty with the 7th Fleet in the Far East.

The ships are expected to tie up at about 8 a.m. at Pier 9, Long Beach Naval Station. The Long Beach Municipal Band will be on hand to join families and friends of crewmen in welcoming the ships home.

The Passumpsic is commanded by Capt. Donald G. Irvine and the Guadalupe by Capt. H. Marvin-Smith. Their missions in the Western Pacific was to refuel units of the 7th Fleet.

"They were too successful for me," she complains. In both she was cast in the sweet heroine mold. "Now producers can't see me as anything but the pure and innocent type."

But she has played an alcoholic on TV and is now doing a night club act with her husband, Jack Cassidy. In the act, she belts a couple of sexy numbers and does a lot of comedy. When the act played the Coconut Grove here, reviewers commented on Shirley's sexy figure.

Even one producer commented on "the new Shirley Jones" after seeing the act. Then he offered her a part. "It was the same old song," said Shirley, "Laurie" in "Oklahoma!"

It Happened Last Night

GARRY, TAKE THE STAND

NEW YORK—"Garry, are you really happy in your new Tuesday night TV setup?" Garry (leaning back leisurely in his office at 4:30 p.m.): "Yes—today I didn't get in till noon and I'll be out of here in a half hour."

E. W.: "You mean you're lazy—and now you're working less?" Garry: "I figured out I'm doing a 40-hour week now. Oh, I used to have a miserable routine—a car waiting for me everywhere to take me somewhere and take me back. Why, I'm going to Hawaii for two weeks with my wife! We're going to fish and swim and lie around."

E. W.: "Not to be nasty, but what about the ratings?" Garry: "They're higher now than Dinah's. We even knocked off a western. That's something different! Of course our first three or four shows on the nighttime schedule were bus accidents."

E. W.: "Bus accidents?" That's evidently an expression of tragedy around the CBS "Cowboys" (the old dairy building now used by the network at 57th and 10th Ave.). Garry: "I've been getting shows off to a bad start all my life. In 1943, when I teamed up with Jimmy Durante for radio, they almost cancelled us after six weeks. It ran for five years and we cancelled it."

In 1950, when I started the daytime show, one critic said he hoped the public wasn't to be subjected to five more years of such claptrap. He was right; I think we improved it. It ran for eight years.

"In 1953, when we started 'Secret,' everybody threw rocks at it. Now it's in its seventh year. I don't do it on purpose. I'd start out good if I knew how."

E. W.: "When you do some shows in Hollywood is there a chance they might talk you into doing movies?"

Garry: "I'm not interested in the movies. It's dull work. Why should anybody on TV want to go into pictures? Chet Huntley is better known to the average American than a new young movie star."

E. W.: "Did you ever do any pictures?" Garry: "When I was in Hollywood with Durante, David Selznick told somebody to sign me. When I showed up, they said, 'What are you doing with that convict haircut?' So I started letting it grow. Yeah, in 1942, any guy with a haircut was a real oddball."

E. W.: "Where do you get your hair cut?" Garry: "NBC." E. W.: "NBC?" Garry: "The barbershop in the NBC-RCA Building, Nick, chair No. 9. I was working at NBC in 1942 when I started going to him and I've been going to him every two weeks ever since."

E. W.: "When you decided to give up the daytime show for a nighttime variety show, you wanted to do something better. Have you?"

Garry: "I'm learning a lot from Bob Banner who became our director. This guy is so bright. I didn't think I could learn a lot from anybody after being around so long. Now he's got me in everything—singing and dancing—an area I'd never been in. When we had Eddie Albert on, he said Eddie should do 'September Song,' the most performed song every year. I said to him, 'Isn't that the reason we shouldn't do it?' He said, 'That's the very reason we should do it, because that shows that audiences love it. I thought we should start out with everything new!'"

E. W.: "What category do you put your show in now?" Garry: "I like to think it's literature."

E. W.: "It's not intellectual and it's not corny." Garry (musingly): "Nobody ever found a name for guys like us. Fred Allen said in 1950 that five years from then the only people who would still be around would be Arthur Godfrey, Ed Sullivan, Art Linkletter and me. Fred

Vic Mature's All for Free Lancing

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Vic Mature, one of the last of the big names to leave the security of a studio contract, is all for free lancing now. "Four of my old pictures would have killed a free lancer," he once said. "And I've got the reviews to prove it."

Vic said Darryl F. Zanuck wanted to keep him on the Fox payroll with a deal that would now be paying him $13,000 a week. That a lot of money to turn down. "Zanuck thought so too," says Vic. "He hinted that I was a little ungrateful. But what good is money if the government takes away 90 per cent of it? Six months after I turned down the deal, Zanuck quit as head of the studio and gave the same reason."

Vic DOESN'T have to work as much now—and winds up said "You're pointers!" E. W.: "Pointers?" Garry: "That's what Fred called us. We can't dance, but we do; we can't sing, but do. Fred said, 'You can't do anything, so you say, "But look at him, he can do something." And you point. You point at the guy who can do something.' Fred said we weren't really necessary, though; Fred said, 'You could accomplish the same thing with a dog by smearing meat on the actors.'"

That explains why Vic has moved out of Hollywood to Rancho Santa Fe, down near San Diego. "People appreciate me more in the small towns," says Vic.

'War Criminal' Cheats Firing Squad, Hangs Self

HAVANA (UPI) — A convicted "war criminal" cheated the firing squad Saturday by hanging himself in his death-row cell, but 11 of his comrades in Santa Clara jail were executed.

Jose Orestes Rodriguez took his own life only minutes before his would-be executioners came to his cell to get him.

The Santa Clara executions brought to 327 the unofficial total of those executed after revolutionary trials.

Four more men convicted Saturday of committing war crimes under the regime of former dictator Fulgencio Batista were sentenced to death.

Bar Requests Remedies of Red Rulings

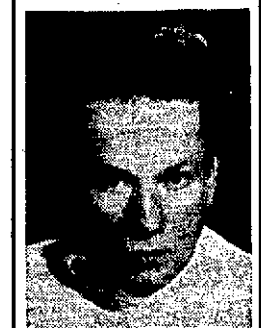

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Board of Governors of the American Bar Assn. today recommended approval of ABA committee proposals calling for "remedial legislation" to counteract recent decisions on communism by the Supreme Court of the United States.

It asked that Congress "promptly and carefully" consider recent Supreme Court decisions and "prepare and pass separate amendments to the laws involved so as to remove any doubt as to the intent of Congress."

The committee called for restoration to the Smith Act of a provision which would make it a crime to advocate intentionally the violent overthrow of the U. S. government or to "teach the necessity, desirability, or duty of seeking to bring about such overthrow."

The 16-member board insisted, however, that it was not trying to "censure the Supreme Court nor attack the independence of the judiciary."

lieutenant René Garcia testified that the Air Force's loyalty to Batista was shaky as early as 1954.

Garcia, a graduate of the U.S. Air Force university at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., said Batista cashiered him and five other officers on grounds of suspected oppositionism five years ago.

The former officer, since leaving the Air Force a Cuban Airlines Pilot, said the "incredible ineffectiveness" of Batista's Air Force against Fidel Castro's rebels proved most of the officers sabotaged the anti-Castro war.

Garcia said that toward the end of the war Batista was forced to import Dominican Air Force pilots loaned to him by Dictator Rafael L. Trujillo.

HE TOLD THE tribunal that Capt. Gustavo Somoano, accused of atrocities, confided to him last year he had "compiled a war record of never hitting anybody."

Another witness, Octavio Navarrete, a Havana accountant, said Somoano said of his bombing missions against the rebels:

"Personally, I would prefer to dump the bombs in the ocean but there are three others aboard so the best I can do is drop them where they won't do any harm."

It was reported Saturday in Havana that the new Cuban government has issued safe-conducts to 42 persons who sought asylum in foreign embassies when the rebels came to power.

Bank Teller Shot, Army Man Held

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (UPI)—An off-duty Army trumpeter was arrested Saturday and charged with shooting down a civilian teller who tried to thwart his $13,373 holdup of a bank on this Army post.

FBI agents and police found $10,000 of the loot hidden in the attic of the home of the suspect, S/4 Charles Thomas Bradford, 26, of nearby Fayetteville. Bradford waived preliminary hearing on charges of bank robbery and murder, and was held in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Bradford played the trumpet in the 100-member Third Army band and was on an 18-day furlough from his post at Ft. McPherson, Atlanta, Ga.

ALMOST LOST WITH YACHT Saved Family Landed by Greek Freighter

By ED KENYON

SAN PEDRO—A former Los Angeles auto dealer and his family arrived back in this country Saturday aboard a Greek vessel that rescued them from their yacht as it was sinking in the storm-tossed Caribbean.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Ard and their daughters, Sharon, 20, Candy, 12, and Sandy, 10, departed from the freighter Igor as it stopped at Los Angeles Harbor to take on fuel.

The Ards had words of praise for the friendly hospitality of the captain and his crew, who gave up their own quarters and supplied the family with clothing after pulling them from their 60-foot yacht as it was sinking on Feb. 5 during a voyage from Nassau to Haiti.

And the captain and crew returned the praise as they related how the Ards had lashed their three daughters to a small dinghy and were preparing to jump into the shark-infested waters when the freighter hove into sight.

ARD, NOW RETIRED and living in Dania, Fla., said his 32-year-old yacht sprang a leak and began taking on water as the vessel was sailing the Windward Passage three days out of Nassau in the Bahamas.

As the Coast Guard was attempting to land a plane in the rough water, the Greek freighter arrived and sent out a skiff to take the family from the yacht. The craft sank 25 minutes later.

The Ards, after more than a month at sea, expect to spend several days resting up on solid ground in Los Angeles before returning home to Florida.

Taxpayers Thanked by Austria Aide

NEW YORK (AP)—Austrian Vice Chancellor Dr. Bruno Pittermann issued a statement aimed for the heart of America as he left for home Saturday night.

He thanked the U. S. taxpayer.

Noting that United States financial aid helped to put Austria back on its feet following World War II, Pittermann said:

"To you, the American taxpayers, go the heartfelt thanks of the Austrian people and its government. Your money has been well invested and if today my country enjoys the biggest boom in its history, it is due to the Marshall Plan and other large projects. Much the same can be said for all free countries of Europe."

The vice chancellor spent two weeks in the United States.

12 Nurses End Phase of Training

Four Long Beach girls and eight from nearby communities have completed probationary training at the California Hospital School of Nursing in Los Angeles.

Jeanean Wylie, Paramount, was honored for outstanding scholarship among the 60 pre-clinical student nurses.

Completing their probationary training were Dorene Farrar, Toni Fielding, Patricia Grant and Ann Koeppl, all of Long Beach; Jeanean Wylie, Paramount; Faye Wallace, Lakewood; Veronica Little, Artesia; Erika Wonsch and Billia Ayers, both of Compton; Judith Holasek and Douaire Donahue, both of Lynwood; and Phyllis Grossman, Anaheim.

Population Rises

PARIS (AP)—France's population rose to 44,800,000 Jan. 1 and is expected to pass 45 million by midsummer.

"PEANUT" HEARING AID WORN ENTIRELY IN THE EAR

A tiny hearing aid that fits entirely in the ear complete with volume control has just been introduced. It is especially good for those who do not want to wear a hearing aid all the time. When in groups, in church, or in theaters, just slip it into your ear and you hear. When not needed, carry it in your watch pocket or coin purse.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Fluoridation Plea Revived

By BEN ZINSER

Another plea for the fluoridation of public water supplies has just been made by a joint committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Society of Dentistry for Children.

Their report says fluoridation is the most effective prevention known for tooth decay.

It states specifically: "Fluoridation of communal water supplies is a safe and effective means of tooth-decay control and should be extended to as wide a segment of the population as possible."

The committee, reporting in the latest issue of Pediatrics, says that 26 million persons currently are drinking artificially fluoridated water. There have been no adverse effects, the committee says.

A RADICAL OPERATION has been developed which may eliminate the necessity of amputating a child's leg in the presence of certain bone defects.

The surgeon cuts the affected bone shaft into two or more pieces, depending on the severity of the deformity. Then he threads these fragments onto a stainless steel rod.

No effort is made to place the fragments in their original position, says Dr. Harold A. Sofield, who reported on 118 fragmentation and realignment operations on 52 children at Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Chicago. The fragments, he says, are placed on the rods to bring them into the straightest possible line.

The technique has produced "solid union" of bone, the doctor told the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons.

AN ENZYME called debricin is proving helpful in promoting the healing of wounds, including those caused by burns. Developed from the latex of the fig tree, debricin has been used in a three-year study at St. Vincent's Hospital of New York City. After observing its effect on 139 patients, doctors there say debricin exerts a cleansing effect on wounds. Applied in a jelly base, the substance cleanses a wound of dead tissue, thins out thick fluid collections and thus accelerates the healing processes.

THE TRANQUILIZER chlorpromazine and other drugs in its chemical family, called phenothiazines, sometimes have to be discontinued because they cause tremors. Now research has developed a phenothiazine derivative that doesn't lead to this undesirable side effect. The new drug is thioridazine, or Mellaril.

UTERINE BLEEDING which cannot be related to any disease in the female organs may be what one doctor calls "separation bleeding." Its cause: loss or separation from a loved one. This loss, says Dr. Marcel Heiman of Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York City, may range from the death of a parent to jilting by a lover. The bleeding may continue for years.

In a study of 28 women in the gynecological ward of Mt. Sinai Hospital, Dr. Heiman found that 73 per cent of the patients with unexplained uterine bleeding had suffered the loss of a love object prior to the onset of bleeding.

DOCTORS ARE seeking more information from their colleagues about a rare disease called familial dysautonomia. To date it has been observed only in 112 persons. Its most striking symptom: babies who have the disease are dry-eyed when they cry. Cause of the ailment is unknown.

A DUKE UNIVERSITY SURGEON has just reported the lowering of a surgical patient's temperature to 41 degrees Fahrenheit—only nine degrees above the freezing point of water. The surgeon, Dr. W. C. Sealy, said this is the lowest point to which a patient's temperature has ever been reduced for surgery.

The patient's heart stopped beating of its own accord, and the body required almost no oxygen. The heart resumed beating when the patient's temperature was raised.

The technique, popularly called "frozen sleep," is employed chiefly for heart surgery. The usual procedure is to lower the temperature to a range of 86 to 82 degrees from the body's normal 98.6 degrees.

Dr. Sealy said the patient's temperature was lowered by a special device called a blood-heat exchanger. It is used in connection with a heart-lung machine.

NEWPORT BEACH—For injuries he assertedly suffered when hit by a speedboat, dairy worker Frank L. Taylor, 23, of Artesia, filed a $750,000 damage action in Santa Ana Superior Court.

He named Newport Dunes, the County of Orange and cities of Costa Mesa and Newport Beach as joint defendants, along with John W. Dooley, as driver of the boat towing the water-skiing Taylor, and James C. Thompson, its observer.

Taylor claimed $500,000 general damages for alleged permanent paralysis and $250,000 for loss of earnings.

Junior High Lad Heads Vitamin-Packed Company

By DON MADDOCK
He's only 14, but Steve A. Pace III has graduated from small businessman to corporation president.

Pace, as head of Western States Vitamins, Inc., may well be the youngest top official of an organization granted articles of incorporation by the State of California.

What's more, vice-president Bill Brewer and secretary-treasurer Mike Kelly, are the same age.

The corporation was set up to package and distribute vitamin tablets. Business places in downtown Long Beach and Belmont Shore are dispensing the product.

THE FIRM buys vitamins in bulk. Its officers, and a woman they hired as a supervisor, then bottle them and distribute them to retail outlets.

The corporation pays them $1 an hour for their work. The business was the idea of Steve's father, attorney Stephen A. Pace Jr.

"It not only gives the boys a source of spending money, but it also gives them practical experience in mathematics and business law," attorney Pace commented.

LIKE OTHER corporation officials, the youths must make out sales tax and income tax returns as part of their paper work.

Since they have an employee, they also have the withholding tax to come with.

Headquarters is the Pace home at 16 Corinthian Wk., where one room is filled with vitamins.

Steve got his first business experience as an independent Press-Telegram newsboy.

HE'S BEEN in the vitamin business about two months, and constantly is seeking new outlets—at least when he's not attending ninth grade classes at Rogers Junior High.

What's the best part of heading a corporation?

"Collecting the money," Pace admitted with a grin.

But that can't be done too often.

Steve is too young to drive a car, so he must pay 40-cent busfare to collect from his downtown accounts.

Accordingly, he makes collections, and replenishes dealers' supplies, once a month.

Cause of Death Not Determined

Cause of the death of William H. Haley, 52, who was found dead in a motel room at 2297 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., Friday, is undetermined pending further microscopic and pathological studies, Deputy County Coroner Henry C. Ehrenkranz announced Saturday, following an autopsy. The body will be sent to New Castle, Pa., by Patterson & Snively Mortuary.

Doctors Hurdle Barrier of Race

By MARTIN MOON

FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—He came to Fayetteville with little more than a diploma and a 98-cent medical bag.

And in those penny-hard depression days, he began his long service ministering to the medical needs of his fellow Negroes.

For his service, Dr. L. M. Donalson, 51, has won praise and recognition.

But no honor can touch the one recently given him. His colleagues—all of them white—picked him to be 1960 president of the Lincoln County Medical Assn.

Nowhere else in the Southland does a Negro head such a white professional group.

do is practice medicine. If legend think doctors should stay in their place and let politics alone. We have no problem in this county at all."

The white doctors who elected Donalson call the move routine. Young Dr. Lex Patrick, the current head of the association, explains that Donalson was a qualified member in good standing and it was about time he took over the president's chores. The election was without opposition.

THE DOCTOR'S arrival in Fayetteville in 1932 after graduating from Meharry, a highly ranked Negro medical college at Nashville 85 miles away, is something of a local legend. Donalson picked Fayetteville because it was so small he could walk from patient to patient. He had no car.

Before boarding the bus in Nashville he bought his equipment: a 98-cent medical bag, one 40-cent roll of gauze, a roll of adhesive, one artery clamp and a stethoscope. With that he set up a practice.

He's not sure he likes the amount of publicity his new medical association office has brought him. Like his fellow townsmen he prefers to take it quietly in his stride.

"If I had known you were coming," he told a recent string of visiting newsmen, "I would have been out some-where hunting rabbits."

such an honor," says James Lemons, Lincoln County Negro leader who is an agriculture teacher at Fayetteville's Negro high school. He adds: "However, Dr. Donalson is highly qualified."

WHITES AND NEGROES alike point with pride not only to the Donalson Hospital but to the well equipped Negro high school, a big new Negro elementary school, and a summer recreation program for Negroes.

"Let the preachers handle this," Dr. Donalson, who has a number of white patients, says of integration. "All I can Naming the hospital for Donalson as well as his selection as association president-elect were accepted locally as the rightful thing to happen to a man of proved ability.

Thus, white and Negro residents of the county were astonished that there was such widespread attention given Donalson's election.

Vacuum Cleaners Replace Men in Sooty Cleaning of Flues

By LEE CRAIG

The time-honored method of cleaning a ship's boiler flues has just about gone by the boards.

Now, in many cases, it's being done by vacuum cleaners.

Under the old system, four men were used on the boiler flues alone. One man shoveled the soot into a bucket, the second man carried the bucket from the flue, the third hauled the bucket out of the boiler room with a rope and the fourth, on deck, emptied the soot into a disposal container.

THIS USUALLY took eight hours and cost a minimum of $1.75 an hour per man. And the men usually looked like coal miners when they were through.

Now, in some yards, a vacuum unit is used. The Alabama Dry Dock and Ship Building Co., for example, figures the savings on only three boiler jobs is sufficient to pay for the entire cleaning system.

Incidentally, the vacuum cleaner used has amazing power. It can draw heavy soot, wet ash and water through 60 feet of neoprene hose from the floor of the boiler room to deck level, 40 feet above.

UNION OIL CO.'S newest chartered supertanker, Torrey Canyon, sister ship of the Sansinena, in port here last week, will call locally on her maiden voyage Mar. 3 with about 500,000 barrels of crude oil from the Persian Gulf.

Named for one of Union's major producing oil fields, the Torrey Canyon, like the Sansinena, is a 60,000-dead-weight-ton island of steel, with a 104-foot beam and a 24-foot propeller.

Both 810-foot vessels—and a third, the Lake Paloude, now ready for launching—dwarf Union's coastwise tankers, Lompoc, Santa Maria and Avila.

The new ships each carry enough oil to fill 1,870 standard railroad tank cars, the equivalent of a train over 15 miles long.

THE KEEL will be laid in a few weeks at Todd Shipyard for the first of two cargo ships called for in a $22 million contract with Moore-McCormack. The job should provide two or three years of work for 2,500 men at the local yard.

ITALIAN LINE'S 32,000-gross-ton turbosessel Leonardo da Vinci, now under construction, will have electrical power plants aboard capable of illuminating a city of more than 150,000 inhabitants.

First-class passengers will be able to relax in a swimming pool heated by an infrared system. The vessel will also have a closed-circuit television system and a water distillation plant having an output of more than 175,000 gallons a day.

National Hero, National Ideal

WE AMERICANS are a funny lot. We make up a tale about the honesty of George Washington. Then we carefully explain to our boys and girls that the story itself (George and the cherry tree) is not a true but an apocryphal account illustrating a character trait of a great man. This soul-searching about a little white lie told in the interest of better morals has the ultimate effect of revealing the respect we have as a people for the truth and the facts.

OUR GREAT NATIONAL HERO is a man of integrity. He reflects a national ideal. While each citizen may not be totally honest, at least the aspiration is a healthy one. And honesty, or a very good appearance of it, is mandatory for leadership. "Honesty" is traditionally the top word on the political poster. Woe to the politician caught violating that virtue. Public vengeance is as swift as a vicuna.

This respect for integrity and truth explains the sense of shock felt by the United States when the Soviets shot down an unarmed American plane and then, despite clear, recorded evidence, flatly denied having done so. Though the Kremlin has told us many lies, we cannot quite adjust to the idea that a government would deliberately adopt the practice of telling lies.

YET, WHERE IS THE PROOF that honesty is among the tenets of communism? All evidence indicates that to a Communist integrity means simply fidelity to the advancement of the Communist cause by any means considered necessary. To fail to use every means is the real dishonesty within their weird, distorted system of thinking.

At the heart of this thinking is a dedication to the material and the practical. But is it really practical to follow a line that leads inevitably to deceptions, falsehoods and cynical, transparent denials?

Virtue is its own reward—but it is not its only reward.

Unless the whole of civilization has gone mad and stepped through the looking glass into the topsyturvy world of reversed, distorted and evaded values, communism is killing itself with its own basic lack of integrity.

Reds Exploit Critical Statements by Senators on American Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON.—Mikhail Menshikov, the Soviet Ambassador to the United States, has violated diplomatic rules by a bold intervention in American politics. Heretofore, throughout American history, such an offense has meant sending the meddling ambassador home.

In this instance, Sen. James William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, should be among the first to demand that Menshikov be expelled from this country. For the Soviet envoy has violated the confidence of the Arkansas senator by arranging for the publication by his son in a recent issue of "New Times" a report of alleged conversations with Mr. Fulbright dealing with American politics.

In the article, the younger Menshikov says he was told, in effect, by Sen. Fulbright that if the Democrats win in 1960, the Soviets will have a better chance to get their way in world affairs.

NO SUCH intimation probably was given by the Arkansas senator. But the article says:

"To what extent is the victory of the Democratic party at the elections likely to affect the foreign policy of the Republican government? Will the Democratic opposition be able and willing to compel the State Department to relinquish its policy?"

"I had an interview in Washington with Mr. James Fulbright, Democratic Senator from Arkansas."

The article then quotes with approval from speeches Mr. Fulbright made during the summer of 1958, which Menshikov cites as criticizing the American government for its Far Eastern and Middle Eastern policies.

The Soviet article went on to predict that Mr. Fulbright would become Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The senator had just returned from a trip to Asia and was full of energy and new impressions.

"In the Senator's opinion one splendid way to promote mutual understanding is through personal contacts and cultural ties. He said that the country was heading for a Republican defeat in the 1960 elections and a change in the government. The State Department would be obliged to some extent to reckon with the new trends in the country and in Congress. But, he added, the President and the members of his cabinet cannot be compelled to do anything they did not want to do, and hence he, Fulbright, did not believe there would be any serious change in U. S. foreign policy in the next two years. He did, however, believe that if the Democratic party were to be sufficiently active in this period, it could prepare the ground for such changes by the time the new elections came around."

Within the last few days, Premier Khrushchev made a speech in which he praised Sen. Mike Mansfield, Democrat of Montana, another member of the Foreign Relations Committee, for suggesting that the problem of Berlin be settled by direct negotiations between East and West Germany rather than by the Big Four powers.

THERE IS no doubt that the Communists are taking every advantage of the practice which has grown up here in recent years whereby senators give the impression, perhaps unwittingly, that they speak for the people of the United States on foreign policy. The Constitution makes the President alone the spokesman of the government in foreign affairs. But, with a divided government in Washington, the world now can't be sure who speaks for America.

Ike's English Awkward

WASHINGTON—For a government information officer to edit President Eisenhower's statements would be akin to a Catholic clergyman tampering with the encyclicals of the Pope. Yet our USIS offices overseas are so embarrassed over Ike's awkward press conference remarks that in some places they have quietly stopped distributing the full texts to the foreign press.

The Cairo office, for one, has gone so far as to discard some transcripts entirely. Explaining why the wastebasket was used, an information officer told this column sadly: "The President of the United Arab Republic was peasant-born and poorly educated. Yet he speaks better English than the President of the United States."

To illustrate, this specialist pointed out some typical remarks for a recent Ike press conference. One was a windy discussion of the Berlin crisis.

"What I do think," the President concluded, "is here is something that has to be constantly studied, explored, and to keep up with the changing proposals, free cities, and that sort of thing, I mean in the free city in the sense of an international sense, not the way we are talking about it that kind of thing. So we have to keep up, abreast of the situation."

Commenting on Quemoy and Matsu, Eisenhower rambled: "Every single day there are new and tough decisions that have to be made within a foreign policy, but if you go back to 1947 and see the statements that are made about opposing the territorial expansion of communism by force, when you go back and see what our policy went into in the effort to develop collective security, mutual aid, technical assistance and that kind of thing that, well, at least will help to make the free world stronger collectively and each individual nation as opposed to communism, that when you come down to it are the basic parts of the policy."

ONE OF THE CAPITAL'S top tourist attractions, the Washington Monument, closed for repairs since Nov. 17, will be back in business on Washington's Birthday. Its elevator, installed in 1928, has been replaced, but tourists who insist on walking can still trudge up the 898 steps to the top of the monument.

Two Top Demos Bow to Brown

TWO FRONT-RUNNERS in the 1960 Democratic presidential sweepstakes have agreed to stay out of the California presidential primary next year unless they're "forced" into it by other Democrat aspirants.

Sens. John Kennedy of Massachusetts and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota will keep hands off Gov. Pat Brown's stake here as a favorite son entry so long as no other Democratic contenders jump into this state's primary.

A RELIABLE SOURCE HIGH in state Democratic councils revealed the Kennedy-Humphrey commitment exclusively to an Independent, Press-Telegram reporter in Sacramento. Brown was thus signaled they will not try to upset his plan to lead a favorite son delegation to the 1960 Democratic National Convention.

However, if any of the other Democrats enter the primary here, Kennedy and Humphrey would consider the California field to be wide open. Prominent in the field now are Sens. Lyndon Johnson and Stuart Symington, Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey, and old campaigners Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver.

GOV. BROWN'S PLANS to lead the state delegation to convention next year as a favorite son were bolstered a few days ago by news Sen. Clair Engle brought him in a visit to Sacramento.

Engle brought word that California Democrats in Congress will back Brown as the leader of such a delegation provided they have the privilege of naming a substantial number of the delegates, possibly half.

The I. P-T reporter was told that the offer of congressional support was not laid before the Governor on a take-it-or-leave-it basis; it was just a general expression of the Democratic congressmen's desire to cooperate and, at the same time, retain a strong position in party affairs.

BROWN REPORTEDLY WAS MUCH pleased with the tidings Engle brought him, though he made no commitment about who should name delegates, and how many.

Assuming Brown leads his own delegation to the convention, and barring his emergence as a serious presidential contender, the delegates from California would go to the convention uncommitted.

In such case there's widespread feeling that most of them might go for Humphrey. Humphrey is reportedly favored by several key Democrats who will probably exert important influence in the 1960 California delegation.

President's Agony Symphony's Gain

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM

WASHINGTON—If ever a man endured the agonies of the bedeviled, President Eisenhower did on Tuesday night. But good soldier Ike did it for a cause, the annual fund drive of the Washington Symphony Association.

The President has never taken pains to conceal the fact that most classical music bores him. Ike likes tunes you can tap your foot to—like "Yellow Rose of Texas" and "Beer Barrel Polka." His taste has clearly been reflected in the lineup of performers at White House musicales—which long-hair critics have protested hardly deserve the description—in recent months.

But the symphony's fund drive needed a shot in the arm, and Ike agreed to attend a concert at Constitution Hall Tuesday night. He subjected himself to one of the longest-haired programs on the winter's schedule—a stately performance of Bach arias and other extremely austere music.

Ike took it with a grin, however, to arouse interest in the symphony.

It was only the third concert he's attended since becoming President.

FOOT-TAPPERS-TO-MUSIC will be happy to know that Chief Justice Warren and Justice Felix Frankfurter of the Supreme Court are members of the club. When the Army band played Sousa marches at the Lincoln Day observance in the Capitol, Warren and Frankfurter tapped their feet in time to the music so vigorously that not even their flowing black robes could conceal it.

SEN. CLIFF CASE, New Jersey Republican, recently joined the ranks of politicians who put out chatty newsletters on a regular basis. Case's latest effort tells about a retired civil service employee who wrote to urge an increase in the pensioner's retirement pay. Case did support the legislation, he says, but not because of that particular communique. It was written on a postcard from California's Tanforan race track. The picture showed the pack roaring into a photo finish.

SEN. NORRIS COTTON (R-N.H.) is virtually the Shakespeare of the Senate. It's almost impossible not to quote from his newsletters. Latest nugget: "If James Otis (the Revolutionary War patriot) thought 'taxation without representation' was bad, he ought to see it with representation."

SENATOR SOAPER SAYS

Hey, Bo, Spend More Time With Your Kids

By BILL VAUGHAN

THE NATIONAL Education Assn. says the juvenile who is likely to become delinquent frequently has a tattooed father. How about spending more time with your kids, Bo, and less posing for cigarette ads?

NOW THAT he has been made an honorary Cub Scout, we anticipate publication of "Crowded Hours," the memoirs of John Foster Dulles' den mother.

A STANDARD figure in our society is the boy who will get a car on his 21st birthday if he doesn't smoke before then. Or, we could offer the lad a carton of cigarettes if he doesn't drive.

PEOPLE are getting careless about profanity on television, and any day now we expect to hear the word "butter" slip into a margarine commercial.

"HIGH SCHOOL students with cars make lower grades than students without cars," it says here in an article which fathers across the land are marking with big, black pencils for all the good it will do them.

Public Forum

Muster a Smile, He Suggests

EDITOR:

E. Curtis Clark, a frequent contributor to the Forum, has deplored every betterment sought on the behalf of city employees as direct attacks on the taxpayer. Possibly it hasn't occurred to him, but city employees pay taxes, too.

PROBABLY they do not pay as much individually as he does, but this is only because they are not as fortunate in owning as much property as Mr. Clark. Basically, it is only because of property ownership that we have city employees. For example, we have police and firemen to protect Mr. Clark's property and his rights to hold and enjoy it.

MR. CLARK should muster a wry smile and give thanks that he lives in a country where it is still fashionable to own property, and where he can protect it by paying taxes.

She's Ready for Trip to Moon

EDITOR:

This lovely city is being invaded by an army of brain-washed pests!

Last year, when my doorbell chimed I flew to open the door and welcome a friend; now, the bell chimes constantly and I trudge to open the door and snarl at the salesperson leaning on the bell. Last year, when my telephone rang cheerily, I quickly picked it up and sang a gay "Hello!" Now, my telephone shrills constantly and I glare at it for a long moment, remove the receiver reluctantly and count to 10 while a sly, unfamiliar voice tries to brainwash me into buying something I don't need or want. Last year, when subliminal advertising on TV hypnotized me into buying unpalatable toothpaste I gave my TV set away. Now, I'm ready to go to the moon! I'll squeeze into a missile, eagerly, any old day. There won't be any bell-ringing strangers there!

Child Centers Do Good Service

EDITOR:

I feel that the California Legislature would be making a serious mistake in cutting down on child care centers. My son is in one of these centers, and I am paying full fee in order to keep him there three hours a day—$7.79. The mother's fee is based upon her income and whatever child support she may receive.

MANY women with two and three children simply would not have enough money to provide private care for their children during the day. I feel it would be very foolish to cut state expenditures here, as it would force many women to leave their jobs and join the ranks of the unemployed, putting a far larger burden upon the taxpayers.

Please don't be penny wise and pound foolish—it would be much more fair if the state did not buy new cars and other questionable miscellaneous items each year. Consider these children—they are our hope for the future.

Sincerely,
MRS. JOEANNE CHRISTENSEN

'Old Masters' Roll Off Assembly Line

By GEORGE ERES

The latest in mass-produced reproductions of famous works of art is coming hot off the assembly line.

Now you can get your reproductions of costly works on canvas, with raised brush strokes, at low cost.

The process employs heat and pressure and calls for touching up by artists to bring out the brush strokes.

It is an attempt to answer one of the basic criticisms of mass-produced reproductions—the lack of physical resemblance to the original.

The item was put on the market in the United States within the past year, and now is available in Long Beach at Walker's Department Store and Frank Bros. Furniture Store. Some 1,500,000 members of the Book of the Month Club will get a tie-in deal for purchases in April.

THE WORKS, including Picasso, Rembrandt, Degas, Lautrec, De Goya, Velasquez, Vermeer, Monet, Van Gogh, Utrillo and Renoir, are offered framed at $29.95.

The paintings range in size from 23½-by-26½ inches to 30-by-40 inches.

Canvases display an "original" three-dimensional look, but on close inspection the reproduction "screen" process is visible.

MILLIONS of mass-produced copies of Old Masters, Impressionists, Post Impressionists, early American and modern American and European painters are sold annually in the U.S.

These, in most instances, are marketed by frame makers who purchase lithographic reproductions for resale. They are retailed in furniture stores, department stores and dime stores, and supermarket owners have even discussed the possibilities of stocking the items.

Long Beach stores do a profitable business in the line. Mrs. Mary Schieber of Sears said the biggest growth of the picture business came between 1944 and 1950 when "people became more conscious of interior decorations in their homes."

Carl Hagstrom of Lakewood May Co. says sales increase each year. He says a certain number of buyers want something "to cover a crack in the plaster," but for the most part he thinks "the American public is hungry for good works of art." He defects a trend for "something of quality" in pictures among buyers.

THERE ARE numerous suppliers of the mass-produced photo-lithographic reproductions. One of the larger in this area, Aaron Bros. of Culver City, employs 125 men in its factory, framing reproductions. The company does a $1,000,000 a year business and puts out between 4 and 5 million art pieces a year. Their products include the standards, Van Gogh, Degas, Utrillo, Monet, Renoir, Picasso, Braque, Matisse, Paul Delaunay, Robert Wood, Ben Shahn and some "old masters." Prices range from $1 to $20.

For a person who wants something original, Aaron Bros. employs about a dozen artists who turn out from 10 to 15 pictures a day in a $40-to-$400 price range.

Al Aaron, senior partner of the firm, says primarily the demand comes from increased leisure time in which the public has become aware of art and popularity of low furniture which leaves wall space unfilled.

NOT EVERYBODY agrees that the boom in mass reproduction of art is a good thing. Some artists are caustic, pointing out that in many instances excellent originals can be purchased for the cost of some reproductions. Original prints, specially, fall in this category.

Jerome Donson, director of the city Museum of Art, said that while technically many of the reproductions are excellent, "seeing a reproduction is about like reading poetry to yourself. It's not the same as hearing it. You don't get the full impact from a reproduction that you get from an original."

HIS OWN VIEW, as a museum man, is that reproductions are "watered down" versions and can be "detrimental since they may cause a rejection of the original without the original ever having been seen. A viewer may come to expect no more from the original than from the reproduction. It's better to start with the original, then if you reject it, you reject it for some real reason."

THE NEW process of reproducing works on canvas and even reproducing raised brush strokes is an attempt to answer this basic criticism. Sellers point out that the new process is as "superior to the old type of reproductions as high-fidelity sound equipment is to the old-fashioned gramophone."

While a question remains as to what happens when reproductive processes get so refined that even a critic can't tell the difference between the original and the copy, one thing is certain—the picture framing business isn't suffering in the slightest.

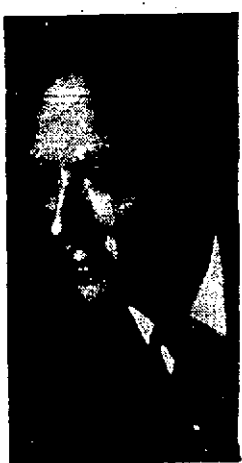

Welfare Conference Speakers Announced

A keynote speaker for the California Association of Health and Welfare conference beginning here Wednesday will be Dr. Leonard W. Mayo, executive director of the Association of Crippled Children.

He will address the Thursday noon luncheon meeting at the Lafayette Hotel. The New Yorker is president of the International Union for Child Welfare.

THE NEW process of reproducing works on canvas and even reproducing raised brush strokes is an attempt to answer this basic criticism. Sellers point out that the new process is as "superior to the old type of reproductions as high-fidelity sound equipment is to the old-fashioned gramophone."

While a question remains as to what happens when reproductive processes get so refined that even a critic can't tell the difference between the original and the copy, one thing is certain—the picture framing business isn't suffering in the slightest.

Abandoned Sub Bobbing Around Mediterranean

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI)—Authorities alerted seafarers Saturday to be on the lookout for a "Flying Dutchman" submarine bobbing around without a crew somewhere in the Mediterranean.

The home-made sub, dubbed the Nautilus, is a 30-footer with a snorkel apparatus. It broke loose from its moorings on the Arno River after a rainstorm about a month ago. No trace of it has been found.

The submarine, built by Florentine members of the National Association of Skindivers, was modeled after the American atomic sub Nautilus and was to have been used in a river procession.

Plan to Cross Ocean in Tank

MONTREAL (AP)—Three Montreal landlubbers plan to drift across the Atlantic this spring in a 3,000-gallon water tank, 18 feet by 6. Skipper Frank Melrsch expects to utilize the Labrador current and Gulf stream. The tank is being fitted with a hatchway on top, cement ballast on the bottom. The three estimate they will hit some point in Europe two months after take-off.

Sports Merry-Go-Round By FRANK HOLLINGWORTH Executive Sports Editor

Characters Abound Around Dodger Camp

VERO BEACH, Fla. — The cast of characters around any of the dozen major league training camps in Florida is legion. Around the Dodger training camp here at Vero Beach, the cast is double-legion.

"I think the word 'daffy' was applied to the Brooklyn Dodgers originally because of the players' antics on the field and BECAUSE OF THE PEOPLE WHO SURROUND THEM IN SPRING TRAINING," chuckled prexy Walter O'Malley over rolls and coffee one morning.

Walter could be right. His prides of Chavez Ravine are surrounded right now by people whose very mode of living is different from—and probably more interesting than—the average John Q. Citizen.

There's Herman, for instance. Nobody knows his last name and nobody cares. He's just Herman. A New Yorker, Herman has been a part of the Dodgers' spring camps for more years than anyone presently connected with the club.

When the phrase "jack of all trades" was coined, Herman was the man for whom it was coined. He runs the Dodgertown post office, is in charge of the laundry and sells programs to fans watching batting practice. He also is an assistant to the press room chief, which means "grief" is his middle name.

"He's our unofficial flag raiser, too," O'Malley added. "On the dot at 6:30 every morning, Herman is out front raising the flag on the pole. Nobody may be watching, but Herman conducts this ceremony with more pomp than many a Marine Corps color guard."

THEN, THERE'S BEANIE. Nobody knows his last name, either. He's in charge of the Vero Beach orange juice franchise. He corrals all the oranges within sight and starts squeezing. That's Beanie's job, period.

"Beanie is a bicycle addict," declared O'Malley. "He is a merchant sailor who goes on the beach for two months to squeeze oranges for us during the training period. Then, he'll take his bicycle, board ship and work his way to Europe, where he'll ride that bike from one art gallery to another. He is an art critic also."

What a parlay—from orange squeezer to art critic.

EDGAR ALLEN IS ANOTHER citizen whose life hasn't been cut from the ordinary 8-to-5 working pattern. A former owner of the Mobile franchise in the Southern Assn., Allen is said to own one of the most fabulous homes in the South, one which overlooks Mobile Bay.

Edgar is the Dodgertown superintendent, but nobody knows why.

"Edgar works like a Trojan at this job every year," interjected a scout who works the Georgia-Florida area for the Dodgers, "and he runs a good camp. But, he sure doesn't need to because he's got enough money to live like a king the rest of his life."

"THEN, THERE'S THE PEOPLE who follow the Dodgers every training season," pointed out O'Malley. "There's a Mrs. Smith, a big, fat lady from New York who comes to Vero Beach religiously each spring. She never watches a game during the regular season, but she never misses one during the spring.

"And don't forget our greatest character from Long Beach who isn't with us this time," sighed the Dodger president. "Charley (The Brow) DiGiovanna was by all odds the No. 1 Dodger zany of all-time. His death has left our clubhouse a solemn place this year where it used to be so happy-go-lucky.

"Charley would go to great lengths to make everybody laugh and he'd never worry either about whose toes he stepped on. Like the one day he said something especially biting to a hot-tempered pitcher named Russ Meyer. Mr. Meyer blew his lid and chased 'The Brow' right out of the clubhouse, the full length of the baseball diamond and back into the clubhouse.

"Russ would have murdered Charley, but fellows like Charley never get caught. They're too carefree to get caught."

By anyone but the Grim Reaper, that is, Mr. O'Malley.

Olmedo, Favorites Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Defending champion Dick Savitt and three members of Uncle Sam's successful Davis Cup team—Alex Olmedo, Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz Jr.—made it an all-favorites semifinal Saturday in the National Indoor tennis championships.

Savitt continued to display the most impressive tennis on the lightning fast boards as he breezed past Jack Frost of Monterey, 6-0, 6-3.

Olmedo, the pride of Peru, outclassed Hugh Stewart of Pasadena, Calif., 7-5, 6-3. MacKay, from Dayton, Ohio, played spottily for a comeback 4-6, 6-4, 6-1 triumph over 37-year-old Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt. Buchholz topped Donald Dell, 10-8, 6-3.

Hot Drills Clinch Job for Fairly

By GEORGE LEDERER (I, P-T Staff Writer)

VERO BEACH, Fla.—Manager Walter Alston partially answered Long Beach's No. 1 baseball question Saturday when he exclaimed, "Someone will have to beat Ron Fairly off this club."

What the Dodgers' skipper means is that Fairly is a cinch to win an outfield job at the pace he set last September and continued during the first three days of spring drills.

"If I didn't know anyone in camp, I'd have to pick Fairly as one of the guys who looks as good as anyone," Alston remarked after the second of Saturday's two workouts.

So far, "anyone" includes Duke Snider, Carl Furillo and Frank Howard. The other outfielders are not due to report until Thursday.

"He won't flinch, but may have difficulty in timing the pitch."

TO OFFSET this possible weakness, Coach PeeWee Reese is encouraging the left-handed Fairly to drag-bunt.

Fairly's composite, batting average in half-a season of organized ball is a respectable .295. He hit .297 in 51 games with Des Moines (Class A), .298 in 18 games with St. Paul (AAA) and .283 in 15 appearances with the Dodgers.

Alston won't say how many

GADES LOSE! LBCC Tied for Lead

SAN DIEGO—San Diego JC defeated Bakersfield, 77-71 in an overtime period Saturday night to throw the Metropolitan Conference race into a tie, with Long Beach City College moving up to share the top spot.

Both Long Beach and Bakersfield have 11-2 records with a game left for each this week. If they finish tied, there will be a playoff game. Long Beach defeated Bakersfield 77-41 Friday night.

"He has a good knowledge of the strike zone, a good top (left) hand and a perfect stroke when he meets the ball," observed chief scout Al Campanis after a session in the batting cage.

"If there is one pitch that may give him a little trouble, it'll be a good high and tight fast ball," Campanis added.

THOMAS LEAPS 7-1 1/4! Five Indoor Marks Fall

(Compiled From UPI and AP)

Five world indoor records were shattered in the 71st annual National AAU championships Saturday night at Madison Square Garden. Nearly 16,000 fans were goggle-eyed as they witnessed one of the greatest record explosions in the history of track and field.

Highlights were Ron Delany's 4:02.5 mile and the all-time world record high jump of 7 feet, 1 1/4 inches by Boston University freshman John Thomas.

Delany clipped his own former indoor record of 4:03.4, and minutes later Thomas missed twice before soaring higher, than any other man in history.

Thomas last week had set a world indoor mark of 7 feet, after a former 7-foot mark was threatened on a technicality, but Saturday he bettered that as well as the 7 foot, 1 inch outdoor mark held by Russia's Yuri Stepanov.

"THIS IS MY last indoor meet," Thomas said. "I prefer to jump outdoors because the landing on sawdust is softer." Thomas predicted a week ago that he would clear 7-1 1/4.

Shotputter Parry O'Brien, 35-pound weight man Bob Backus and three-miler Bill Dellinger from Oregon all chalked up new world indoor marks in the record-smashing carnival but it was Delany, scoring his fourth straight national AAU mile victory, who stole the thunder in the smoky muscle palace.

Trailing Hungary's Istvan Rozsavolgyi by five yards with one lap to go, he blasted over the spike-scarred boards to win by 15 yards as another world's celebrated sub-four-minute miler, Hungary's Laszlo Tabori, finished a distant third.

DELANY DID IT in championship style with a 56.5-second closing quarter which rubbed out his 4:03.4 world record of last year for his 35th straight indoor triumph. St. John's Peter Close set the pace through the first half of the race with a 60 second quarter and a 2:01.2 half. At times Delany was as far back as sixth. Then it became a three-man race as the two Hungarians moved on top, Tabori leading at three-quarters at 3:05 and Delany laying third.

Rozsavolgyi tried to steal the race with two laps to go and momentarily dashed 10 yards on top. But the Irish Olympic 1,500 meter champion drew up with him and then ran him into the boards on the last lap for his world record triumph. Rozsavolgyi's time was 4:03.9. Delany's times were 61.2; 2:02.1 and 3:05.2.

O'Brien, California Olympic champion in the shot, broke his own indoor world shotput record to score his seventh straight national triumph with a heave of 62 feet 1 3/4 inches and didn't find out until later that his shot was eight ounces.

Bruins, Troy Gain Sweep

By NAT LEMMERMAN

UCLA and SC made it a perfect PCC week end at the Pan Pacific Saturday night, each posting league victory No. 7.

The Bruins walloped Stanford, 64-51, after the Trojans had disposed of Oregon in the opener, 76-67. Wait Torrence sparked UCLA with 25 points, 16 coming in the first half.

In the process, Torrence snapped Willie Naulis' Bruin

Torrence hitting consistently from the free throw line and on short jumps, pulled out to a 33-28 halftime edge. Torrence hit eight for eight at the foul line.

JOHN ARRILLAGA, who scored eight of his 12 points early in the second half, posed Stanford's only threat as the Indians cut the gap to 51-46 with eight minutes left.

However, UCLA's superiority on the boards made the difference and the Bruins pulled away.

SC led Oregon by just one point, 31-30, at halftime but John Werhas took charge shortly into the final half, hitting nine points as the Trojans took a 59-52 advantage with 8:10 remaining. Werhas had 16 points for the game.

Finnegan Fights Off Tomy Lee

By MAC MCGUIRE

Finnegan, Neil McCarthy's three-year-old Derby prospect, Saturday became the second horse from the McCarthy stable in less than a month to hang a defeat on Tomy Lee, undisputed champion of California two-year-old racing last year, outgaming the English-bred colt by a head in the $56,000 San Felipe handicap at Santa Anita.

Royal Orbit was third in the mile and a sixteenth event, five lengths back, followed by Friar Roach, Prince Lewker, Fightin' Indian, Die Hard and Monk's Hood. Time over a track labeled "good" following intermittent showers during the afternoon, was a very good 1:43 2/5.

It was just a month ago that Tomy Lee, ranked second to First Landing in the national standings at the end of year, was handed a three-length defeat in his first start

Pro Racquet Stars Vie in L.A. Today

By JERRY WYNN

Probably the four finest tennis players in the world will be seen on the same Pan-Pacific Auditorium court today when Jack Kramer's professional tour arrives for a two-day stand.

The small but regal field will consist of King Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, Prince Lew Hoad, and those kid kangaroos from Australia, Ashley Cooper and Mal Anderson.

Today's matches begin at 2:30 with Hoad facing Cooper. Gonzales meets Anderson at 3:30 and then pairs with him in doubles against Hoad and Cooper at 4:30. Play will start at 8:30 Monday night with Sunday's winners and losers playing each other. The doubles lineup stays the same.

PRINCE HOAD

As usual the spotlight will be on Gonzales, the rags-to-riches racketeer from the public parks of Los Angeles. Tempestuous Pancho played far below form in winning only one of five January tournaments when the 1959 tour opened in Australia. Reports indicated that he was too busy carrying on a personal vendetta with the tennis-mad Aussie fans to concentrate on his own game.

But Pancho is never to be underestimated as he proved last year when after falling behind to Hoad, 18-9, in their two-man caravan, he came back brilliantly to win the series, 51-36. Moreover he'll have the additional incentive this year of seeking to bypass boss Kramer and become the only five-year pro champion.

Gonzales will have his work cut out because he will have to beat a revenge-bent Hoad and the two youngsters who stunned the net world by their records since turning pro at the start of the year.

Hoad, who won two of the five Australian meets, is at the top of his game. The Blond Bomber with the unorthodox windmill serve, contends that he would have beaten Gonzales last year but for the severe rheumatism which plagued him during much of the tour.

Cooper, the 1958 U. S. Australia and Wimbledon champion, already holds pro wins over Ken Rosewall, Pancho Segura, Frank Sedgman and Gonzales. Anderson, the 1957 U. S. title, has beaten Tony Trabert and Segura.

Each player will receive $1,500 a match. Additional prize money is $600 to the winner of the feature match, $300 to the loser; $400 to the winner of the first match, $200 to the loser. In all, $90,000 will be at stake in the 60-match tour.

Once Over Lightly

Williams Nice—to Those He Trusts

As one observer once pointed out: "One of the fictions about Ted Williams is that he is a coarse fellow who wends an embittered way around the base paths, mouth full of spit and heart full of hate, a self-appointed idol of swat."

Williams' friends and the ballplayers themselves, however, are quick to say this is not true. Ted is a warm person "who'll give you the shirt off his back... if he likes you or trusts you," they say.

Ted's early life in San Diego produced a chip on his shoulder that is still evident on occasions. And he still freezes up when someone mentions his boyhood.

Of his family, Ted speaks only to his mother, a Salvation Army worker in San Diego. Although he rarely sees her, he talks with her on the telephone from time to time. He has neither seen nor spoken to his father or brother for more than 20 years.

Ted was never close to his father who spent most of what he earned on "fun," while his brother once was listed by San Diego police as the city's most incorrigible youth.

WE RELATED ONE NOTORIOUS incident involving Ted's brother once before. Just before Williams left for his first spring training session with the Boston Red Sox, Ted bought his mother a houseful of new furniture.

But Ted had no sooner boarded the plane for Florida, when the brother backed up a moving van to the house, moved out the furniture and sold it.

Much of Ted's early run-ins with the press and with other people were due greatly to his being so sensitive about his background.

But what about all the Boston stories about his terrible temper and how he and the public hate each other? He seems to be able to keep out of trouble most everywhere else.

"I'm not in trouble in Boston, really," he explained recently. "Only with a little gang of writers who keep trying to out-screwball each other. It all started in my second year. I was only 19 and I'd never been anywhere and I didn't have any guidance. I was having a good year, hitting .348, when some of those fellows began riding me and saying I was having a bad year because I only had 22 home runs. I said some things I shouldn't and it grew from there."

"Some of the stuff they've brought up since then just isn't true and our 'feud' has naturally grown."

TED POINTS OUT THAT THE more vindictive writers have even gone so far as to write about his voting record, or rather the fact that he never has voted.

"This has been largely a matter of residence," Ted explains. "I was not old enough at first, and then I was moving around all the time. And then there was the service."

An experience in 1952 undoubtedly has led to his continued "no vote" record during the past few years, but Ted won't reveal what happened.

"I was a great admirer of Senator Taft of Ohio and I wanted to vote for him if he got the nomination in 1952," Ted says. In fact, it is said he wanted to actively campaign for the Senator.

"However, I changed my mind—it doesn't matter why," Ted says. But whatever happened, he was bitter enough to want to change his prospective vote from Republican to Democrat.

"I was in the Marines then and I wrote Florida, my official residence, to try to register so I could vote Democratic even if they nominated Andy Gump, but they wrote back I'd have to register in person, and the Marines wouldn't go for the trip... so I just forgot about it."

TED WAS ASKED A COUPLE of weeks ago why, at the age of 40, with a lucrative fishing tackle business on the side as well as interests in other enterprises, is he still playing ball? Has he some personal goal?

"No, I have no goal," he replied. "There's no particular record I can set at this stage. I can never get back those five years of World War II and Korea. But, then, I'm not interested in records. I'd never paid much attention to statistics. I'm still playing because I like it."

It was noted that Ty Cobb played until he was 43 and that the all-time great says that Williams could do the same if he stays in shape. How about it?

"Right now," he said, "I've got a one-year contract. And I hope I can play the whole year. That's all I'm looking ahead to right now. I won't think about future seasons until I come to them."

Would he like to stay in baseball in a non-playing capacity? If not as a manager, perhaps then as a coach or possibly in a front-office job?

"Of course I would," he admitted. "I'd like to prove I can do it. Baseball is a great game. I would always be proud to be associated with it."

It is well known that Ted has managerial ambitions, but it is doubtful if he would accept anything under a Triple-A manager's post... and then only with a definite assurance of a major league job within a year or two if he proved himself.

Texas Lead to Jacobs

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Tommy Jacobs, a sophomore on the golf tour, shot a 5-under-par 65 Saturday to take the lead at 54 holes in the $20,000 Texas Open.

The blond 24-year-old from Whittier, Calif., was six strokes behind with 142 starting the third round. But his 65 fashioned with some fine putting, gave him the low round of the day and a one-stroke lead with a score of 207.

Bill Johnston of Provo, Utah, the defending champion, moved into second place with a 70 for 208.

Jacobs had trouble with his putts the first two rounds, but Saturday he had a 25-footer on the 13th hole, a 17-footer on fifth and a 15-footer on sixth. The leaders:

outfielders he will carry during the season, but chances are it will be six and Fairly will be one. Last year there were only five, including Junior Gilliam, the swing man who also played 65 games in the infield.

Alston's present plan for more platooning will cut the number of pitchers from 11 to 10 and the catchers from three to two.

NOTING considerable progress in the performance as well as the attitude of first base candidate Jim Gentile, Alston has stamped the big slugger as a serious contender for Gil Hodges' job.

"He certainly could give us the power we've been lacking," Alston believes Gentile can be valuable to the club if he hits .240 and lives up to his minor league home run record. In six and one-half seasons, ranging from Class C to Triple-A, Gentile has hit 191 homers, an average of 29 per season.

Gentile hit 40 homers and drove in 115 runs while batting .296 for Fort Worth (Texas League) in 1956. He is 24 years old.

Saturday's sundries: Wear Craig and Sandy Koutax pitched batting practice for the second time in three days. Larry Sherry also took a 15-minute turn as a batting pitcher.

The squad was split on two fields. The morning session was devoted to fundamental instruction. Bobby Braun worked with the catchers, Pete Reiser with the outfielders. Joe Baker and Clay Bryant with the pitchers and Ray Reese with the infielders.

Pitcher Bobby Chalmers reported a sore muscle in his left forearm. He had the same trouble in 1957 when he came to Dodgerstown as a batting practice pitcher. Then went on to win 30 games (at Reno and in Mexican winter ball) during the calendar year.

L.B. Brethren Lose, Henry Scores 32

Avalon High dumped L. B. Brethren, 61-49, Saturday in a Prep League contest. Long Beach's Max Henry scored 32 points for high while Mike Burgess scored 22 points for the Avalon five.

Washington State edged the Washington State Cougars, 82-80, Saturday night as the Huskies' Doug Smart got 19 points and set an all-time career scoring mark of 913 points in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Speed Carnival Win to Matthews

DAYTONA BEACH (AP)—Stocky, bespectacled Edwin (Banjo) Matthews of Asheville, N. C., driving a 1956 Ford powered by a 1959 Lincoln engine, sped to victory Saturday in the 200-mile modified-sportsman race featuring the second day of the three-day speed carnival at the New Daytona International Speedway.

Matthews averaged 134.65 mph for his 80 laps over the wind-swept 2½-mile course. Going to the front with Fireball Roberts of Daytona Beach leading through the 24th lap in a 1955 Ford, Matthews made his first of three pit stops on the 25th lap and then stayed in front.

Roberts was leading by a mile and a quarter after the 24th lap when he developed manifold and supercharger trouble. After pit stops on three consequent laps, he gave up the race.

A crowd estimated at 25,000 watched the race. The carnival will be climaxed by a 500-mile race for all models today.

Matthews won $2,400 Saturday, the largest purse of his career. Today's prize money totals about $70,000, with the winner collecting

OVER PEACOCK Cervantes Gains Nod

Felix Cervantes won almost every round Saturday night in scoring a one-sided 10-round decision over former bantamweight contender Billy Peacock at Hollywood Stadium.

Cervantes, 125½, Mexican, lived up to advance billing as a 3-1 favorite as he counter-punched his way to victory over Peacock, 123¼, Los Angeles.

Referee John Thomas scored the fight 99-94 for Cervantes; Judge Joey Olmos had it 100-92, and Judge Reggie Gilmore 99-92.

7TH LOSS IN ROW

San Diego State Rips 49ers 84-64

By JERRY WYNN

SAN DIEGO — Like that Old Black Magic, Long Beach State College continued to go down and down. Saturday night, it was CCAA-title hungry San Diego State which devoured the 49ers, 84-64, before a rabid home crowd of 1,800.

The poised, fleet Aztecs roared to a 52-29 halftime lead with 53 per cent shooting, and while Long Beach came back strong in the final 20 minutes, it did little but save face.

On the subject of pride, LBSC coach Bill Patterson, a former San Diego High and San Diego State star himself, got a break. Listed as Long Beach coach in the program was Charley Church.

But one 49er who didn't take a back seat to anyone Saturday night was big Dick Dickinson. The 6-7 center turned in his finest game in scoring 18 points and grabbing 19 rebounds. Fast-improving Jim Taylor, who tallied 12, and Ivan Schuler were others who played well.

FOR THE AZTECS, who solidified their hold on first place in the CCAA which they took possession of Friday night with an overtime victory over Fresno State, swift guard Blake Neal was top gun with 20 points. Al Brown hit for 18 and Bernie Finlay 14.

San Diego broke open the game early in the first half with a nine point burst for an 18-10 lead, and then continued the onslaught with 11 straight points to wing away 29-13.

It was Long Beach's seventh straight loss.

Bob Kelley Says—

The Stanford Influence at SC

PALM SPRINGS—Is Stanford behind the Trojans' athletic retrenchment?

SC president Norman Topping stunned the old grads last week by refusing to go along with the Northwest schools' new "free ride" plan.

"Our lads will continue to work 250 hours a year to pay their way," said Topping. This made Jess Hill and Don Clark choke on the quotes they'd issued the day before, declaring the Trojans were all for the free ride routine themselves.

"Don't let it fool you," an SC alumni power told me at the Thunderbird Country Club Saturday. "That's only the Stanford influence."

I wrinkled a brow or two, and the man continued. "The Trojans want Stanford in this new conference. They haven't come in yet. But they will by July 1 when the old PCC officially dies."

"As you know, Stanford is very conservative about its athletic programs. It frowns on the free ride. So if you guess that the Stanford influence is being felt by the SC Board of Regents, and Topping in turn, you won't be far wrong."

"But wait till Stanford is in the new Conference this summer. You might get a different statement about the Trojans' athletic policy then."

"Like maybe they'll go for the free ride?" I wondered. "Like, yeah, they probably will," replied the informant.

REMIND ME TO ASK Buzzie Bavasi where Steve Bilko figures in the Dodgers' plans for 1959.

Near as I can tell—he doesn't.

Club press releases have talked about everybody but Big Boy.

Other day, I read one about Charlie Neal being aided by the fact that the right-center fence has been moved in.

But nobody has mentioned Stephen in the Dodgers' '59 plans. So I assume he doesn't fit. And will probably wind up working for Bobby Bragan in Spokane.

I HAVE THE SUSPICION (which is a polite way to put it, in case Bavasi gets ahold of this column) that Bilko was cooked when the Dodgers first took over the Angels in 1957.

Clay Bryant was not as impressed with Steve's ability as had been Angel fans.

From there it may have spread to the point where Mr. Bilko and the entire Dodger organization turned in their cards in the Mutual Admiration Association.

Why the club took Bilko in a trade with Cincinnati last season, I don't quite understand at the moment.

Remind me to ask Buzzie about that, too.

Will Salary, Discipline Squabbles Beat Yanks?

By JOE REICHLER
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., (AP)—Will the salary squabble between the New York Yankees and front office and the disciplinary darts hurled by Manager Casey Stengel affect the Yankees' chances for a fifth straight American League pennant?

YOGI IS READY

Yogi Berra, long-time Yankee catcher who also played the outfield last season, is working out at first base during spring training. Here the Yankee triple-threat reaches for the catchers, first baseman and outfield gloves thrown him by handyman Casey Stengel.—(AP Wirephoto.)

The Indians and Tigers are regarded as the most improved clubs in the American League. The Yankees still are head and shoulders above the rest of the league. They're strong everywhere except in left field and perhaps in the bullpen.

Detroit has strengthened its pitching with the acquisition of Nalieski and Mossi but still needs more punch in the infield and behind the plate. Cleveland has acquired speed and hustle in Martin and has Score to go with Sophomore hurlers Jim (Mudcat) Grant and Gary Bell.

The White Sox, still lacking punch, have the pitching but the burden may again be too great to carry. Al Lopez must get good years out of veterans Nellie Fox, Al Smith and Sherm Lollar, as well as youngsters Luis Aparicio, Jim Landis and Johnny Callison.

Will there be a pennant race in either league?

THESE AND OTHER questions stood out boldly on the baseball horizon today as the 16 major league teams assembled their hired hands for the serious business of preparing for the 1959 season.

As in the past year, a dozen clubs are basing in Florida. The others—Cleveland, Boston, San Francisco and the Chicago Cubs—are training in Arizona. A majority of the clubs already have gotten under way. By the end of the week, all will be in action.

To the surprise of no one, the defending champion Yankees and Braves have been installed as odds-on favorites to repeat. The betting fraternity has established the Yankees as 1-2 to win the American League flag and the Braves 4-5 to cop the National League title.

Tourney Begins Saturday

By JERRY WYNN

The third annual Long Beach Masters—the elite golf tournament in which only the club champions of Virginia CC, Recreation Park, Lakewood and Meadowlark compete in 72-hole medal play on all four courses—will begin Saturday.

First round is scheduled at Lakewood; second at Meadowlark Sunday; third at Virginia Saturday, March 7, and fourth at Recreation Sunday, March 8. Tee-off time stays at 11 a.m.

The field will be without a defending champion inasmuch as Craig Olson of Lakewood, the 1958 victor, failed to retain his club title—the one prerequisite for a Masters berth.

at Recreation Sunday, March 8. Tee-off time stays at 11 a.m.

The field will be without a defending champion inasmuch as Craig Olson of Lakewood, the 1958 victor, failed to retain his club title—the one prerequisite for a Masters berth.

ONLY RETURNEE from last year's event is Neil White of Virginia, who finished second. The former California State champion vowed he'd be back for a second shot, and he did it the hard way by defeating Jim Ferrie in the Virginia club finals. Ferrie won the inaugural Masters in 1957, but has failed to qualify since.

Challenging White for favoritism this year will be Olson's conqueror at Lakewood, John Richardson. A powerful and precise player, Richardson also landed down the Palos Verdes CC crown and is regarded by many as possessing the finest swing in L.B. golf-dom.

Recreation Park's candidate is Herb Bodnar, who came away unscathed in probably the toughest club championship of the four. While minus a tournament record of stature, Bodnar displayed his capability at the 1958 State Championship by shooting an even par 72 at Pebble Beach to qualify for the select championship flight.

A COMPARATIVE newcomer to L. B. golf and the one who rates the darkhorse role for Masters honors is Chet Woish of Meadowlark. The chief of the U.S. Border Patrol in the West is a tournament veteran with an impressive record on the East Coast.

To the victor will go the giant Independent, Press-Telegram Perpetual Trophy to be kept at his club and an individual trophy. Merchandise prizes in value according to finish will be awarded to the players by the club professionals at the four courses—Joe Robinson of Virginia, George Lake of Recreation Park, Jimmy Ireland of Lakewood and Frank Cormaci of Meadowlark.

The tournament is conducted by the PARTICULARS column of this paper with the cooperation of the participating clubs.

New 6-Team Cage Loop?

SPOKANE (AP)—A six-team Northwest College Basketball Conference, made up of four Pacific Coast Conference teams and Seattle and Portland universities, definitely is being considered for the 1959-60 season, Spokane Chronicle sports editor Bob Johnson said in a story Saturday.

The PCC teams are Oregon State, Idaho and Washington State. They met earlier in the week to set up a new aid-to-athletes program.

St. Mary's clinched at least a tie for the WCAC championship Saturday night by nipping Pepperdine, 78-75, despite the 24 points of Sterling Forbes.

U.S. Slalom Crowns to Werner, Meyers

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI)—Linda Meyers and Bud Werner, a pair of fearless mountain skiers, won the men's and women's North American Ski Championship slalom events Saturday.

Driving down steep KT-22 with reckless abandon, Miss Meyers, from Bishop, Calif., and Werner, from Steamboat Springs, Colo., out-distanced their rivals in the important trials for the 1960 Olympic Games. Werner was timed in 2:13.9.

Miss Meyers, who works in a mountain resort in the summer and skis at the same Mammoth Lakes, Calif., resort in the winter, put together runs of 59 and 61.7 seconds on the 50-gate slope for a timing of 2:00.7.

Second place went to Stalina Korzukhina of Russia, who was clocked in 2:01.4, with runs of 61.9 and 61.1.

Christian Pravda of Sun Valley, Calif., and Austria, finished second to Werner in timing of 2:14.9.

Sally Deaver of Philadelphia, the women's favorite, finished third in 2:01.7, followed by Renie Cox, Port Ledyen, N.Y., in 2:03.1.

WERNER PUT ON A spectacular display of skimpship as he squirmed in, out and around the 57 gates of the course without anything resembling a slip during the treacherous descent. He made the first run in 67.1 seconds, the second in 66.8.

Winning an alpine event here does not place the victor on the U.S. 1960 Olympics team. There are three other qualifying meets for both men and women.

Top foreign entry among men was slim Osamu Tada, 22-year-old Japanese champion, with a time of 2:16.4, good for fourth place on runs of 67.6 and 68.8. He did a somersault on his final run but recovered beautifully to hold high ranking.

The men raced a course approximately 2,000 feet long, about the same as will be utilized in the Olympics. The

Widener to Bardstown

MIAMI (AP)—Seven-year-old Bardstown showed younger horses how to run Saturday, then survived a foul claim to win the $137,600 Widener Handicap for the second time in his career.

The Calumet Farm gelding, carrying high weight of 124 pounds, ran a brilliant race under jockey Steve Brooks. Claiborne Farm's Nadir finished a length and a quarter behind Bardstown and jockey Willie Hartack claimed foul. But the stewards did not allow it. Bardstown paid $4.80 to $3.40 and $3.20.

'Cats Stop Auburn

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky shattered Auburn's 30-game winning streak with a balanced attack and defensive pressure Saturday night, 75-56, in a prestige-packed Southeastern Conference basketball game.

A hot-shooting first half wrapped up the decision for the third ranked Wildcats that snapped the nation's longest winning streak for the second ranked Auburn club.

Kentucky raced to a 46-26 lead at halftime and was content to play it cautious the final round, staying in front by 16 to 19 points.

Johnny Cox and Billy Ray Lickert each tallied 18 points in the Wildcat attack.

Others returning signed contracts were catcher Clint Courtney of the Senators ($18,000) and Luis Aparicio of the White Sox ($25,000).

Ramon Monzant, right-handed pitcher who had an 8-11 record with the Giants last year, said Saturday he had asked for his release.

Wade Tops NFL in Yardage

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eddie LeBaron, Bill Wade, John Unitas and John Brodie were the leading National Football League passers in 1958, final league statistics show.

LeBaron, diminutive Washington quarterback, gained an average of 9.41 yards for each pass he tried to lead in this category, the one on which the league bases its championship.

WADE, of the Rams, gained the most yards passing, 2,875. San Francisco's Brodie had the best completion average, 59.9 per cent, and Unitas threw for 19 touchdowns in leading the Baltimore Colts to the league title.

Milhorn, Carmichael in Near-Deadheat!

Big Aron Carmichael and little Jim Milhorn staged one of the closest scoring duels in Long Beach prep records this season—and both came out on top.
Carmichael, Poly's limber-legged center, won the Moore League individual scoring championship with 199 points in eight games for a 24.8 average.
Just a jump back was the Jordan star with 185 points in eight games, averaging 23.1.
But for the entire schedule, Milhorn has the edge. His 475 points in 23 games averages out to 20.65. Carmichael has tallied 482 points in 24 games for a 20.08 mark. (Carmichael still has CIF playoff competition in which to boost his average.)

Statistics:
Carmichael 199 points 24.8 average
Milhorn 185 points 23.1 average

Rams Sign 2 From Baylor

The L. A. Rams, who may be forced to change their team name to Texans unless things are changed, adding two more Baylor players to their roster Saturday, making a total of five from that school.

Tackle Paul Dickson and fullback Larry Hickman signed their contracts Saturday, thus joining veterans Del Shofner and Charley Bradshaw and rookie quarterback Buddy Humphrey on the roster.

Dickson, a first round draft choice, weighs 245 and stand 6-4. A three-year letterman, he was rated the finest offensive tackle at Baylor in quite a few years. He's an effective blocker on short yardage line plays and fast enough to be effective down field.

Hickman, 6-2 and 225, was a third round draft choice.

of 1959 by Ole Fols, Finnegan's stablemate. That was in a six-furlong event and Ole Fols established a new track record of 1:08 4/5.

Finnegan, named for his nationally-known trainer, jovial Bill Finnegan and sired by an imported Irish stallion, Royal Charger, was completely overlooked in the wagering due to a disappointing showing in his last start and paid a generous $26.10, $7.30 and $4.10 across the board while Tomy Lee, odds-on favorite of the 35,776 fans, returned $3.10 and $2.50 and Royal Orbit rewarded at $3.20 for the show.

It was a very cleanly run race and the only excuses any but the first two finishers could offer was that Prince Lewker carried some of them just a trifle wide going into the first turn.

FIGHTIN INDIAN, as expected, took the top for jockey Johnny Longden before hitting the clubhouse bend but he couldn't get away from Tomy Lee and Bill Shoemaker, his margin never being more than a head all the way to the far turn. Monk's Hood tried to stay with the first two but found it impossible to maintain the swift pace and dropped back, along with Prince Lewker, who also had been fairly close up.

Finnegan started moving swiftly for Bill Harnatz at this point, going up fast slightly out from the rail and midway around the turn it was evident that Tomy Lee, who had assumed a clear lead from Fightin Indian, would have a race on his hands from there to the wire, so steadily was Finnegan gaining.

At the eighth pole the McCarthy colt drew up on even terms with Tomy Lee and though the latter bore out slightly, Finnegan slowly edged past the English colt to win the $32,900 first money.

Off Track Forecast

Round Table was entered Saturday in the $50,000-added Washington's Birthday Handicap at Santa Anita on Monday, but week end rains may keep him from starting.
Heavy rain hit the track Saturday and the forecast is for showers to continue through Monday. Round Table has been assigned 134 pounds for the race, more than he has ever carried.

Dodgers Eating High Off the Hog

VERO BEACH, Fla.—A look at Dodgertown's dinner menu may explain why Manager Walt Alston is working his squad twice daily. If he didn't, the Dodgers would eat themselves right out of the league.

"Choose from the traveling dessert tray," writes the chef. "Pies, pastries, cakes, cheese . . . all so good, so mouth-watering, you should let yourself go, just this one time."
The only trouble is that the temptation is there daily. The bill of fare hasn't changed since Tuesday.

The Dodgers' dining hall is not recommended for calorie counters. Among the other items:

U. S. CHOICE FILET MIGNON—"Selected cut from choice steer tenders, broiled to savory perfection; served with baked potato, French fried onion rings, choice of salad and desert" (from the traveling tray, of course).

U. S. choice rib steak (boneless)—"Aged to the peak of flavor and then broiled to preserve every ounce of goodness."

U. S. choice New York cut strip sirloin—"Choicest beef money can buy, fully aged, broiled to your individual taste."

One-half broiled or fried chicken—"Each tender young chicken is 2 1/2 pounds minimum weight and prepared with pride in the Old South manner."

Grilled calf liver—"Tender beyond compare."

All this and Alston still claims there isn't a weight problem in camp.

Well, we'll just weight and see.

BIG FRANK HOWARD, who yes-and-no-sired everyone from Alston to the bat boy last year, is at it again.

While watching Howard bat against the Iron Mike pitching machines, Alston asked, "Frank, do your hands hurt?"

"No sir," replied Howard.

"Are you sure?"

"Yes sir. I don't lie, sir."

CATCHER JOE PIGNATANO returned from Dominican Republic winter ball with a "can't miss" tag on Giants outfielder Felipe Alou.

"If this guy doesn't make it, the world is upside-down," says Piggy. "He hit .368 and led the league in everything except home runs. And it was a pitchers' league, too, with only three .300 hitters."

Pignatano, an early season sensation, just missed with .288.

DODGER VICE-PRESIDENT Fresco Thompson tells the story of Wayland Dean, a Giants pitcher in the John McGraw era, who one season was fined more than he earned, yet picked up enough bonus money to wind up $500 to the good.

"Dean's salary was $5,500, but one year McGraw fined him $6,000 and he still came out ahead. He'd be out late one night and it would cost him $500. But if he pitched well in his next game McGraw would slip him a check for $350. And so it went all season."

"If Dean had been on his good behavior, he could have made $13,000, which was a lot of money in those days."

COACH CHARLIE DRESSEN added that McGraw had an automatic fine for any pitcher who threw a change of pace after the batter had two strikes.

"And you know what his rule was for the hitters? Just the opposite. He'd fine anyone who swung at a change before he had two strikes."

Fishin' Around

By DONALD CRUPP

This story might be termed a sequel to that Christmas Day column about Firecracker, the Kern River jackass that had a tin can on a hind hoof. It concerns the same people, the same country, Firecracker, indirectly, and two of Firecracker's erstwhile buddies, Urbob and Lisa.

Urbob and Lisa are four-footed friends, but they are not donkeys. They are dogs. Urbob—and please don't ask how he got that name—is a white Siberian Husky; Lisa, a ghost-gray Weimaraner with thoroughbred papers.

The only reason that Firecracker enters this picture is that Urbob and Lisa played around in the field with him. If you remember the Christmas Day column, Firecracker was capable of virtually nothing except playing and eating.

Lisa ceased to be a friend of Firecracker's when Guy Marschner, owner of the donkey and the dogs, placed Lisa on Firecracker's back one day in a moment of playfulness. Firecracker had never carried a pack of anything on his back and he wasn't about to begin with a scrambling dog. So he bucked. Off went Lisa in a hurry and she didn't stop running for two hours.

ALL DOG FANCIERS KNOW that purebred Weimaraners shouldn't have affairs with Siberian Huskies, but, in the Kern River country dogs may not be aware of that. Any way, it happened and Lisa began to assume that proud look.

Guy, who is busy at this season of the year getting everything in readiness for spring and summer pack-in trips to Upper Durrwood Camp, wasn't very happy about the turn of events. In fact, he was so mad that he kicked Urbob right out of the country—and by that I mean out of the United States. Urbob now is orbiting around Mexico and Central America.

Urbob doesn't know this, but the same foot that kicked him out of the country is now in a cast. On New Year Day, Guy was working in his shop at Roads Ends Camp, north of Kernville. A vicious wind blew a door shut. The rebounding bang knocked a heavy piece of equipment off the wall. It fell on that dog-offending foot and Guy went to a hospital for repairs.

Oh, yes, Lisa finally gave birth to 12 puppies, six males and six females. Six were of her own ghost-gray color and six were black. There was a white spot on the chest of each and most of the feet were white.

NOW FOR URBOB'S STORY: He isn't doing so badly. He might have left Roads Ends in disgrace, but he has been romping around with eight boys who are off on a trip to Panama. Who knows? He may meet some lady friends in Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica or Panama.

When Urbob was banished in shame from the Kern, three of the eight boys were at Roads Ends making preliminary preparations for their trip. One, Nick Goldman, of Fresno, is a nephew of Joyce Marschner, Guy's wife. The boys agreed to take Urbob with them as a mascot.

The boys are Leonard Olds and James Kilborn, of Brawley; Ron Wilson, of Tracy; Larry Dashielle, of San Francisco; Jim McNely and Bill Poe, of Dunsinuir, and Dave Chambers, of Lakewood. All are members of the same fraternity at Berkeley UC. They are taking a full year's leave of absence from UC to travel into Mexico and Central America.

The boys rebuilt three model-A Fords at Brawley in December, welded on extra equipment for carrying camping supplies, and took off just before Christmas.

URBOB SEEMED DELIGHTED when he and the boys left the U. S. He wagged a bushy tail and barked at the customs officers. The boys had been forced to give him all the shots they themselves needed for travel into the tropics. Urbob stood his better than some of the boys. Urbob also got a passport.

Things may be different on the Kern without Urbob, but Guy feels that, for the moment at least, he has made the country safe for Weimaraners. Lisa and possibly one of her pups will be going into Upper Durrwood for the first pack-in trip in late April or early May. That will mark the first of many trips through the summer and early fall.

Among guests already signed for Upper Durrwood trips this year are Mr. and Mrs. Corwin Chase. Chase, a prominent painter of western scenes, plans to do considerable work in the Kern River-Durrwood Creek area, where Upper Durrwood is situated.

Even though it is too early for pack-in trips, the Kernville area is an excellent place to visit at this time of year. Kernville is at the head of Isabella Lake and fishing in the lake has been good all winter.

If you drive to Kernville (200 miles from Long Beach), go to Ewing's Cafe where Jack or Vera Ewing will be most happy to place you in a motel or cabin that suits your whim or pocketbook.

And don't forget to ask Jack for one of his stories of Kern River Valley shootin' days. His yarns are better than most of the TV westerns.

FRESNO, CALIFORNIA

NONPLUSSED, BUT ONLY for a second, are officials arranging Alpha Phi's Table Topic Tea as they smooth out details for the annual affair at Virginia Country Club. From left are Nancy Goodman, vice president of the collegiate chapter at Long Beach State College; Sonia Sawyer, collegiate chapter president; Mrs. Vito Romans, governor of District 10; and Mrs. Harvey Upham, chapter adviser.

The Topic? Tea Tables!

It's time again for Alpha Phi's Table Topic Tea — that light-hearted project which each year calls forth a fetching array of displays, luring throngs to Virginia Country Club to glean ideas from the imaginative, original table arrangements. The event, from 1 to 5 p.m. Thursday, will feature 21 exhibits.

The underlying, serious purpose of the tea is to benefit the Heart Fund and the housing fund at Long Beach State College.

For many weeks members of participating clubs have been planning entries, their creative talents challenged by the top prize of $50 offered by Alpha Phi for the table which guests vote most popular.

THREE AWARD ribbons also will be given in each of two divisions, children's and adults'. Silver Award for the most beautiful; Bordeaux Award for the most original or that adhering most closely to the chosen theme; and the Ivy Award for the most functional or design most easily adapted in one's own home with materials at hand.

Before the tea opens to the public, the coveted ribbons will be placed by judges Athena Hall and Paul Connors, artists, and Jimmy Jones, interior decorator.

The promise of new ideas is evident in topics chosen by participating groups, bearing such intriguing titles as Sweet Sixteen, Gay New Year, Engagement Party, Scotland, Mandarin Dinner, Crystal Wedding Dinner, Tea Magnifique, Spring Buffet, Early American Thanksgiving, Bridal Reception, Pennies from Heaven, Meals of the Day (Antique and Modern), Sea Fare, Luncheon in a Geisha Tea House, Children's Christmas, Wake Up and Live Patio Breakfast, Valentine Luncheon and Pre-Opera Supper (Carmen).

ORGANIZATIONS taking part are: Lawyers' Wives Club, Rick Rackers, Harbor District Dental Auxiliary, Assistance League, Nightingales, Long Beach Optometric Auxiliary, North Long Beach Junior Women's Club, Children's Benefit League, Home Economists in Homemaking, Ebells Juniors, Pilot Club, Bachelorettes, Auxiliary to Children's Memorial Hospital, Long Beach Branch Women's Auxiliary to Los Angeles County Medical Assn., Symphony Juniors, Realtors' Wives Club, Dames Club, Pharmaceutical Assn. Auxiliary, Los Altos Garden Club, Sandlarks, and Chiropractic Auxiliary.

Alpha Phi's central table, carrying out the sorority's colors of silver and bordeaux, will feature an epergne with cascading flowers. Silver tea services will rest on a pale pink cloth topped by an imported Marghab and organdy cloth.

Mrs. Calvert Strong is general chairman. She is being assisted by Mmes. M. John Rowe Jr., Donald Maddock, Karl Russell, Gordon Hayter and Miss Eleanor Peterson.

Tickets for the tea, to which the public is invited, may be purchased from committee members or at the door.

Engaged Girl Will Be Feted

Close friends of Miss Sharon Hilleary will gather today for brunch at the home of Mrs. Robert J. Leebrick Jr., 12021 Old Mill Rd., Rossmore, in honor of Miss Hilleary's forthcoming marriage to Robert Waller of Montreal, Canada.

Ornate sterling candlesticks holding white tapers will offset an antique silver epergne covered with Shasta daisies and wedding bells. A large satin and tulle wedding bell holding the names of guests on miniature bells will grace the group's gift of crystal. Assisting at the punchbowl will be Mrs. John Henderson.

BIDDEN ARE MMES. Edward P. Hilleary, V. R. Marichal, Paul Parrish, John Vosburg, Robert Lintz, William Wallace, William Terpstra, John Grobaty, Richard Blanchard, Wayne Wiggins, Robert Hipkins, Volney McCutcheon, Glen Mitchell, Richard Secord, V. Ray Townsend, Malcolm Lucas, Jackson Knowlton, John Ross-Duggan, Joseph Tierman, Donald Harcourt, Alan Scherer, William Winston, Robert Blake, Thomas Kidie, Hugh Carter, Robert Mahannah, Richard Thiel, and Mrs. Linda McCosland of Los Angeles.

Also Misses Jo Ann Parks, Carol Beckley, Jean Feltham, Eloise Moore, Pat Denny, Virginia Abel and Dorothy Deatherage.

Lady Elks Lunch

Mrs. Ethel Palm and her committee are making arrangements for a Ladies of Elks luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at Elks Club. Cards follow.

FLOWERS WILL STAR in beguiling arrangements of competing entries at Thursday's Table Topics Tea. With such exquisite designs galore it's difficult to make a choice discover (from left) Mmes. Calvert Strong, Gordon Hayter and Earl Marks. Tea will be at Virginia Country Club.

Nurses in Training to Be 'Betty Coeds'

By IOLA MASTERSON

Boil an egg! Scrub the floor! Answer the phone! Count the linen and keep a sharp eye on that new patient in 207! Sound like one of those improbably hectic "Busy Days" cartoons on TV awhile back? Not too many years ago that schedule was normal routine for a trained nurse. If you don't think so, ask Claire O'Malley, director of nursing services at Seaside Hospital and one of this country's leading experts on all phases of nursing—including its history!

FORTUNATELY, because of women like Claire, the old order changeth and the menial drudgery of nursing has been eliminated greatly by simplified nursing techniques and an ever-growing string of terrific labor-saving devices.

But how about the training? How about winning that coveted title, "Registered Nurse?" Is a young woman still required to go into a three-year period of virtual educational hibernation? Does she still have to "live in" at hospital schools of nursing while studying as hard as any coed plus working like a beaver as an undergraduate plebe?

NO SIR! Not, at least, in Long Beach beginning next fall when a revolutionary, streamlined new nurses' training method will become part of the regular curriculum at Long Beach City College. After long investigation and "pilot courses," professors and hospital officials have worked out a normal college education for nurses. Training will be taken in both campus and hospital classes with lab procedure and patient care studies to be given on the scene at new Memorial Hospital of Long Beach a la college hours. The technical name for the latter is "on-going, in-service educational program."

THE UNDERGRAD nurse's life, after classes of regular duration, will be like any other young student's, enabling her to live at home and enjoy all the usual pleasures of collegiate life.

Mrs. O'Malley (whose favorite "administrator" in private life is husband, Daniel) was lured to Long Beach in 1957, with our town winning her over the bids of several colleges and medical facilities. The challenge of serving as chairman of the planning committee for this exciting new nursing course and of continuing as a member of the advisory council overseeing both school and hospital work was the "clinger" that brought her here.

Claire has a fistful of degrees and credits. In addition to her RN diploma from Grant Hospital, Columbus, Ohio, she holds both bachelor of science and master of arts degrees from Ohio State, has had wide experience in general staff, private duty, supervision and nursing education administration work on up to and including serving as associate professor of nursing at Gonzaga U, Spokane, Wash.

NOW, MRS. O'MALLEY (as gracious and friendly a woman as you could ask to meet) isn't the practical joker type nor does she make foolish statements. That's why, when she says, positively, that nursing keeps a woman younger longer and more alert than any other career she knows it can be counted on as a statement of fact.

It's a perfect career for a lifetime or a few years, states Claire, and offers women the security of a profession that demands respect both financially and personally as long as they want to work.

The growing need for nurses to specialize, just as medical men have specialized, is opening an even greater vista of career betterment. The individual's ability and skill are more and more being devoted to the patient who needs the benefit of her special knowledge. With this special knowledge the nurse is not the subordinate she once was. With the doctor she is part of the "health team."

ANY INTELLIGENT woman can become a fine nurse, according to Mrs. O'Malley, PROVIDED she has "the heart for it," a sense of humor and a belief in what she is doing. Mrs. O' added that other personality traits important to success are a sense of values, emotional stability and self discipline. Our grandparents referred to these qualities as good, plain horse sense.

Don't try and answer the question, "Would I be a good nurse?" by yourself. Get advice! Inquire at your local hospital. The director of nursing always will be glad to discuss it with you. School counselors are extremely helpful, as well.

Young girls who are considering nursing should start about their sophomore year in high school to seek advice

Girls Club Entertains With Valentine Tea

Culminating weeks of preparation, West Long Beach Girls Club entertained parents and club teachers at a Valentine Tea in the clubhouse, 2640 Santa Fe Ave. In the sparkling electric kitchen 97 girls, under the supervision of Mrs. Karl Ward, spent after-school hours baking cupcakes, frosting them, adding tiny candy heart decorations and freezing the confections to await the important tea date.

Dr. N. K. Farrell, principal of Stephens Junior High School, was a special guest. Assisting the girls were members of the Girls Club Committee of Assistance League, sponsoring organization, headed by Mrs. William Eastman, whose co-chairman is Mrs. Ward.

OTHERS ON THE committee are Mmes. Homer Grant, Collins Cameron, William Macrate, Calvert Strong, Paul McMullin, Chris Conway, Roy Taylor, Harold G. Appleton, Irving Smith Jr., Richard Browning, Lyman Berg, Gus A. Walker, William Rhorer, Julius Molina and Raymond Cary.

Earlier this month the club was visited by Miss Della E. Ricks, field representative of Girls Clubs of America.

By IOLA MASTERSON

WHAT DOES Feb. 21 have that other days don't (except being the day before George's birthday—Hi, George), to make it the most popular party night of the month? Last night people were singing like larks caged in gilded festivities all over town.

For instance, Jeanne and Tenny Moore decorated the night with a cocktail buffet happy time for 26 couples. Assisting were Flossie and Art Rene and Liz Tucker. The Moores had more than enough energy for just the one night so divided it over two. They entertained Friday, as well, for their immediate neighborhood crowd with daughters, Mary and Gay assisting.

A CAMELLIA themed cocktails and dinner party hosted by Dorothy and Eldredge Combs in their home, 4120 Cedar Ave., sugar coated the evening hours Saturday for a gay gathering of good friends. Sharing the sweet date were Avis and Oliver Roemer, Ruth and Morrie Hubbell, Doris and Paul Hillman, Dorothy and Manly Natland, Frances and Henry Clock, Marge and Lauren Conley, Erie and Fred Miller, Lois and George Osborne, Jane and Laurence Houts, Georgia and Frende Combs, Clara and Andy Andrews, Rod and Cal Strong, Mickey and John McWhinney and Marge and Ed Demler.

FOR THE LOVE of dancing the Viennese Waltzers waltzed up to, throughout, and away from the Petroleum Club the night before today for one of the fashionable dinner dances of their club season. The nine couples who hosted the cocktail hour in the Terrace Room prior to dinner were Helen and Joe Kellogg, Maxine and Leo Back, Etta Meyers and Dr. Virgil DeMott Sedgwick, Gladys and Glenn McCole, Maxine and Burl McCole, Fern and John Kelly, Marian and Warren Ten Eyck, Vada and Don Spring, and Esther and Jules Brady. Oh, Johann, you made der nides too shortd ven you wrodte dat moosic zo sweet.

NOT many men travel as close to the Pearly Gates (this side) and are able to make the return trip as fast as Les Callahan Sr. He has recouped his accident losses so well there's a very good possibility he's home at this very moment. We checked with wife, Ruby, about visitors and she told us he can have a few. To keep the Callahans from turning into a teeming terminal of eager friends, though, better call first and check whether Les has run through his quota for the day!

SOME DATES fall slower than apples regardless of Newton and his fancy theories. If Newt had had a Caribbean cruise on his calendar and seen how slowly dates drop when you're waiting for a sailing one he might have been a little less hoity-toity. Waiting for the sailing one are Betty and Bill Barbee, Clare and Lynn Hosson and Helene and Dr. Ed Mariette who will fly to New Orleans then board a cruise ship for island meanderings. The Hossons and Mariettes will be gone about three weeks from departure but the Barbrees will tarry deep in Dixie to visit Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Foreman (she is the former June McGrew) who reside in Mobile, Ala. Then they'll go to Kansas because, for Bill, no trip is complete unless he detours through the Sunflower State.

THERE'S ONLY one thing on earth could persuade us to change places with Doug Graham right now. The opportunity! He left Thursday (again!) for Africa, flying via New York, London, etc., to Khartoum, Sudan, to conduct more of the same: Business.

A SEA chantey with an Oriental beat is Juanita Lake's theme song as she prepares to sail March 4 on the M. S. Ventura for a two-month tour of the Far East. She'll return via Vancouver to visit with friends before flying home. In the meantime her houseguest, Margaret Demler of New Jersey (they met last year during a South America vacation cruise), will sail Tuesday for the South Seas.

USS LUNCHEON Party will be launched at the Officers Club, Allen Center Thursday, going down the ways of fun at 11:30 under command of co-hostesses Martha (Mrs. Wilbur) Feineman, Helen (Mrs. John G.) Winn and Delores (Mrs. Robert S.) Clark. About 90 civilian and service friends have been bidden. The luncheon COs and guests will begin the day's cruise in the Brass Hat Room for a punch hour then sail on to the South Pacific Room for luncheon and conversation.

SPEAKING OF Allen Center and things nautical, but nice, we hear the Navy Officers Wives Club "Shower of Stars" black tie ball last weekend was in the real spirit of high society. A few of those who savored the evening were Capt. Allen Davenport and Corinne Griffiths (yes, of movie fame), Emily and Dr. John Cottrell, Vivian and John Davis, Haldis and Dr. Fritz Hertzog, Mary and Adm. Casey Green, Betsy and George Taubman, Claire and Adm. Walter Price, Marian and Don Locke, Virginia and Adm. Victor Long, Lorraine and Earl Burns Miller, "Bev" and Comdr. Frank Deily (hats off to "Bev", president of the hostess club, and her entire membership), Vivian and Adm. Charles Weitzel, Delores and Capt. Robert Clark, Myrtle (Mrs. Jim) Tully, Capt. David Martineau and more by the dozens.

THE BEST dressed gathering of feminine charmers in town were guests of Pat Brennan and her daughters, Cindy and Julia, at a mother-daughter tea the other day. The mothers were all nicely dressed, too! Daughters were of the littlest, frilliest variety known to all mankind (i.e. poets and fathers) as creatures made only of 100 per cent pure, everything nice (mostly!). About 90 ladies were present, both mama-size and sugar 'n spice-size. Assisting were Jean Burdge, Jackie Hughes, Julia Cheney, Dixie Millie, Joan Stage, Mary Lintz and Pat Settles. There were cupcakes topped with pink frosting as high as a Teddy bear's eye for young guests plus punch so good it tasted like more every few minutes. The older, more calorie conscious were just as happy but less impulsive about their return trips to the refreshment table.

BEAU OF the ball at Petroleum Club's February dinner dance was President Lee Foust whose birthday coincided with the date. They gave him a gimmick box full of silly gifts, Delphine Smith baked him a cake (she knew he was comin') and then a bunch of the gals ganged up on him by forming a "doe" line to keep him dancing. Claiming their "Belle Boy" by turns were Ruth Carrothers, Evelyn Scott, Camilla La Greggs, Bernice Stansbury, Flo Westergard, Dorothy Mamula and last in line but first in his heart, wife, Donna.

CATCHING three whopping big sailfish between the two of them one afternoon was just one of the highlights of Middy and Mel Masterson's vacation in Acapulco, Mexico City and Taxco. They rendezvoused with Virginia and Charles Dickey for a few days at the Mexican port city before returning Tuesday. The Dickeyes should be home by now, too.

To Also-Rans She's 'Dennis the Menace'

Thursday night we visited with a man on a cloud, Dave Tallichet, and the charming girl who put him there by agreeing to marry him, Cecilia Dennis (known as Dennis the Menace by all the young hopefuls who now must watch one of the most eligible be erased from the ranks). It happened at a gay engagement announcement party hosted by Shirley and Howard Jones. Now, obviously, Dave was in no condition to get back down to earth so Shirley and Howard made it a cocktail party to enable the rest of us to gain enough altitude to visit him on his own level.

We learned their marriage will take place in Cecilia's home town in Indiana on March 21 as did about 130 other well wishing guests. A few of those invited to hear the glad news, first hand, were the Eldon Bagstads, the Myrl DuBays, Bea and George Hart, Jimmie and Don Nutter, Beverly and Tom Noh, the Bob Millers, the Rolf Sukstorfs, Marvella and Bob McNulty, the Al Moellers, Kay and Loyal Pulley, Ginny and Rex Welch, Jim Crocker, Pauline and Jack Dilday, Esther and Jules Brady, Betty and Larry Hunt and the Dick Hawkes.

HEART-Y FARE FOR TODAY

Explaining the specialties he planned to cook for today's festive Heart Brunch at the Reef Restaurant is chef Jack Verner to Ray Neveau, general chairman of the current drive, and Joanne Groll, queen of the brunch. Joanne owes her life to modern heart surgery perfected through research financed mainly by Heart Assn. funds. The brunch, open to the public, will be served continuously from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. You can't beat it. Good food for a good cause —tax deductible!—(Staff Photo)

GOP Women on 'Safari' to Dark Africa

Transported to Africa for the afternoon, Republican women Wednesday relived with Mrs. Lloyd O'Donnell her safari of last year with her husband and 12-year-old grandson, Jimmy. Mrs. O'Donnell spoke and showed her safari pictures at the 1 p.m. meeting of 18th Congressional Republican Women Federated in the Starlight Room, Lafayette Hotel.

Mrs. O'Donnell described the beauties and the climate of central Africa, as well as its natives, and told many anecdotes.

PRIOR TO the rocking-chair safari to Africa, Mrs. O'Donnell addressed the group on what it means to be a Republican. She quoted Mrs. Bertha Adkins, assistant chairman of the national committee, when she said: "Women are wonderful, especially American women, but most especially Republican American women."

President Mrs. John L. Kelly reported on the recent convention in Fresno, at which the group was represented by seven members.

One minute of silent prayer for Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was called for by the chaplain, Mrs. Annette Brewer.

Luncheon Tuesday

Satellite Club, Order of Eastern Star, will meet at noon Tuesday in Machinists Hall for covered-dish luncheon.

Heart Fund Drive Gets $1,350 From Lunch, Party

The 1959 Heart Fund drive was $1,350 richer Tuesday as a result of an invitational luncheon and card party sponsored by Miss Beatrice Hughes and Mrs. J. Roscoe Howell.

Seventy-five guests attended the party, each making a donation to the Heart Fund, which was held at Miss Hughes' residence, 1230 E. Ocean Blvd.

During the affair, the group was addressed by Myrvin Ellestad, M.D., secretary of the local heart association, and told of the miraculous advances in heart research during the first 10 years of the history of the heart associations as well as the bright outlook for the next 10 years.

THIS, THE third of such affairs sponsored by Miss Hughes and Mrs. Howell, raised more funds than ever before and these funds will be added to the 1959 drive, the goal of which is $90,000.

The 1959 Heart Fund drive will reach its climax on Heart Tuesday (this week) when 4,000 men and women will visit every residence in the area to collect funds for the Long Beach Heart Assn.'s programs of medical research, education and community service.

Another special event to raise funds for Heart is being held at the Reef Restaurant today from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. This affair will feature an informal brunch for the family and the public is invited. Tickets may be purchased at the Reef for $2 each.

Marcia M. Conrey Weds

Lakewood Village Community Church was setting for the double ring marriage ceremony uniting Marcia Marie Conrey of Long Beach and James Robert Ellis of South Gate. The Rev. Wallace Benson officiated.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Conrey and Bryan B. Conrey of Long Beach, was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a waltz-length gown of white lace and tulle, fashioned with scalloped neckline. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a crown of pearls and she carried a white prayer book topped by orchids.

American beauty chiffon was worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Richard Marshall, who served as matron of honor, while pink chiffon was chosen for the gowns of bridesmaids Carole Young and Nita Clark. Junior bridesmaid was Christine L. Marshall.

R. E. MARSHALL of Temple City attended his new brother-in-law as best man, and Tom Wickham and Don Abel ushered.

A reception followed in the church social hall with the newlyweds later departing on an Arizona honeymoon. They now are at home in Los Angeles.

The bride was graduated from Wilson and served as president of Tammuz while a student at LBCC. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Ellis of South Gate, received his schooling in that city.

'New Look' in Nursing

in order to plan the balance of their education. But you can be past your sophomore year by many years and still qualify as a student nurse . . . up to a point! Women over 40, generally speaking, should be discouraged from deciding on a nursing career because the demands of training, both physically and emotionally, are better met by a younger mind and body.

FROM FORCE of habit we've referred to nursing as a feminine profession throughout this story. Too many people think of it as a woman's work but this should be changed. There is a great need for men nurses and a definite place for them in hospitals and for private duty. That's about the picture—the new look in nursing. Smart, streamlined, satisfying. Best of all, Registered Nurse means Really Needed.

Something for the Boys

Ol' Ted Says: 'My Cup Runneth Over!'

By TED KREC

Have you heard the unbelievable news? Ol' Ted is going to receive an award for this column!

Yes, sir—Monday night in Municipal Auditorium, at the seventh annual Red Cross benefit fashion show, Downtown Long Beach Associates is going to reward me with a plaque for outstanding achievement in the field of men's apparel promotion.

Naturally, I'm pleased as punch about this, because it is most gratifying to know that my efforts at making men style conscious have been appreciated.

If you could see my correspondence files there would be no doubt in your minds that the women of Long Beach have been grateful for my efforts.
But some of the men have been a bit resentful. As an example of this I cite for you the sarcastic postal card I received from an anonymous male wanting to borrow a pair of my drip-dry shorts for a trip to the moon!

HOWEVER, its the women I've been trying to reach, because they buy the bulk (about 80 per cent) of men's clothing. Just remember that famous adage: "A woman may not select all of a man's clothes, but she generally picks his pockets."

Anyhow, the Red Cross show folk are going all-out to make this a dignified and auspicious occasion.
They are bringing down from Los Angeles two of my friends from Men's Apparel Guild in California, two men who are the warp and wool of the apparel organization.

They are Armand (Warp)
Normandin, president of MAGIC, and Knute (Wool)
Thorsen, executive director.
Armand will make the actual presentation, I understand. He's quite a fellow. He has a splendid reputation as a horseman—
in fact, he owns horses.
Realizing this, Vito Romans of Downtown Long Beach Associates (every inch a showman), was going to try to get one of Armand's horses to make the presentation—but this idea was abandoned reluctantly when Vito realized that there wasn't room on the stage for Armand's horse AND fat Ol' Ted! So, they had to settle for Armand.

ALL JOKING aside, apart from the comic interest mentioned above, it's going to be quite a show. The Moulin Rouge chorus line will perform its intricate western number and a per-

Days of Forty-Niners

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS
by PLACER MINER

George Washington, born 227 years ago, has a hand in the doings at Long Beach State this week.

First item on the activities calendar has the Foreign Language Club in the Soroptimist House this afternoon for a Washington's Birthday party. Dancing, hit tunes from Germany, and refreshments, including pie from the fruit of a cherry tree George didn't cut down, are on the program. Many international students at LBSC will be in native garb, and the winner of the door prize gets a new 49-star flag.

Monday our first President's natal day is noted with a school holiday. We doubt that any Forty-Niners will be saddened by a day away from classes, but wouldn't it be nice if these holidays could come closer to the final exam week when extra time for study really would be appreciated?

Tuesday night sees Los Angeles State here for a basketball game which serves as a framework for half-time ceremonies centering around what, for want of a better term, is billed as a basketball game between Califias (women's) and Statesmen (men's) honorary service groups. The fellows wear crazy costumes, the gals feature a go-go-go offense because for years their mothers have been telling them never to stop for a whistle, and as for the outcome—well, it's like a western: the good gals always win out in the end.

WEDNESDAY afternoon a more formal affair sees Associated Women Students hosting their JC counterparts at the annual Junior College Tea. Fifty students and advisers are expected as hosts and guests exchange ideas on the woman student's place in the college activities scene. Marilyn Hunts, Elaine Shubin, Pat Greeley and Linda Patterson head up the committees arranging the affair.

Thursday night sees the start of a three-night run of the Harlequins' (LBSC drama group) presentation of "Don Juan in Hell." The formal reading of the dream sequence from G. B. Shaw's "Man and Superman" is scheduled for the Studio Theater on the lower campus. Tickets are 75 cents and may be obtained in the Little Theater box office each day during the noon hour.

Friday noon it's rally time as song girls, yell leaders, and the pep band merge their efforts to generate a little pep for the evening's basketball game with San Fernando State, the last on this year's schedule.

Later that same day a Delta Delta Delta delegation of 40 girls and advisers heads for an unannounced location "somewhere along the beach" for their yearly retreat. The event is planned to allow an effective exchange of information for the sorority's incoming slate of officers. The location is a well-guarded secret because past experience indicates fraternity members would like to show up and divert the Tri-Deltas' attention from the weighty matters at hand.

AND CLOSING out the week, Delta Gammas and Phi Kappa Taus gather for an exchange Saturday night at the home of the O'Reillys, Ron and Leonard, in Garden Grove in the form of a toga party. (Ed. note: We thought these were Greeks, not Romans.)

Before closing, a pat on the back to IFC (the interfraternity council which coordinates Greek groups at State) and their little communication, "Interfraternally Yours," on the publication's 100th issue. The venture was started way back in October 1957 and has insured that the fraternities "get the word" about the seemingly ever-changing affairs at State.

Music of Dixie at UDC Meeting

Southern music will be featured at the meeting of Gen. Joe Wheeler Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, at 1 p.m. in Linden Hall, says Miss Marguerite Patterson, program chairman. Mrs. O. L. Skinner is president. Dessert luncheon will be served and visiting members are welcome.

Pretty Church Rite for Eugenia Symms

An heirloom diamond locket, worn by several generations of her family's brides, graced the throat of Eugenia Dorothy Symms when she was wed to Dr. John Franklin Kagy in an afternoon service in St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

The bride, a former Long Beach resident, was escorted to the altar by her father, Marion Stovall Symms of Augusta, Ga. She wore an empress style dress of oyster white brocade and carried gardenias and stephanotis on a brocade purse.

Playing an important role in the wedding were the bridegroom's children with daughters, Karen Marie and Linda Christine Kagy, as bridesmaids and sons, John Franklin II and Roderich Lee Kagy, as ushers. Miss Elizabeth Dyer of Ft. Collins, Colo., was maid of honor and David Martin of Garden Grove ushered.

A RECEPTION for the 30 wedding guests followed in the bridegroom's home, 5541 La Pasada Ave., where the newlyweds will reside following a honeymoon trip to Southern California resort areas.

Discuss It With Him!

DEAR MOLLY:
I loved him and he said he loved me. I honestly believed him.
After we did what we did, I realized that a life with him would only make us both unhappy because I never again could feel about him the way I had. So we called it quits.
Now I am dating a wonderful guy, too wonderful to hurt. He thinks a lot of me, and I know with the passage of time that he will begin to talk of marriage. I never could marry him or anyone else after what I have done.
I don't think I'm fit for the beautiful, clean institution of marriage.
Please, Molly, how can I get him to forget me and find a decent girl?
NO GOOD FOR HIM

DEAR NO GOOD FOR HIM:
Don't be too sure. The best way to find out is to discuss with him, in an impersonal way, the kind of mistake you've made. Get his reaction.
Find out if being repentant enough never to make the same mistake again means as much to him as purity does.
In time, he and you may both find you're the decent girl you think he deserves.
M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
I am 13 and in the seventh grade. My girl friend and I are very disgusted about these seventh-grade boys.
They seem to think girls aren't good enough for them and that jets, model planes and chemistry are right out of this world.
They play smart tricks on you like asking you to go, steady just to see if you're nutty enough to go steady. It happened to me and I don't one bit like to look silly.
STUPID
DEAR STUPID:
Jets and planes and chemistry may be boy stuff. Why don't you major in fudge and cookies and popcorn balls? Boys get stuck on them, too. M. M.

Cast Named at Magnolia

Familiar faces and new local talent will be seen in the cast of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" which opens March 6 for a four-week run at Magnolia Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave. John McNamara is guest conductor. The play often is termed the most ingenious comedy of manufactured mistaken identity ever written.

Pat Brown is featured in the role of Lady Bracknell, haughty English dowager whose criterion for a son-in-law is his social standing.

UNFORTUNATELY her daughter, Gwen, played by Francine Pyne, falls in love with a gay rake of unknown parentage, John Worthing, depicted by a newcomer to the theater, Thomas Gaydos. Another new cast member, Chris Coburn, takes the role of his friend, Algernon, and the two delight in assuming false identities to cover their peccadilloes.

Others in the cast are Wynne Wilson as Cecily, John's ward; Gwen Piercy as Miss Prism, her strict governess, and Roy Malmberg as the Rev. Mr. Chasuble.

Ruth Slenczynska

Famed Pianist on Civic Music Series

Pianist Ruth Slenczynska, whose life story reads like extravagant fiction, will appear in concert

Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in Municipal Auditorium under auspices of the Civic Music Assn. of Long Beach.

Now 33, established as a mature artist of exceptional talent, garnering acclaim of critics and international audiences, Miss Slenczynska is launched on the second phase of her career after ending a 12-year self-imposed retirement in 1951.

Recent magazine articles, television programs and her own astonishing book, "Forbidden Childhood," have reminded music lovers of her early years when she was hailed as one of the most fabulous child prodigies the world has ever known. Dominated by a father who made up his mind before she was born that he would produce "one of the world's greatest musicians" to fulfill his own frustrated ambition, she made her debut when she was 4 years old and for 10 years was the wonder of the musical world.

IN HER autobiography she describes the bitter struggle of her lonely, desperate, confused adolescent years as she sought to fight off the stranglehold of her tyrannical father and to find herself as a person and an artist.

Return to the professional world came with her appearance as soloist in the 1951 Bach Festival in Carmel; she since has given more than 600 concerts in the United States and Europe, has made a series of best-selling records, and has performed on numerous coast-to-coast broadcasts and telecasts. Her career rests now on the self-mastery which assures her greatness as a re-dedicated, complete artist.

Designer Show Slated at LBCC

The new show will remain on view through April 3, but closes during the Easter recess, March 23-27. Visiting hours are 10-4 and 6-10 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to noon Friday.

Organized by Southern California Designer-Craftsmen, a group of professional designers, art teachers and advanced students, the juried exhibit will include jewelry, silversmithing, bookbinding, pottery, ceramic and metal sculpture, furniture, fabrics, mosaics and enamels.

Art Film Program

Pioneers of Contemporary Art, featuring two films, will be presented at 7:40 and 9 p.m. on the Friday Evening Series at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

The program will include "Picasso," an autobiographical documentary of the artist; and "Expressionist Revolt," dramatic presentation of 20th century German art.

Major & Minor Notes By RACHEL MORTON

(Editor's Note: This is the second and concluding article on the life of Mary Bran, Southland impresario.)

In Los Angeles, where Mary Bran settled, she found the managerial field controlled by the well-known impresario, Behymer. There was absolutely no place for an independent manager. "These really were hard years," says Mary Bran. "For the first time in my life, regardless of previous hardships, I began to be a problem to myself. But, being a believer in positive thinking, having a faith in a noble fight, and with the best of good health and a tremendous enthusiasm for art and a love of people (generally speaking) — this was the checkbook that helped me to survive the most difficult years of my life."

THE STRUGGLE has gone on for many years, but now her name is associated with the best in artistic entertainment and musical performances. She brings us such distinguished artists as the famous Spanish dancer, Jose Greco, who will be presented here in Long Beach March 3 in Municipal Auditorium. She presented Victoria de Los Angeles at the Philharmonic Auditorium in Los Angeles recently. Patterson Greene, critic, gave this concert a rave review which he finished by saying: "Thank you, impresario Mary Bran, for bringing Victoria de Los Angeles back to us. Please don't let her stay away so long again."

This amazing woman holds the honorary degree of doctor of fine arts conferred on her by the ancient and respected Academy-Studiorum-Minerva at Bari, Italy, "Because of her long and devoted service to the cause of the arts."

SHE ALSO enjoys an honorary life membership as a fellow in the American International Academy of the United States of America. And latest in the honors accorded her is the title of Chevalier des Palmes Academiques, awarded by decree of the French government in the summer of 1958 for her contributions to French art and culture.

"A real impresario," in the words of Mary Bran, "must be one who wholly understands the psychology of the artist; he must know their needs and ways; he must stand behind them when their spirits are low and must encourage and support them. He must be a considerate friend and an appreciative audience. He must not regard them as a mere source of income, but as friends whose talents are part of their nature. He must watch over them like a gardener watches over his flowers, to make them grow and develop and enrich the world—for one cannot exist without the other."

MARY BRAN has given her whole life to bringing beauty, music, culture into the lives of others. It is a passion with her. Especially is she eager for the well-being of teenagers. When she sees them standing outside, watching, yearningly as the people throng into the concerts, she approaches them saying: "What is your problem, child?" "We've heard the records, but can't afford a ticket." "Pass on in!" she cries, with a loving pat. God bless and prosper you, Mary Bran.

Two Concerts at Jordan for Young People

Eugene Pridonoff, pianist, will be guest soloist with Long Beach Symphony for two youth concerts Saturday at Jordan High School. Lauris Jones will direct a program for elementary school children at 10 a.m. and another for secondary students at 11 a.m.

Pridonoff, a student at Millikan High School, has performed with Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, the Pasadena Symphony and Long Beach Symphony. He will appear in concert at UCLA March 7 and on the television program, "Debut," April 5.

Alice Gallup, assistant supervisor of music education in Long Beach schools, will commentate.

Tickets for both concerts may be obtained without charge at public and parochial schools; any seats remaining at 9:50 and 10:50 a.m. will be available to children without tickets.

'Passionate Victorian' Next on Evenings at Eight

"One-woman theater," featuring actress-monologist Cornelia Stabler as "Charlotte Bronte, Passionate Victorian," comes to the Long Beach City College auditorium stage at 8 p.m. Saturday in the fourth "Evenings at Eight" program of the season.

A limited number of general admission tickets will be available at the Lakewood campus during the week or at the box office Saturday night. Tickets may be reserved by telephone up to noon Friday.

Miss Stabler, well known in this country and abroad for her monologues and dramatic sketches, received her training at Swarthmore College, Columbia University and the Studio for the Theater in New York. She writes her own material.

In preparation for her dramatic biography, Miss Stabler studied the subject's letters, poems and novels and immersed herself in the whole story of the remarkable Bronte family. Her presentation covers seven episodes in the life of Charlotte Bronte from 1842 to 1854.

A KEY SCENE deals with the first literary venture of the "Bell Brothers" (Currer, Ellis and Action), pen names under which Charlotte, Emily and Anne Bronte published a notvery-successful volume of poems in 1845. Shortly after the appearance of Charlotte's "Jane Eyre" and Emily's "Wuthering Heights" in 1847, they had become famous.

Other episodes deal with Charlotte's family relationships, including a 'stormy scene with her father; the biography closes on the eve of Charlotte's marriage.

Next "Evenings at Eight" program, scheduled for March 20, will present actor-playwright Emlyn Williams in "A Boy Growing Up: a Dramatic Entertainment From the Works of Dylan Thomas."

Skipping lightly over the bidding we find that South is declarer at three no-trump and the queen of spades is opened. South should win with the king; not the ace because if he false cards with the ace he clearly shows that he holds the king also.

His next play is the 10 of clubs from his hand and small from dummy. At this point we separate the men from the boys. East should win the trick with the ace of clubs and lead back a second spade. South will be in the lead again and will take what appears to be a sure-fire finesse for the queen of clubs.

EAST WILL win that trick also and six spade tricks will put declarer down four.

Of course, this play might go wrong. Declarer might have started with five clubs in which case he will laugh and pick up East's queen or declarer might even guess what had happened. But the point to this unusual play is that if East wins the first club trick with the queen South is going to make his contract.

He will see no chance at all and therefore will try to cash as many tricks as possible when he gets in the second time. When he cashes the ace and king of diamonds he will get a nice bonus. East's queen and jack will drop and South will make his three no-trump.

Artist to Exhibit Monotypes

By VERA WILLIAMS
L. A. Art Editor

A one-man show, "Monotypes by Karl Seethaler," will be displayed Feb. 28 to March 28 in the Richard Henry Dana library, 3680 Atlantic Ave. The exhibition will open with a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday, to which the public is invited.

Seethaler works in a variety of media among which oil paintings takes a favorite position. This will be his first exhibition composed entirely of monotypes. In the making of a monotype the composition first is painted either in printer's ink, or oil colors, upon a plate (metal, masonite, glass, etc.). From this an imprint is taken and the artist frequently works into this impression with brush, knife, or pen, to finish the work. Each is an original and therefore must not be confused with prints or etchings. As a medium of expression monotypes are not new in art, but they have been revived by many modern artists because of the delicate textures and subtle color effects characteristic of this process.

Seethaler was born in Austria, studied in Vienna, Brunn and Budapest; became a U. S. citizen in 1931; has been teaching and lecturing in Southern California since 1942; founded the Long Beach Academy of Art in 1946. A partial list of group exhibitions in which he was represented include Arizona and California State Fairs, Los Angeles County Museum and Long Beach Museum of Art. He has had one-man shows at the Palos Verdes Gallery, Hougland Galleries (Hermosa), Lucien Labaudt Art Gallery (San Francisco), Farnham Gallery (Balboa Island), Galerie Lefort (Montreal, Canada), Innenbaukunst (Frankfurt, Germany) and in the Konzerthaus (Vienna, Austria), the latter sponsored by the Austrian Culture Society, headed by the managing director of the Vienna State Opera.

Approximately 300 of Seethaler's paintings, drawings and wood sculptures are owned by private collectors in the United States, Europe and the Far East, including a Japanese cabinet minister and a Siamese prince.

LONG BEACH Museum Associates, group of men and women interested in aiding the Museum of Art, will be organized at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. The meeting is open to the public. Dr. Richard F. Brown, chief curator of art of Los Angeles County Museum, will speak.

AN EXCELLENT art loan selection from the Long Beach Museum of Art's regularly increasing collection is displayed in the upstairs gallery featuring paintings by local and regional artists.

Gallery talks in the Court Marian to See Movies

An illustrated travelogue of Europe will be shown by Louis Sisti at the 8 p.m. meeting Wednesday of Court Marian, Catholic Daughters of America, in Woodman of the World Hall, 11 W. Plymouth St.

The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday; Friday evening from 7:30 to 10 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. It will be open on Washington's Birthday from 1 to 5 p.m. The museum, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., is free to the public.

SAUNDERS R. BAGBY, artist and photographer, past president of the Spectrum Club, will show colored slides at the meeting of the Lakewood Fine Art Assn. at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Bolivar Park clubhouse, Del Amo Blvd. and Downey Ave. Guests are welcome.

SPECTRUM CLUB will have a stag banquet at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the Chicken Pie Shop, 737 Pine Ave. George Barker, art instructor, will speak.

represented in the Italian exhibit include Balla, Boccioni, Carrà, Casorati, Cremonini, De Chirico, Marini, Modigliani, Morandi, Pirandello and Severini.

Judge Martin De Vries

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Judge De Vries Has Cucumber Recipe

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P.T. Food Editor

"TIMMMM BER!" they yelled and the "Judge" knew it meant "git," for you see, today's "second term" Chef of the Week, Judge Martin De Vries, was born in Big Timber, Mont. At the age of 6, the cry changed to "Here, Bossey," for his family moved to a large cattle ranch at Red Lodge, Mont. There he attended grammar and high school, before enrolling at Montana State University, Bozeman.

The receiving of a degree was delayed by the advent of World War I. For 17 months, he served with the Red Cross Hospital Corps at Camps Lewis, Leederman and one in Vancouver, Canada.

WITH THE Armistice duly signed, the "Judge" entered Stanford University, from which he took his law degree. Prior to opening his office in Long Beach in 1928, he took time out to teach business law and accounting at Tranquility High School and Fullerton Junior College.

Before his "Attorney at Law" shingle had hung too many months in Long Beach, his practice landed him right in the office of prosecuting attorney as chief trial deputy. In 1933, he ran for a judgeship, and has continuously, since that time, been greeted each morning by a "Hear ye, hear ye" and a standing audience. He presides over Municipal Court.

Active in First Presbyterian Church, De Vries serves as elder. He has been a member of the Long Beach Rotary Club since 1936; is a life member of Elks, and an "up-and-go-in" Beloved Vagabond. He and Mrs. DeVries have traveled to the most remote corners of the earth, including the Holy Land. Known as Long Beach's authority on Abraham Lincoln, his collection of books was second to none. He has just recently, however, sent many volumes to universities in Japan.

FISHING AND gardening keep him fit... but when it comes to cooking, he seems to have an affinity for the lowly cucumber. His first Chef of the Week recipe, 11 years ago, was for dill pickles... today, it's for sour cream cucumbers. They both result in top-flight eating, we assure you.

SOUR CREAM CUCUMBERS
Slice 3 cucumbers and one onion in bowl.

Let stand, after covering with 3 tablespoons of salt—no water.

Wash salt from cukes and onion, and add a dash of vinegar (1 to 2 tablespoons). Mix in a cup of sour cream.

Plaza Club Bids Pianist to Entertain

Plaza Woman's Club will be entertained by the piano and voice artistry of John Lee when it meets at 8 p.m. Thursday in El Dorado Clubhouse.

Lee, pianist, raconteur, composer and music commentator, weaves a penetrating commentary into music ranging in mood from the sublime to the hilarious.

HOSTESSES will be Mes. Arnold Joyce, Orrin Ferris and Mae Benson.

During the business session plans will be completed for the group's "Spring Fling" dance Saturday at Air Force Officers Clubhouse, Spring St. and Redondo Ave. Mrs. William Pearson, chairman, is being assisted by Mes. Blaine Warden, John Buckley, Alden Sheets, S. Kapano and George Smith. Blaine Vernon and George Merrill will provide "music for dancing" on hi-fi recordings.

Set Open Meeting

Prospective members are invited to an open meeting of Regina Coeli Council 7, Ladies of Columbus, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, 5812 Arbor Rd. Mrs. George Glade, grand lady, will hostess the evening. Entertainment will be presented by the Pan-American Festival Committee.

Dear Abby

Just Overlook the Habit

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for nine years and we have three children. My mother-in-law always refers to my children as ROY'S children. Whenever she is showing a picture of them she will always say, "These are ROY'S children," never ROY'S and MAXINE'S children. I get so burned up when she does this that I have to clench my fists and grit my teeth to keep from telling her off. Have you any advice on how I can correct this ignorant habit without getting into a fight with her?

ABBY

BURNED UP
DEAR BURNED: Listen closely. YOUR parents probably refer to the children as MAXINE'S children. This is a natural "habit" and you'd be wise to overlook it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who married a woman who was married twice before. Both of her husbands died. I bought her an especially nice wedding band. She wears it on the same finger with her other two wedding bands. I don't know if I have the right to ask her to please take off her other two wedding bands and wear only mine. Is it proper to wear three at once?

NUMBER THREE
DEAR THREE: A woman is entitled to wear only one wedding band at a time. Ask her to please put the first two away.

Valuable Lots Cleared of Old Oil derricks

Removal Program Is Getting Results

By GEORGE WEEKS

The oil operator sometimes described as the world's richest man is presenting Long Beach with a gift—the cleaning up of a once-productive oil area now defaced with useless derricks, rusty shacks and other debris.

After six months of negotiations with the city, Tidewater Oil Co. last week took the first step by toppling an old steel derrick at 385 Havana Ave. In a residential section east of the Colorado Lagoon.

The company is controlled by Paul Getty, the fabulously wealthy promoter with world-wide interests.

Steady progress is being made not only in Alamitos Heights but in midtown locations near such major traffic arteries as Pacific Ave. and Long Beach Blvd.

Among the results, Pettenger pointed out, are substantial increases in the value of vacant land formerly useless but now available as building sites. Neighboring properties already developed in housing also have gained in value.

THE PROGRAM began in the final stage of a years-long crackdown on wooden derricks. The last of those structures were removed in July, 1957, under terms of an ordinance adopted two years earlier.

Now the principal legal tools of officials are state and city laws providing for the removal of derricks of any kind after wells have been out of production for one year, plus general regulations against nuisances.

Noise meter readings also are taken at numerous wells still in operation. Pettenger said in virtually all instances operators have been cooperative in reducing excessive noise.

THE CLEANUP has accelerated in the last six months, proceeding at the rate of one old derrick a month along with numerous other unsightly structures.

O. R. Pettenger, veteran building inspector assigned to search out the trouble spot and prod the owners or lessees, estimated the job is now almost 70 per cent completed, if you make allowance for tangled ownership records.

that may take years to resolve.

Steady progress is being made not only in Alamitos Heights but in midtown locations near such major traffic arteries as Pacific Ave. and Long Beach Blvd.

Noise meter readings also are taken at numerous wells still in operation. Pettenger said in virtually all instances operators have been cooperative in reducing excessive noise.

ONE MAJOR obstacle is the difficulty of tracing ownership of some of the abandoned well sites. In one midtown location it was found that ownership was shared by 28 persons and estates.

The city in some instances is getting around this block by taking ownership through tax deeds and cleaning up the property on its own initiative.

HEAD REALTY TRADERS

Realty Exchange Seminar to Be Held Here Friday

An Exchange Seminar, presenting authorities on real estate exchanges, will be presented by the Long Beach Board of Realtors through its Traders Group Friday. The one-day seminar will be in Morgan Hall, 835 Locust Ave., and attendance will be limited.

Ted Nelson, of the educational committee, said speakers would include: Richard Reno, who will discuss creating a simple exchange in today's economy; E. C. MacGlashan will discuss financing exchanges; Charles Ray Considine will explain tax advantages of an exchange; and Stanley Sothar will discuss complex exchanges.

Harvey Miller, chairman of the seminar, said there would be a get-acquainted luncheon. Tickets are $6.75 each and will include the cost of the luncheon. Tickets may be obtained at the Long Beach Board of Realtors office.

"Selling real estate is just one service of a Realtor," explained Miller. "To be of real help to property owners we must be prepared to deal in properly exchanges. This seminar will be of great value to all Realtors for it will provide them with much information on making exchanges."

Miller was chairman last year of the Traders Group of the board. Ted Nelson is current chairman.

Fewer FHA Loans Listed Delinquent

Another indicator of the soundness of 1958 housing economy was revealed by Federal Housing Commissioner Julian H. Zimmerman with the announcement that a new historical low in 90-day-or-over delinquency cases was established under the FHA insured home improvement program.

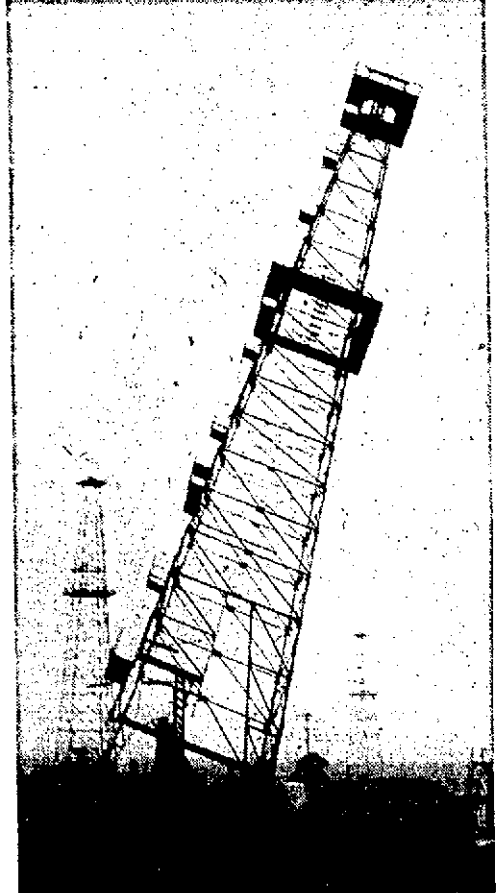

Zimmerman stated that a report from the largest lenders in the program, representing two-thirds of Title I's $1.3 billion outstanding as of Dec. 31, 1958, showed the amazing low delinquency on paper of 90 days and over at 0.98 per cent. This represented a drop from the previous year's 1.11 per cent. "It was the lowest delinquency rate in the history of the Title I Home Improvement Loan program," Zimmerman said, "and is a good indication that people are paying their bills promptly and the general economy is very firm."

Zimmerman also reported that $868 million was insured by FHA for home improvements in 1958 and this involved 1,038,000 individual loans. The average loan was $837, amounting to a 7 per cent increase over the $781 figure in 1957.

Ford May Replace Edsel Car

By JACK VANDENBERG

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co., is considering replacing its Edsel with a small car with a 114-inch wheelbase after the 1960 model year, auto industry sources say.

The sources said the small-car replacement for the Edsel line was one of two small cars Ford is working on.

The smallest of the two, an addition to the Ford passenger car line with a 109.5-inch wheelbase, will be introduced this fall, the sources said, but the larger one will be withheld until Ford engineers can develop an aluminum engine to use in it. The small Ford will be introduced with a cast iron engine which may be replaced in later models by an aluminum engine, the informants said.

THE SMALL CAR is the only car in the line on which any work has been done to date for the 1961 model year, the sources said, although development work has been begun on all other lines of the company's cars for 1961. Original plans for the 1961 Lincoln have already been discarded and an entirely new line substituted.

Previously it was reported Ford was working on two small cars but they were referred to as the "Junior" and "Senior" Ford small cars and both were considered additions for the Ford passenger car lines for introduction in the 1960 model year.

The sources pointed out, however, there was still time for Ford to change its mind if sales warranted continuance of the full-sized Edsel line.

Edsel, first introduced by Ford in September, 1957, as a 1958 model, was intended to compete in the middle-price range. But sales lagged far behind what Ford officials had originally hoped.

AT THE MOMENT, plans call for production of four-door, two-door and station wagon models of a car with a 114-inch wheelbase to supplant the standard-sized Edsels in the 1961 model year, the sources said.

If the Edsel gives way to a smaller car, it will fulfill another prediction of American Motors president George Romney.

Newest Skylark Estates Have Big Family Appeal

Public response to the new models of Skylark Estates, new 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes in Garden Grove, has been heavy, reports Bill Tietz, president of Tietz Construction Co., builders and developers of the homes.

Ideally located in a choice residential area and surrounded by lovely homes in established neighborhoods, Skylark Estates offer luxury living at modest prices. Retaining the luxury and spaciousness of previous Skylark development, the new homes are distinguished also by the superior construction and architectural beauty of previous Tietz-built dwellings.

Country estate lots with frontages of 84 feet or more, Skylark Estates are available in both Contemporary and Provincial designs. Lots are large enough to easily accommodate swimming pools, patios, patio-barbecues and other outdoor recreations.

HOTPOINT all-electric kitchens are the focal point of the dwellings with spaciousness evident in all models. There are snack bars, television areas, children's playrooms within the kitchen, public sidewalks, ornamental street lighting and public utilities in and paid for.

Equipment includes built-in range and oven, disposal unit, large double sinks, natural ash cabinets and gleaming ceramic tile counter tops. Another important feature is the spaciousness of cupboards and counters.

Both conventional hardwood and slab floors are offered, colorful rock or shingle roofs and a variety of exteriors modified by brick or stone planters. There are circulating floor plans, genuine bath and plaster, steel casements, front and rear door weatherstripping, acoustic ceilings and four-foot cave overhangs.

Sliding doors enclose wardrobes and there is abundant closet and storage space. Oversize double garages provide extra storage room as well, it was noted.

Living rooms are dominated by massive brick fireplaces with raised hearths, and heating is provided by 75,000 BTU forced air furnaces with summer cooling fan. There are mahogany slab doors, wallpaper, 100 amp electrical service with spare circuits, front and sideyard landscaping.

EXCELLENT FINANCING, with no down payments to veterans, 4 1/2 per cent interest and 30-year loans is available. FHA terms are available for non-veterans. Priced from $16,200 Skylark Estates are easily accessible to major transportation to Santa Ana, Long Beach and Los Angeles.

Metropolitan shopping centers are within minutes of the homes, and new schools, churches of all denominations, parks, playgrounds, beaches, resorts, mountains and golf courses are nearby. Skylark Estates are just minutes from the world-famous Disneyland and Knott's Berry Farm.

Visitors to the models may drive out Santa Ana Freeway from Los Angeles, turn south on Brookhurst turnoff to Katella and left to models. From Long Beach, drive out Carson (Lincoln Ave.) to Brookhurst, south on Brookhurst to Katella and east on Katella to the new homes.

IN LAKEWOOD COUNTRY CLUB ESTATES

Pictured is a typical example of the class of residence that now is being built on choice homesites within the Lakewood Country Club Estates. In such a prestige area, environment is the key to present and future value and this includes all factors, such as location, scenery, general convenience and social prestige. Lakewood Country Club Estates rates very high in all these respects and many exclusive and luxurious new residences are being built there now, according to Gene Nebeker, sales agent.

'In Long Beach' Location Big Appeal for College Estates

The "within the City of and all city services.

Long Beach" locale, just about ten minutes from the downtown area, has been almost as great a sales factor at newly opened Long Beach College Estates as the appeal of the spacious, luxuriously appointed residences. This is reported by officials of S and S, Construction Co., builder-developers of this park-like community at 7th and Studebaker Road.

Long Beach College Estates is situated on a "landmark" location, on what was once a part of the historic old Dixie Ranch, and it is immediately west of Long Beach State College. The development enjoys ready access to all family conveniences, shopping, established schools, churches

Good Old Days Are Recalled

EASTON, Pa. (UPI) — A Lafayette College expense ledger for a year in the 1840's came to light recently and included such items as: "Building whitewashed, $3.50; 103 pounds of beef, $4.12; toll to Jersey for a girl, 24 cents; to stranger for apples and pears, 44 cents."

Home Building Increase Seen

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)—Vast home building and commercial activity in California is expected to continue indefinitely, with the state's savings and loan associations making $2,400,000,000 worth of loans this year.

This outlook was given by leaders of the California Savings and Loan League at its annual 3-day conference.

Officials also predicted that California savings and loan firms, leading the nation in activity, would have 20 billion dollars in assets, four times the current figure, by 1970.

THE CURRENT 4 per cent interest to savings and loan depositors and the 6 per cent interest on loans generally are expected to continue in the foreseeable future. Only exceptions are Merced and Stockton, where the 3½ per cent rate continues, it was reported.

Speakers included C. R. Mitchell, Kansas City, Mo., president of the U.S. Savings and Loan League, and James

M. Udall, Los Angeles, president of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards.

"These are fast moving days in the savings and loan business," Mitchell said. "Within the past few years this business has indeed become a new financial giant."

Udall told his audience of some 200 that Realtors and local savings and loan associations "have banded together and blazed a wider and smoother path of home ownership for millions of American families."

Freer Education Is Suggested

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—A classroom with no textbooks and no examinations might be one way to stimulate the creative thinking of gifted children, says Dr. C. Gratton Kemp, Michigan State University researcher.

Kemp feels many gifted children are stifled by a "rigid" classroom environment.

EACH HAS ADVANTAGES

Shall You Rent or Buy Home?

By HENRY J. BECHTOLD
NEW YORK (UPI)—Home owner or apartment dweller?

If you're one of the many Americans pondering this question, give it extra careful thought because, for most of us, buying a house is the biggest single purchase we will ever make.

The United States Savings and Loan League has devoted a section of one of its new booklets to this particular subject.

The first thing to do, according to the League is to decide whether you really want to own your own home or whether you are a confirmed renter. Although 60 per cent of the families in the United States now occupy their own homes, there always will be many persons who prefer to rent.

TO FIND OUT in which category you fit you will want to consider some of the advantages and disadvantages of both home ownership and renting. The League listed the following as some of the advantages of living in your own home:

—You'll live in a better community — the density of population is smaller than in apartment building sections. There is less street traffic, congestion and noise. Because of the financial stake home-owning families have, individual homes usually are better maintained than rental property.

—You'll live in better housing—homes generally offer more space, more rooms, better design, and the use of bigger and better appliances and other equipment than do apartments.

—You'll enjoy congeniality of neighbors—most home-owning neighbors are comprised of people of similar social, economic and educational background. This similarity of interests usually means a minimum of friction, and a maximum of opportunity for developing lasting and enjoyable friendships.

—You'll be building a financial "nest egg."

—You'll have a much greater sense of personal contentment.

THESE ARE THE MAJOR ADVANTAGES of owning your own home. Of course, there are some disadvantages, too, and before you buy a house you should become acquainted with them, the league stresses.

Specifically, there is the work and expense of maintaining your own home—two things an apartment dweller worries little about. A certain amount of time has to be given to maintenance, such as cutting the grass, painting, decorating and other minor tasks. The league notes that some people find these tasks not burdensome, but rather enjoyable, and a refreshing change of pace from normal employment.

As for maintenance costs, the booklet notes that a small portion will have to be set aside each month to meet these needs, the amount dependent upon the age and construction of the house, and how well it is kept up.

Planning Big Anniversary Store Event

The F. M. Thomas furniture and appliance store at 1639 E. Artesia St. will kick off a two-week promotional event starting Monday commemorating the firm's 25th anniversary in business in North Long Beach.

Twenty-five years ago, the firm opened as a grocery store near the present location. Later, the grocery store was liquidated in favor of a jewelry business, which expanded into the present 45,000 square feet of floor space containing furniture, appliances, jewelry, TV and Hi-Fi.

Gene and Pauline Thomas assumed control of the firm in 1945 following Gene's wartime tour of duty with the U. S. Navy.

Store manager Guy Robins announced that commencing Monday, Feb. 23 and every day through Saturday, March 7th, there will be a free merchandise award. Final award will be a deluxe Admiral TV given away March 7.

Quiz Program

North Long Beach Realty Club members will have a Silver Dollar Quiz at the breakfast meeting Thursday morning at Mayo's Restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave.

Homes of Quality in Park Sycamore

K. W. KOLL
Known For Fine Homes

Park Sycamore Homes are a pleasing example of the result of careful planning, careful buying, attention to detail and builder integrity, salesmen stress.

Recently finished and now half sold out, Park Sycamore Homes in Orange were built by K. W. Koll, credited by many in the building industry as being one of the most progressive and talented builders in Southern California.

President of K. W. Koll Construction Co., in Costa Mesa, "Kenny" Koll has earned respect for the fine building product that he so consistently produces.

"His homes have one recognizable trademark to be found in each one regardless of price level or size," a salesman added. "That trademark is quality and attention to finished detail."

A VERY ACTIVE BUILDER. Koll has just completed and sold in Orange County outstanding home developments such as Mesa Highlands, Waverly Manor and Park Sycamore in Orange, as well as several large triplex developments including Mesa Patios and Wilson Patios in Costa Mesa.

His plans for 1959 are vast and include several million dollars of construction activity.

Greeting Cards Big Business

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last year's sales of greeting cards with sentiments ranging from anniversary good wishes to hangover condolences totaled nearly 5 billion. The retail value of this mountain of sentiment was approximately $550 million.

Carefree Living in Big Hallmark Home

Carefree living is assured in Hallmark Homes of East Anaheim which is continuing grand opening of its first unit according to Frank Lyon, general manager.

The choice location—close to mountains, beaches and many other popular points of interest—is highlighted by the many groves of orange trees for which Orange County is noted.

Hallmark Homes have 70 to 80 ft. frontage lots, providing plenty of space for easy Southern California living for the whole family. Of quality construction, the homes feature heavy shake roof, forced air heat, beautiful fireplaces, natural ash paneling in cabinets and doors, a sliding glass door opening unto a roofed patio, and many, many other luxury items. The development is convenient to schools and within walking distance of a major shopping center.

New, low FHA terms are available, with $850 down, plus costs and impounds.

Reversal in Trust Deed Firm's Case

SAN FRANCISCO—In the unanimous decision handed down last week by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, the integrity and financial stability of Los Angeles Trust Deed & Mortgage Exchange, Trust Deed & Mortgage Exchange, and Trust Deed & Mortgage Markets, were vindicated by the court's reversal of the prior order of the district court, and the matter was remanded to the lower court for further proceedings.

Trust Deed & Mortgage Exchange operates offices in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego and other California cities.

The ruling handed down by Chief Judge A. L. Stephens, Circuit Judge William Healy and Circuit Judge Stanley N. Barnes, held in part:

"This is a most unusual case in that there is no evidence in the record of any loss to any purchaser of any trust deeds sold by defendant Los Angeles Trust Deed & Mortgage Exchange."

"Again we repeat that this record fails to disclose that any one person has been defrauded out of any money. There are no investors or customers complaining or a party to this lawsuit."

"The record fails to support any finding of insolvency or bankruptcy of Los Angeles Trust Deed & Mortgage Exchange or Trust Deed & Mortgage Exchange."

U.S. Rubber to Sponsor P.O.P. Train

SANTA MONICA — The U. S. Rubber Co. has joined the list of outstanding national firms participating in Pacific Ocean Park and will sponsor the Mystery Island at the Park's seaward tip.

One of the major attractions at P.O.P., the Mystery Island will feature the U. S. Rubber Plantation Train, which transports the passengers through tropical jungles, an earthquake, a "live" volcano, and a violent thunderstorm.

Addition of the firm brings to eight the list of national organizations associated with P.O.P. The others are Bank of America, Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Golden State Dairies, John Morrell & Co., National Theaters, Union Oil Co. and Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Currently in the midst of a multi-million-dollar construction program, Pacific Ocean Park will reopen May 29 and will feature a host of new attractions.

Bubble Barrier Controls Waves

DOVER, Eng. (UPI) — A barrier of bubbles is breaking up the waves that lash the port of Dover.

Through a system installed two years ago, air is piped from the shore to the sea bed at the harbor's entrance, and then sent up to the surface as bubbles. This breaks the waves down by about 50 per cent.

Plans for a Pacific Coast Builder Conference in San Francisco, July 6-9, 1959, were announced by Stanley Scott, San Diego president of the Home Builders Council of California, and John H. Kuhl, president of the Building Contractors Assn. of California. The conference is to provide an opportunity for home builders to meet and discuss problems of the industry as they pertain to the Pacific Coast and to view the products of manufacturers and distributors to be used in homes produced on the West Coast, Kuhl disclosed.

THE ROEBUCKS, like so many others, chose Lakewood Country Club Estates because it is truly a prestige address with value that is growing every day. In such an area, environment is the key to present and future value and this includes all factors, such as location, scenery, general convenience and social prestige, salesmen say.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: What's in the names HALLADAY and HOLLIDAY? L. H. Wilmington; R. H., Westminster.

L. H., R. H.: The HALLADAY and HOLLIDAY lineages of England are descended from Walter Halliday, who was called "The Minstrel." He was Master of Revels to King Edward IV (1461-1483). Walter Halliday acquired the estates of Rodborough, Gloucestershire. His progeny spread into Wiltshire and Somerset during the late Middle Ages. The surname Halliday originated as a baptismal name, "Halig-Daeg," meaning "Born on the Holy Day (Sunday)." The Halliday coat of arms has three silver helmets centered on a silver bordered, black shield. Moses Halliday was a land owner in Adams County, Pennsylvania in 1767.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like your analysis of CYR, originally St. Cyr. Mrs. B. D., Norwalk.

MRS. B. D.: CYR is shortened from the French town-name St. Cyr, a place which is now in the suburbs of Paris and is the location of a famous military school. Saint-Cyr originated as the Latin given name Cyricus, meaning "the Master." No coat-of-arms is recorded for the Cyr family.

DEAR MISS RULE: Will treasure brief genealogy on CROSS. M. J. C., Garden Grove; MRS. K. W., Wilmington.

M. C., K. W.: The surname CROSS was given to a remote English ancestor whose home was located at a roadside shrine containing a cross or crucifix. Early records list Sampson Atte Croice (At the Cross) of Somerset in 1327, and Thomas Atte-Cross of Norfolk in the 1400s. The Cross family coat-of-arms is a shield divided into four quarters or sections. The upper left and lower right quarters are red, with a gold cross-potent in the center (a Cross-potent has a cross bar at the end of each arm, so that the arms appear like the letter "T"); the upper right and lower left sections of the shield are gold with no emblem on them. Robert Cross of England was among the first settlers of Ipswich, Mass.; he died in 1674, leaving a long line of descendants through his six children.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin of McGRAW or MacGRAW. MRS. B. T., MRS. M., G. M., Long Beach. B. T., M., G. M.; McGRAW came from the Gaelic Irish clan-name MacRaith meaning "Sons of the prosperous man." The family originated in Donegal, northern Ireland, and lived at Temon Macgrath, Castle on Lough Erne. Some branches of the clan lived in Scotland, where the name Anglicized to MacCrea. The Irish descendants modernized the name to MacGraw, Mc-Graw and McGrew. The ancient clan coat-of-arms has three silver lions on a red shield. DEAR MISS RULE: Could you tell about HARMON? C. M., Wilmington; B. H., Artesia; P. H., Bellflower. C. M., B. H., P. H.: The early Saxon-English given name "Mann" meant "hero." The source of HARMON was "Here - Mann," meaning "Army-Hero." Richard Harman or Harmon was a 14th century Yorkshire landowner.

The Harmon coat-of-arms from Staffordshire has a silver stag head between four silver birds, with these emblems on a black cross in the center of a silver shield. DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give genealogy on HECTOR. A. F. C., B. C., Long Beach. A. C., B. C.: The French surname HECTOR was a baptismal name in the early Middle Ages. It was first used in celebrated Hector, legendary warrior-companion of Achilles and hero of the battles during the fall of the city of Troy in Greek history. Hector meant "man who has strength." The Hector coat-of-arms, granted to family branches in Paris and in the French provinces of Anjou and Poitou, has three gold castle towers centered on a blue shield. Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

Created for the time conscious woman in social duties, career or homemaking, "Conventional," modeled by Mabel Purcell, is black and silver, adaptable, easily kept up.

Golden blonde "Sans Care" is no trouble at all! Short, as fashion dictates. Feminine as spring, alluring for honey blonde Jean Ritchie, it hides a secret: No matter the hour or the occasion, it's in style, refreshed in a trice.

Cool Colors Go to the Head

MEMBERS of Long Beach Hairdressers' Guild, who coiffure the world's most beautiful women—Miss Universe Beauty Pageant contestants—today and Monday are hosting their 16th annual beauty and trade show at Lafayette Hotel. Outstanding hair stylists from the western states will vie for the coveted grand award and seven trophies, symbols of professional achievement.

Also on the two-day program are exhibits, demonstrations by specialists, and the appearance of guests: Warren Meek, James Victor, Helen Hunt of Columbia Studios, and Evy Norlund, who was Miss Denmark in this year's Miss Universe contest.

Keyed to spring's more feminine dress and millinery styles, new hair fashions have a fuller look at the sides, caress the face, are definitely under control for a well-groomed look.

Color is important, with vivid, clean, cool brilliance; as many as six tones may be used for subtle highlighting. But gone is last season's bold streaking, just as the chemise has faded into fashion limbo.

The show opens today at noon in the hotel's grand ballroom; Monday's program will begin at 12:30 p.m. Final events are scheduled each day at 9 p.m. Sessions are open to the public.

Glenda Apedaile's hair glints golden high lights. Soft-waved for soaring height, her coiffure, "The Swan," has sophisticated air.

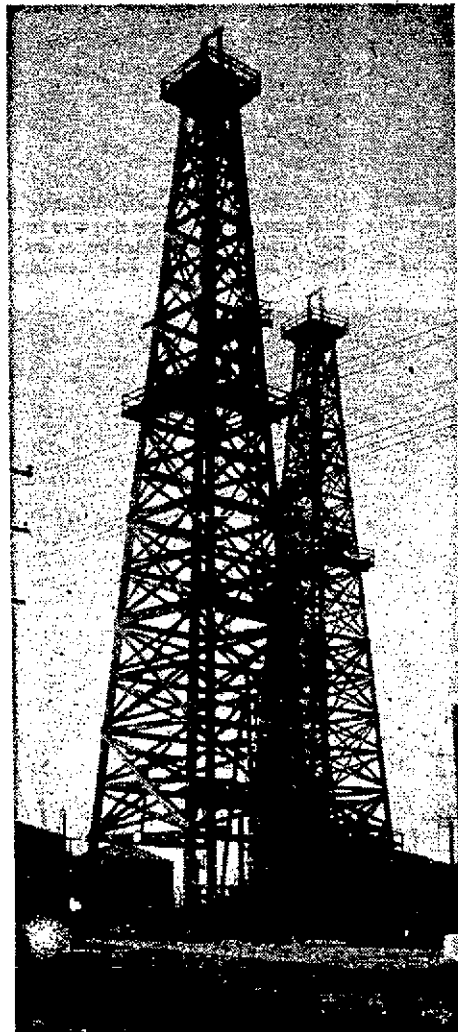

Brief design that's sweetly simple to tend, Betty Tuggel's bronze-auburn tresses are in tune to high fashion in "Baby Contessa."

Designed for Patricia Springs' smoky silver hair, "Empressa" is regal, but lifting. Waves are lifting, but a ribbon of soft hair lies at hairline. "Madcap," styled for Kathleen Skriptus (right), is youthful and gay. It is pink and beige.

Hidden oil wells are at work here on Pier A, only temporary rigs are seen.

A Century of Oil in California

By Betty Hardesty

A REVIEW of a century of oil in California parallels that of the nation which celebrates the Petroleum Centennial this year. With just a brief look backward 100 years, the contrast of early methods and tools for oil drilling and refining, with the elaborate scientific equipment and products today, is as amazing as the world progress made possible by petroleum.

The centennial dates from the first oil well drilled in June 1859. Known as Drake's Discovery Well, it set off an oil boom in Pennsylvania. In California, however, people had known about oil for a century before that and in Ventura County, oil seepages were actually being distilled in 1857, two years before Drake's well started.

Distillation from surface seepages was begun by George Gilbert, first in San Francisco and then in a small refinery on the Ojai Ranch. This was the first successful commercial oil refinery in California. Indians were the first to collect sticky tar seepages to waterproof baskets, fasten spearheads to wooden shafts and to caulk canoes. In addition, coughs and colds were treated with the lighter oils as well as burns and cuts by the Coastal Indians who also traded this valuable substance to distant tribes for skins.

EARLY SPANISH PADRES learned about oil from the Indians but it was Gen. Andreas Pico and his nephew who began collecting oil from pits in a canyon near Newhall. They sold it to the Mission of San Fernando for medicine, lubrication and for lamp oil. In California, it was 1861 before the first oil well was drilled. It was located on the Davis Ranch in Humboldt County. Before that it had been easier to dig pits by hand into hillsides near seepages so that oil trickling from sides and roofs of tunnels could flow out by gravity.

Oil seepages from sandstone are still prevalent and easy to see along the hillsides of canyons through which Highway 150 runs from Ojai to Santa Paula. The smell of sulphur springs is also noteworthy here as oil and sulphur go together. In this region, the Union Oil Company of California got its start from a few wells in the Santa Paula-Newhall District. The growth of this company from pioneer days to the present multimillion-dollar industry is typical of major oil companies of California.

Union has also made a unique contribution to the preservation of the history of oil in our state, the establishment of an oil museum at Santa Paula.

The California Oil Museum is located in the original old office building of the Union Oil built in 1888 at the corner of Main and 10th Sts. in the business district of Santa Paula and is open from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. daily. More than 750 visitors monthly are welcomed to the museum by J. G. Dickey who explains the early documents and oil drilling tools and equipment donated or loaned by the entire oil industry of California.

A LARGE COLLECTION of old photographs attracts attention and visitors take time to study a glass display of "forams" (foramenifera fossils) 60 million years old, in actual and enlarged form. These are fossils found in oil-bearing rock strata and a mere century doesn't phase them. Geology also has a place in the exhibit through large colored murals, one a cross section including the, first Adams Canyon well dug in 1880.

Most of California's wells have been drilled in the southern part of the state. As the search for oil spread, drillers punched holes which located the three major oil producing areas known as the "Coastal" from Santa Maria south through Ventura County, the "San Joaquin Valley," and the "Los Angeles Basin" composed of oil-rich Los Angeles and Orange Counties. The state's largest field is Wilmington.

Though most of the oil wells are in the Southland, California oil refineries are concentrated near San Francisco as well as Los Angeles. That is because refineries must be located where they can serve the greatest number of people conveniently and where harbors provide shipping facilities. Over land, however, a tremendous pipe-line system has spread to handle a total of about 400 million barrels of crude oil per year. From the oil fields, the crude oil is pumped through 8,000 miles in California, alone. An example is one which starts at Santa Maria, flows inland to the San Joaquin Valley and then north to San Francisco Bay.

MUCH CRUDE OIL IS ALSO carried by truck tankers but even these are an era away from the clay pots used by Indians and padres or wooden barrels of the '80s. It is unlikely anyone dreamed then that petroleum would change the living habits

Bugles at Dawn

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Millard R. Eshelman of 273 Quincy Ave., a retired railroad telegrapher and oil worker, served in the old horse cavalry in that limbo of Western history between the turn of the century and World War I. In the following story, he tells of life at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, in the early 1900s.)

By M. R. Eshelman
As Told to Bob Whearley

A MAN really knew how to live in the old U. S. horse cavalry!

Now don't get me wrong. I'm not one of those old coots who says you just can't improve on the old days. But I do maintain that over the years we've lost something—the ability to have a good time, without a fat wad of crisp greenbacks in our pockets.

I put in a year with the Fifth Cavalry at Fort Huachuca—that's in Arizona—back in 1907. Might have made a career of it, too, but my folks let it be known that I'd lied about my age (I was only 17 and the rules said you had to be 21). The Army kicked me out.

But I'm 'way ahead of my story. Let me take it from the beginning.

I SIGNED UP in Columbus, Ohio, and was shipped off to Huachuca with about 40 other green recruits. What a bunch! There were big, gangling farm kids from the upper Midwest, glinty-eyed sharpies from New York City, a couple of boys who had gotten tired of college.

It was a four-day train ride in those days, and we passed the time playing cards, reading dog-eared dime novels and telling tall tales.

When we got to Huachuca, the holiday was over. An escort from the fort rode to the railroad depot to meet us and we were loaded into mule-drawn wagons for the seven-mile trip to our new home.

Now we had heard that the old-timers sort of looked down their noses at recruits. Well, maybe that was true back East, but not at Huachuca. We found out why later: With 40 new men on the post, there was less work to go around! And let me tell you, some of those boys really hated work.

Fort Huachuca was, and is, nestled on the desert floor in Cochise County, about 30 miles southeast of Tucson. Back in 1907, it consisted of a group of long, adobe buildings situated around a dusty parade ground. Hot as Hades in the summer, it was pretty brisk that February day when our wagons bounced down the road to the fort.

I WAS ASSIGNED to C Troop, and spent the first few days drawing my equipment and making friends with a great big bay assigned to me. But there was none of this business of tetanus shots and aptitude tests; speaking of the latter, I guess the Army figured a dumb farm boy could shovel manure just as well as a college kid.

A few years before, the Army had changed from blue uniforms to olive drab. Being a cavalymen, we wore canvas and leather puttees instead of the old canvas leggings. And we carried sabers and Springfield '03s on our saddles, and revolvers on our belts.

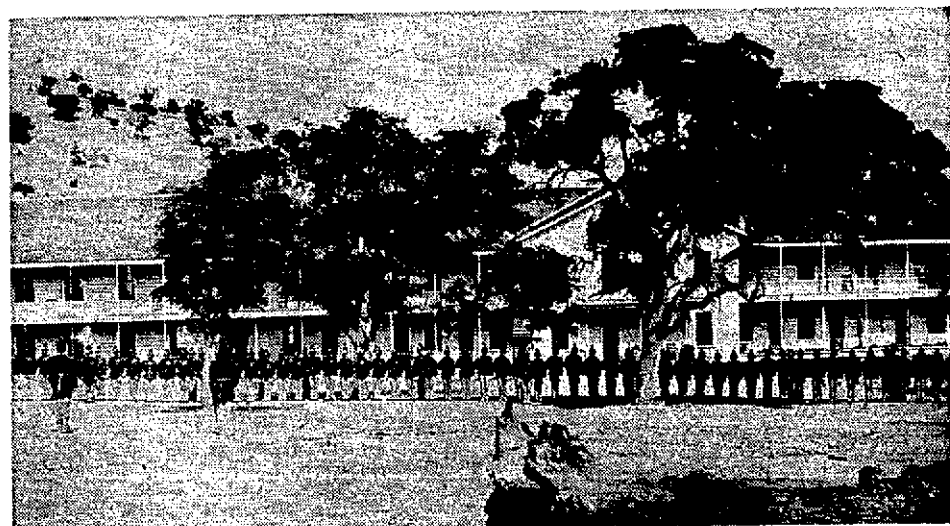

Pay in those days wasn't exactly the best; we were between wars, and nobody thought much of the Army. We drew $12.75 one month, then $13 the next. They took out a quarter every other month for support of the Old Soldiers' Home.

A lot of guys were fined $10 for such things as sneaking whiskey onto the post or talking back to non-coms. We all figured it was real thoughtful of the Army, leaving us with enough cash money to

Fort Huachuca soldiers, in the old days of the fort, probably in the 1880s, pose with Apache Indian scouts. M. R. Eshelman of Long Beach knew the life at the fort.

Dragoons [cavalry] are drawn up here on parade line at Fort Huachuca in the early frontier days. Long, adobe buildings were grouped around the central parade area.

Fort Huachuca continues as an army installation and this is a section of former Wild West bastion as it appears today. It was important in Apache uprising days.

Surveying the President's Chair

By Mary Lynoff

"MOTHER, was George Washington the most?" asked Eddie Bragg.

"Yes, dear," answered his mother, "and the greatest."

Eddie had come into the kitchen as Mrs. Anne Bragg was finishing the evening dishes. She opened a cupboard door and neatly spread out the tea towel to dry.

"Not only was he the greatest, Eddie, but he was the first President of our Country — and today, February 22, is his birthday."

"But Mom, dig this," and he held out a blue volume toward his mother, "this book says he cut down his father's favorite cherry tree. And his father was mad... how could such a square get to be President of the United States, huh?"

Eddie, an eighth-grade student in a Long Beach junior high, had mentioned a night or two before that his class was studying American history.

THE MOTHER'S HAND reached out to snap out the kitchen light.

"That was when George was a very small boy, dear, even younger than you, Eddie," answered pretty Mrs. Bragg.

A few minutes later Eddie and his mother were comfortably situated in the living room—she on the davenport and he leaning over her shoulder looking at what she held in her hands—an old newspaper.

Eddie started reading out loud from the newspaper—

"Mount Vernon in Virginia," and his eyes almost popped, "July 15, 1773." And it's signed "George Washington! Gee, Mother."

"This newspaper, Eddie," said his mother calmly, "was published 186 years ago at Baltimore, Maryland. Look how old—even tiny holes on the front page. Daddy and I wrapped it in cellophane or it would have fallen apart long ago. The year 1773..." mused the mother, "that's two years before the beginning of the American Revolution."

"THIS AD," she continued, "was inserted in the Maryland Journal by Washington to try and lease some 20,000 acres of land he had acquired while he was a surveyor..."

"Holy cow! Let's see it," interrupted Eddie excitedly. He edged over and sat down on the davenport beside his mother.

Where'd you get it? Can I take it to school, Tuesday? Can I Mom?"

"Of course, Eddie. Judy took it to school when she was in seventh grade, and Susan did, too. Listen carefully now while I read to you this ad of George Washington—"

"The subscriber having obtained patents for upwards of twenty thousand acres of land on the Ohio and great Kanhawa..."

proposes to divide the same into any sized tenements that may be desired, and lease them upon moderate terms, allowing a reasonable number of years rent free, provided, within the space of two years from next October, three acres for every fifty contained in each lot, and proportionably for a lesser quantity, shall be cleared, fenced, and tilled; and that, by or before the time limited for the commencement of the first rent, five acres for every hundred shall be enclosed and laid down in good grass for meadow; and moreover, that at least fifty good fruit trees for every like quantity of land shall be planted on the premises."

THE MOTHER STOPPED reading for a moment and looked at her son.

"You'll learn now why George Washington was great. When he was only 21—eight years older than you, Eddie—he was a colonel in the Virginia Army. At 26 he had driven the French out of Virginia. Let's see," pondered the mother, "George must have been about 41 years old when he wrote this ad—a shrewd farmer who knew the land must be cleared, fenced, and tilled; good grass planted for meadow; fruit trees on the land. A man who was to understand—in just a few years—that it was unfair to tax our 13 colonies without representation. A man who would soon be asked to survey the President's chair—"

"Mother," interrupted Eddie, "how'd you get this Maryland Journal?"

Briefly, the mother told the story of how the newspaper of colonial Baltimore had come to Long Beach. Eddie's great grandfather was a Civil War veteran who lived in Jordan, Minn. The Bragg family had a big house there with many rooms, a cellar, and an attic which was a good, safe place to store this old newspaper.

GREAT GRANDFATHER Bragg had been very proud of his family for having been in America such a long time, and he kept the paper carefully all those years. Eventually he gave it to his son, Clarence Bragg, who took it with him when he went West to Seattle. And in time it was

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Added: A Family Room That's a Happy Link

Lower, view of the Wasley home before the family room (above) was added, linking the house and the garage.

By Eileen Ball

OF ALL the stories that can be written about houses, those with the happiest endings are tales of how ordinary houses were remodeled into very extraordinary homes.

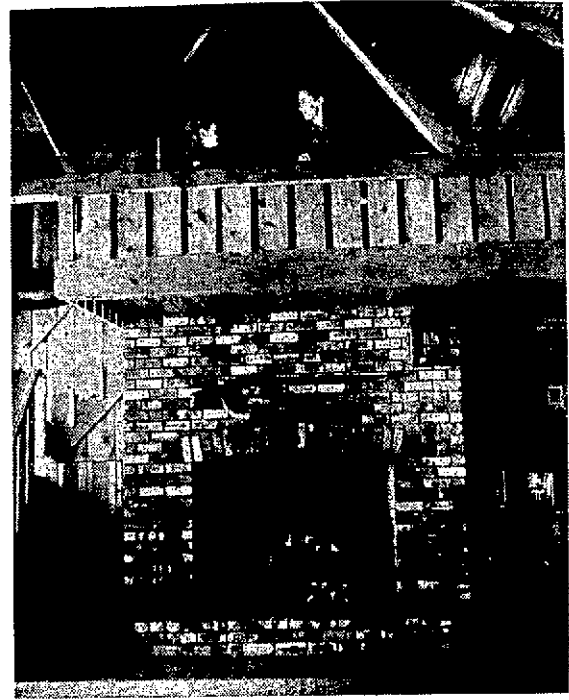

Such a house and just such a family can be found at 3003 Nipomo Ave. where Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wasley and their three children happily abide.

This is a corner house that took happy advantage of its situation by expanding to include a brand new family room that, aside from offering some very great living within itself, has given the entire domicile a feeling of brand-new importance.

Formerly, the house was separated completely from its garage, the two structures facing different avenues. Now they are fluidly integrated by means of a new room that knits the three parts into one spacious whole.

FROM AN exterior point of view, the house compels interest from several standpoints. Perhaps the greatest of these is the view it presents along its Spring St. side where the architectural import of the addition with its three fixed panel windows, its wainscoting and its walls of select used brick is appreciated. At night, a staircase leading to a unique loft is silhouetted against one of the windows, piquing the interest of passers-by as it ascends somewhat mysteriously, to an unexpected bedroom balcony.

Combining with the used

brick planters, wainscoting and walks is soft, cocoa-colored stucco. Another important material feature is the heavy shake covering of the remodeled room. Add to all this a low, split-rail fence, beds of ivy and dichondra and clusters of thickly-foliated trees and a picture-pretty setting is created.

Practically, the house has gained something more than mere good looks with the addition of the new area. Actually, the original footage of something less than 1,300 square feet has expanded to embrace almost 2,000 square feet.

FROM THE TREE-SHADED corner, a walk of brick curves gently to the front door inset with diamond panes of glass. This opens to an entry hall which, like the living room beyond it, has been beautifully paneled in natural Philippine mahogany.

The mahogany paneled living room, with its level ceiling of off-white plaster, is a restful room since the addition of the new family area has relieved it of much of the active family living. In it are displayed many of Wasley's choicest antique firearms, powder horns and steins... well out of the way of the youngsters' exuberant activities.

Display shelves mounted along the walls show off, among many select items, a German Regimental stein, dated 1900. This, a Mettlich, is one of the finest made. Dating back to the Revolutionary War period is an elaborately carved Sons of Liberty powderhorn. In addition, there is a fine old Kentucky flintlock rifle, its stock made of beautifully grained tiger maple. Finally, it should be mentioned that a Walker Colt—one of 110 in existence today—resides proudly in this collection.

FAR FROM imposing an oppressive atmosphere, this masculine assembly of objects contributes handsomely to the informal lodge-like character the house has lately and happily assumed. In addition to the priceless bric-a-brac, the room has wonderfully comfortable, early American-inspired furnishings plus a fine old black walnut desk dating back to 1800.

A black, wrought iron railing separates this area from "Any persons inclinable to settle on these lands may be more fully informed on the terms by applying to the subscriber, near Alexandria, or in his absence, to Mr. Lund Washington; and would do well in communicating their intentions before the 1st of October next, in order that a sufficient number of lots may be laid off to answer the demand."

"Getting sleepy, son?"

"That's all of it, dear. Now to bed," and she put her arm around her son.

"He was cool, real cool," murmured Eddie.

"Mother," said Eddie, and he put his hand on her arm, "if I cut down that little cherry tree that Daddy planted near the fence, can I be President of the United States some day? Can I, Mom?"

NO HUSBAND ever solved the age-old problem of what to do while waiting for his wife more neatly than the famed American poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. He accepted the inevitable and spent the time writing verse.

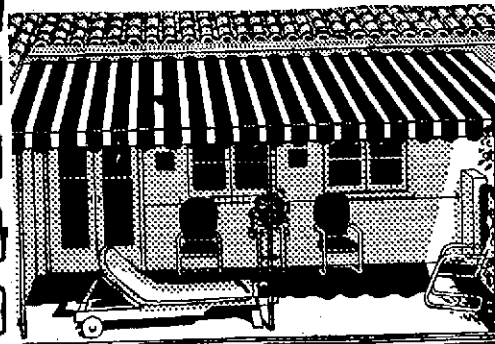

A faithful reproduction of the study where Longfellow wrote "The Arrow and the Song" one Sunday morning while patiently waiting for his wife to get ready to go to church can be seen in "The Church of the Hills at Forest of the entire world. Today, well over half a million Californians depend on oil for a livelihood, but few stop to consider the fact that every barrel of petroleum flowing from our soil contains the makings of 4,000 separate products discovered through oil research in the past 50 years.

Century of Oil

From petroleum come pure white waxes, used for paper and milk cartons, insecticides, asphalt for streets or roofs. Petroleum provides essential ingredients for floor tile, electric insulation, plastics, synthetic fibers, cosmetics, medicines and detergents. Oil plays the big role in providing fuel for cars, planes and industrial engines of progressively higher speeds. Refinery of petroleum has kept pace and made possible the advance of the machine age, the air age and now the space age.

In this century of invention, oil tools and practices have also advanced. Instead of crude ugly equipment shown in the oil museum, the oil industry now uses sound-proof derricks and directional drilling (slanting under ground). Thus many wells can be located on the surface close together so they may be disguised and beautifully landscaped after removal of derricks. Few realize, for instance, when gazing across Long Beach Harbor from the beach, that more than 125 oil wells are pumping on pier A alone.

OIL PIONEERS who dug pits near seepages could not have envisioned the miracles of oil discovery today such as use of seismographs to locate strata beneath the ocean. When used in L.B. Harbor, the seismographs helped locate new structures which might contain reservoirs of oil and natural gas. When oil companies started, coal was the principal fuel. Oil and natural gas now provide 90 per cent of all mechanical energy requirements of Californians. In terms of manpower, this could be considered equivalent to 33 servants for every Californian.

Accent a Teatime Centerpiece

Table set for a bride-to-be shower is bright and shiny, ready to win delighted "ohs" and "ahs" from the guests at tea. The centerpiece accents the happy scene.

By Mildred K. Flanary
 Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

PALATE-TEMPTING picture, isn't it? And delectable, delicious and delightful, too, every dish pictured in this tea table arrangement above. And, may we call your special attention to the arrangement, for today we're concentrating on the centerpiece as well as the menu. They're of equal importance, you know, for eye appeal, mean appetite appeal. Hostesses with a flair for entertaining in a memorable manner may not agree on a specific menu but, whether or not they are aware of it, they are guided by many of the same principals, two of which are beauty and taste appeal.

For almost every special occasion in your life—from a baby's christening to a silver anniversary — entertaining with tea is always right. Today, we dedicate our table to a shower-for-the-bride-to-be. The interest is directed toward the centerpiece, the gifts, the refreshments on the buffet, and the tea table all of which combined to carry out a bright-and-shiny-future theme.

TEA REFRESHMENTS include plates of little party cakes, dishes of nuts, candy and tea service for fresh sparkling tea to complete the menu.

The centerpiece consists of a "bride" made from aluminum foil, fresh flowers in season, ribbon, styrofoam balls and thin wooden 18-inch pole. Your color scheme may be enhanced by the flowers you choose.

To make base:

1. Cut a 5-6-inch ball of styrofoam in half; cover with aluminum foil; place rounded side up.

2. Cut each end of pole to a sharp point. Wind pole with 1/2-inch strip stretched pale green crepe paper, fastening ends just above points with glue or scotch tape. Stick one end of pole in center of base.

3. Punch three rows of small holes, spaced about 1 inch apart in base. An ice pick is good for this.

4. Fill holes with seasonal flowers, spreading them out, to completely cover the base.

To make head:

1. Punch fairly deep hole in 1/4-inch styrofoam ball. Anchor firmly on pole.

2. Make nose and eyes from small pieces of pink and blue felt, ribbon or crepe paper. Glue to ball for face.

To make hat:

1. Cut 10 foil petals 2 1/2 inches by 1 inch. Glue to top of head or attach with pins.

2. Make 16-18 slightly smaller petals from pink satin ribbon. Attach these so they slightly overlap in center.

3. Punch a hole in top of head; fill with a 3-inch bouquet of flowers to form crown of hat.

To make streamers:

1. Cut foil into strips 27 inches by 2 inches; fold in half lengthwise.

2. Attach one end of each strip to pole 4 inches below head.

3. Fasten a few flowers on other ends; place among gifts.

4. Tie pink satin bow over foil ends on pole allowing ends of ribbon to extend well down toward base. Notch ends of ribbon.

5. If a sit-down meal is preferred, small place cards can be attached with the flowers and run out to each place.

To coordinate the bright-and-shiny-future theme, the gift packages were wrapped in gaily colored foil, tied with contrasting ribbon.

Here are a few suggestions for what to serve for the bride-to-be:

EASY PARTY PUNCH

- 2 quarts (1/2 gallon) sherbet
 - 1 quart unsweetened pineapple juice, chilled
 - 1 quart orange juice, chilled
 - 1 quart apple juice, chilled
 - 2 quarts ginger ale, chilled
- Pour chilled juices and ginger ale into punch bowl. Top with scoops of sherbet.

Yield: 50 servings.

LEMON PARTY PUNCH

- 3 cans (5 1/2 oz.) lemon juice
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 quarts strong tea
- 2 quarts water
- 4 cups orange juice
- 1 1/2 quarts cranberry or grape juice
- 1 quart ginger ale.

Dissolve the sugar in the canned lemon juice. Add tea and water, other fruit juices and chill. Just before serving, add ginger ale and pour over ice cubes in a punch bowl. Garnish with slices of banana; strawberries or other fresh fruit. This makes about 2 gallons of inexpensive punch.

That she is strikingly beautiful is evident in this picture of Susan Kohner, a girl who was born to be a star.

Born To Be a Star

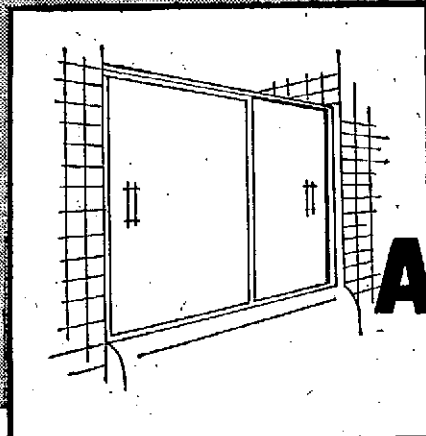

SUSAN KOHNER was born to become a star—if heredity is important. The currently "most talked about young Hollywood dramatic actress" is the daughter of Lupita Tovar, formerly a star of Mexican and American films, and film executive Paul Kohner. "With that background," says Susan, "it was only natural that I wanted to become an actress." She confides that she wrote the story of her life at the age of 10 and two years later wrote, directed and starred in her first play. "Her playmates referred to Susan as 'the female Orson Welles,'" her parents say. She left school to appear opposite the late Tyrone Power on Broadway in "A Quiet Place," a role which brought her talents to the attention of Hollywood and her first film role opposite Audie Murphy in "To Hell and Back." Four films later, Susan plays the dramatic role of Negro actress Juanita Moore's screen daughter in Fannie Hurst's "Imitation of Life," co-starring Lana Turner, John Gavin, Sandra Dee, Dan O'Herlihy and Robert Alda. Here is an introduction to Susan Kohner—born to become a star.

Susan tries a fling as a nightclub entertainer in scene from "Imitation of Life," a story of a young Negro girl.

buy tobacco and soda pop; and, boy, you really needed that soda pop in the summer when the temperature went up to 120 or so.

LOOKING BACK NOW, the food wasn't really so bad. Had a lot of beans, of course. And stringy beef. But I've gone into fancy restaurants right here in Long Beach and been served worse grub.

For the first six weeks, we had stiff training within our outfits. They'd start you out riding bareback on your horse (big, heavy-boned animals, most of them were known by numbers instead of by names). I could ride all right, but there were a lot of recruits who didn't even know how to get aboard.

One of these unhorseman-like horseman was a fellow named Miller from the Bronx section of New York City. Why, he'd come back from a 10-mile ride on the desert and the seat of his pants was sopping wet with blood. He finally was transferred to the Hospital Corps, where he made the grade; of course, by that time no one could have been more used to the sight of blood, especially his own.

They had a special course rigged up for saber-training. It was sort of a slalom arrangement with flags attached to poles spaced at regular intervals. You'd thread your way among the poles, slashing out to right and left to chop down as many flags as you could. It's a wonder more horses didn't lose their ears!

Up until a few years before, the sands of Southern Arizona had run red with blood in a series of Apache uprisings. But by the time I was assigned to Huachuca, things had simmered down—but we occasionally pulled guard duty on Indian prisoners serving sentences in the stockade for things like drunkenness and stealing.

ONE FELLOW WHO didn't care much for the Army was one Private Smith, who was out on the rifle range one day when he decided to try to knock off one of the officers.

He missed, and was promptly whisked off to the guardhouse. That night, somebody slipped him a saw and he escaped. For months after that, we'd get postcards from him from South America, telling us what we were missing.

But it was a good life—a lot of hard work, and you made your own fun.

His 'Pen Pals' Hear His Voice

By Vera Williams

IF YOU want friends around the world but you're not a letter-writer — send them recording tapes.

There's Elmer M. Luther, 2154 Linden Ave. He is a retired railroad conductor and television and radio service technician. He is a member of Tape Respondents International. He receives an average of 15 tapes a week in the mail.

He shuffles through a stack of them: "England . . . Canada . . . Juneau, Alaska . . . South America . . . Jacksonville, Fla. . . Cheyenne, Wyo."

TRI, AS IT IS familiarly known, has 1,760 members in every state of the union and every country except Russia. Members, with their addresses, backgrounds, hobbies and special interests are listed in an annual directory.

Those with tape letters after their names—Luther's, for instance are T6EMI—are expected to answer every tape sent them. The rules require that those without letters be queried by letter or postcard before sending tapes.

"The average tape has 7½ minutes to a side," explains Luther. "Members tell about their localities, weather, families, jobs, interests. Some send music."

The receiver listens to the message, erases it, records his or her own message and mails the tape back.

Luther regularly exchanges tapes with enthusiasts ranging in age from 13 to 70.

A CHEYENNE respondent recently told him it was 17 degrees below zero. A Juneau respondent said the wind had blown 50 miles an hour for 48 hours.

TRI was organized in 1950 by the late Fred Getz of San Francisco. Jim Greene of St. Louis is executive secretary, the only international officer.

About Germany

The new year means new publications on travel in Germany, available upon request from the German Tourist Information Offices in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Montreal.

Most welcome is the newest issue of the popular quarterly, "German Review," lavishly illustrated with photographs and colored art prints and printed in three languages. Featured in this issue is the city of Frankfurt-on-Main, with an historical survey as well as up-to-date information on the city's Rhein-Main Airport, the Zoo, the museums, the university, artistic and theatrical life. Another feature will be especially welcome to housewives, as it consists of recipes of famous German chefs; still other articles tell the traveler what to expect during winter in the Black Forest or Carnival time in Munich.

A new brochure on Germany's winter sports is beautifully illustrated in color and contains valuable information on every winter sports resort in the country—altitude, type of sports available, facilities and accommodations.

Easy Leathercraft

everywhere recommend leathercraft for its therapeutic value and educators say that it stimulates creative imagination.

BECAUSE BELTS are inexpensive, easy to make and something everyone needs, they are the most popular projects with beginners. To make them, all you need do is trace the full size pattern on leather, next tool in the design then add the buckle and it's ready to be used. Belts are good looking, inexpensive and easy to do. One is a contour shaped women's belt and the other a regular belt for men. The materials are available at all good hobby stores.

To obtain the full size women's belt pattern No. 188 for 25 cents or the men's belt pattern No. 187 for 25 cents, send your coin to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, 15155 Saticoy St., Van Nuys, Calif.

DON PARKER dropped in recently and he said, "I'm fed up with cocktail parties. This idea of using alcohol to drug guests into a lot of unintelligent babbling has practically ruined sensible conversation." He went on, "I like a drink now and then, but this thing has gotten out of hand. Why can't friends get together for a congenial evening without a lot of drinks? They would enjoy each other more, save money and eliminate all the headaches."

"In any case," Don said, "I've had enough. From now on I'm going to devote my evenings to something useful and constructive. Because I live in an apartment and have no workshop, I'm going to try my hand at working with leather."

LOTS OF PEOPLE, like Don are taking up leathercraft. For a few cents and a little time, they can make articles for only a fraction of what the regular cost would be. Many have found that they can make a nice profit by making leather items to sell.

A card table is all that's needed for a workshop and the few inexpensive tools required last for a lifetime. Doctors

Nix Those Weeds

A cover crop of weeds can be cussedly annoying to the gardener who has them in his bulb bed. To avoid them, wait until early rains bring the first weed crop, then hoe them off. Chances are you won't find them bothersome when bulbs are blooming. A thorough soaking of the bed is in order to bring them up if rains have been negligent in your area.

If bulbs show signs of sprouting, of course, you can forget all about using the hoe. You'll just have to pull the weeds by hand.

BOOK REVIEWS

A Huckster Claims His Revenge

TAKING UP the cudgels against novelists, script writers and others who he believes have painted an unsavory picture of a perfectly honest though sometimes antic business, Fred B. Manchec strikes a solid blow for advertising in "THE HUCKSTER'S REVENGE: The Truth About Life on Madison Avenue" (Thomas Nelson, $3.95).

What is advertising? It is a product vital in the lives of everyone who buys or sells, a business which in a half-century has grown from the place where office buildings used to display signs announcing "No Beggars, Peddlers, or Advertising Men Allowed" to an $11 billion industry.

And who is Mr. Manchec? He has just retired as treasurer of the nation's fourth largest ad agency—Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn—referred to as BBDO by all ad men and by Jack Benny who says the initials remind him of a truck falling down stairs (ex-President Harry Truman once said the initials stood for "Bunko, Bull, Deceit and Obfuscation").

Mr. Manchec tells the story of that agency, a group of men and women engaged in what they feel is an important business. In the doing he recounts his 32 exciting and unusual years as a copywriter, accountant, researcher, and finally as an advertising executive. He delves into all of advertising's nooks and crannies such as those fabled expense accounts, the 15 per cent agency commission, that latest scare phenomenon known as subliminal advertising, and the most maligned branch of the business: "Research."

One bit of research he tells about is that done for a series of Community Silver advertisements featuring kiss pictures. The question had arisen: Should the girls in the artwork be shown with eyes open or shut? The question was put to the young ladies at BBDO. It was eyes closed for three-fourths of the group. Less than two in

MONICA STIRLING

Escape from behind the Iron Curtain of a 16-year-old girl and her aunt, and what happens to them, makes a vivid, real story when told by Monica Stirling in "SIGH FOR A STRANGE LAND" (Atlantic, Little-Brown, $3.50). The girl tells the story and she's both light-hearted and serious but always reminding the reader, by the pattern of her life, that she is a refugee.

10 played it both ways. About 6 per cent callously kept their eyes open. Result? The ad shows the girl's eyes closed.

But Mr. Manchec's book will open many an eye to the truths about advertising, and its importance to the forward march of humanity.

"THE FIFTH CALLER" by Helen Nielsen (Morrow, $2.95): In fog-drenched Southern California, Dr. Lillian Whitehall, dealer in medicine and metaphysics is killed at 5:22—by a clock that stops at that time. Douglas Marshall, a district attorney's investigator, systematically sifts Dr. Whitehall's five callers that fatal day. And the finger of suspicion points squarely at the beautiful Anna Bardossy, who has tried to commit suicide and now claims amnesia. It's a chilling mystery, with a couple of points: the world needs healers more than murderers; and having the same things to forget draws people together as much as having the same things to remember.

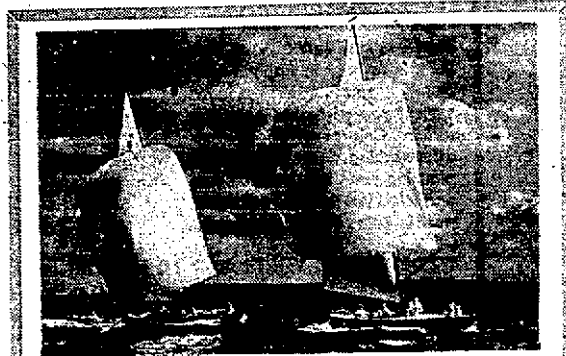

"THE WATCH THAT ENDS THE NIGHT" by Hugh MacLennan (Scribner's, $3.95): George knew two things when he married Catherine—that she suffered an illness that might kill her any day, and that her once tempestuous love for Jerome had calmed down a great deal by the time he went away to join the Spanish Loyalists to die. But Jerome hadn't died and he was coming home, and what happens then provides the action for this evenly flowing novel by a Canadian who knows a few things about life and how to put them on paper with great effectiveness.

"1959 WORLD ALMANAC AND BOOK OF FACTS" (New York World-Telegram and The Sun, paperbound $1.35, cloth $2): It's here once again, the book which for 74 years has been able to settle just about any argument with its almost inconceivable range of subjects for a single encyclopedic volume. As always, it contains such facts as eclipses, tides, wonders of the ancient world to the massive bridges and buildings of the modern age, entertainment to medical science, sports to fashions. And the 1959 edition brings all tables and data up-to-date with 1958 national and state elections, accomplishment of science from nuclear submarines to satellites, the quick turn upward from a recession, happenings abroad, new legislation on taxes, pensions, postal rates. All sports events also are covered.

"HOW TO RELAX AND HAVE YOUR BABY" by Edmund Jacobson, M. D. (McGraw Hill, $3.95): Originator of standard methods for teaching the skill of relaxing scientifically, Dr. Jacobson applies his formula to pregnancy and childbirth to best preserve the expectant mother's health and energies and to keep her free from fear. And the doctor should know: The first three babies born by this method were his own. An earlier book "You Must Relax" won Dr. Jacobson considerable public enthusiasm.

"ON BECOMING A FLY FISHERMAN" by Alexander Macdonald (McKay, $4.50): Here's trout for breakfast for the angler. Pure entertainment with fishing adventures and anecdotes, it also has much to tell the unskilled fly fisher. The author, a Los Angeles attorney, wrote a previous book called "Design for Angling."

FOR THE CHILD: A fine new book for the very young is "I WOULD LIKE TO BE A PONY" (Harper, $2) by Dorothy Baruch, noted child psychologist. Her verse—delicate, happy and understanding—is capably matched by drawings by Mary Chalmers who has several picture books to her credit.

Memorial

Lawn Memorial-Park-Holly-wood Hills. This edifice, erected as a sacred memorial to Longfellow's religious poems, was copied after the first parish meeting house of Portland, Maine, where Longfellow worshipped as a boy and a young adult. The name was inspired by one of the poet's most familiar works, "Sunrise on the Hills."

THE LONGFELLOW ROOM was built from the original (1759) plans of Craigle House, the poet's home in Cambridge, Massachusetts. The chair beside the hearth, the standing desk at which Longfellow wrote all of his major poems, the great cabinets and the paintings all are as they were in his lifetime. A carved chair and one of the cabinets are priceless originals. Other pieces have been duplicated exactly. The books, all of which were printed prior to 1882, could have been Longfellow's. Many of them were given to Forest Lawn in memory of the man once known as America's most widely read poet.

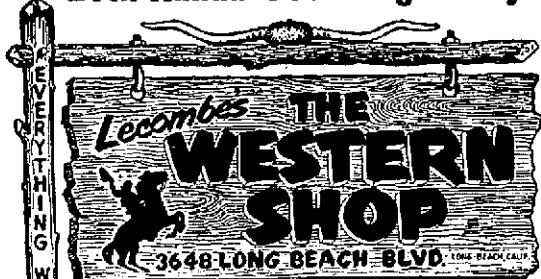

Longfellow, the son of a well-to-do lawyer, was born in Portland, Maine, Feb. 27, 1807. When at the age of 30 he came to board at Craigle House he had just accepted the chair of modern languages at Harvard College. Then, in 1843 when he married Frances Appleton her father gave the newlyweds Craigle House as a wedding gift. And like young couples everywhere they remodeled and refurbished the historic mansion which was to be their home for more than three decades, in accordance with the taste of their day.

IN THE 17 YEARS that Longfellow supported his family by teaching at Harvard, his poetry was written only at night. In the candlelit study the poet and his brilliant wife spent long hours delving into the vast amount of research necessary for such works as "Evangeline" and "The Song of Hiawatha." And seated by the hearth Longfellow penned the simple graceful lyrics which quickly earned for him the title of the "poet with the human touch."

help her put together her act for the London nightclub circuits.

Dedicated to jazz, which he terms "Pure Americana,—music with a meaning, history, rhythm and style," he has always been a critic of the "musical know-nothings" who affect the argot of jazz musicians in an attempt to appear learned on the subject.

"When some character bounces up to a musician and says 'Hi daddy-o, gimme a little skin,' chances are he hasn't the vaguest idea of what jazz is.

"These people who use the wild, erratic hip expressions . . . most of the time not knowing what they mean . . . are in their own terms' square as sugar cubes and not nearly as sweet."

Troup said that a good many jazz musicians are better educated than a large percent of their audience. Behind their music are years of formal education, plus additional work at special music conservatories.

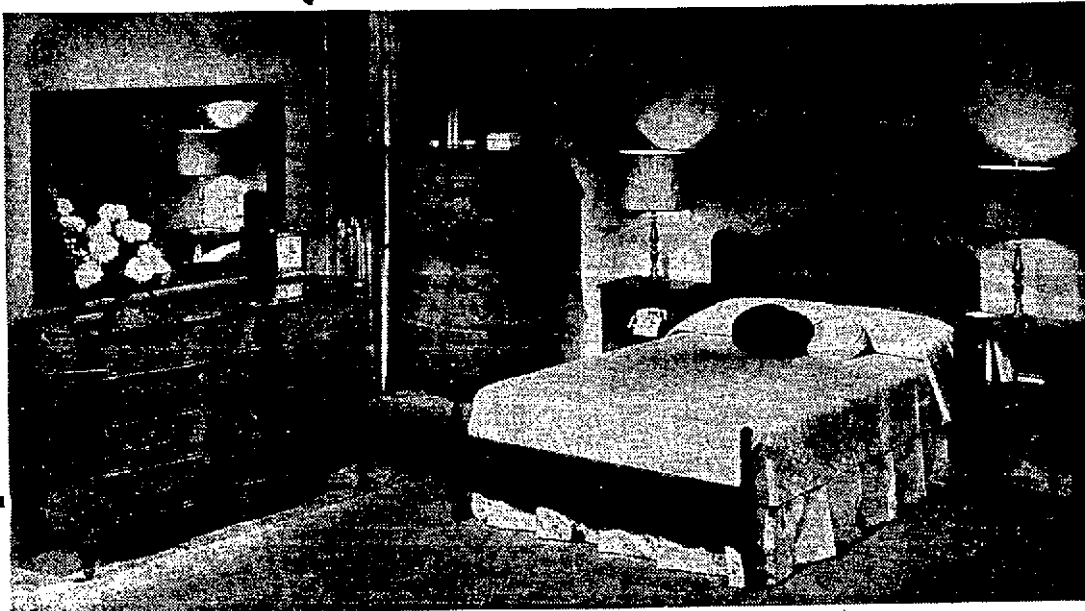

HE CLAIMS THAT the idea that jazz musicians all talk a strange argot is the world's most blatant stereotype. Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong is an exception but his hip dialogue is part of an act."

The beatnik preference in music leans toward progressive jazz . . . or jazz poetry. He pointed out that this did not indicate they understood the intricate counterpoint or mathematical perfection of the music, but often because they like to pretend understanding.

"It's a shame really because you don't have to be able to write a symphony to appreciate hearing one . . . maybe when the beatniks understand this, they won't be so beat."

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"We would like a restaurant that typifies the flavor, food and music in each of the following places: Madrid, Lisbon, Paris, Rome, London, Dublin, Geneva."

IN MADRID: El Pulpito in a corner of the old Plaza Mayor—you have to bring in a guitar player from the street for music.) Suckling pig is very good.

IN LISBON: I like Choupana on the road to Estoril. (Crayfish in a wine sauce is excellent and so are the Portuguese wines.) For even more atmosphere, you could try the fado singer places in the old quarter; Machado's and Festa Brava are both good.

PARIS HAS SO many places. Maxim's is most famous. A three star restaurant for food and good dinner music. If you want something more lively, La Grenouille in the Latin Quarter.

IN ROME I like Romulo's in the Trastevere section. Especially in the summer when you can eat under the grape arbor.

FOR LONDON, I like the food and atmosphere at Rule's in Maiden Lane. No music, but the jugged hare is good if it is in season. And there is usually Stilton cheese and a good wine list.

IN DUBLIN: Jammet's is the most colorful restaurant. No music. Good food, atmosphere and a fine cellar.

IN GENEVA, I found De Plat d'Argent in the old town very good. I think there was a violin player. Mazot in rue Kleberg is famous for raclette, a cheese dish that depends on the season. If it is out of season, you can get along on the fondue. The wines are grown by the owner.

"We are thinking of spending some time in Spain and wonder about San Sebastian."

THIS IS the most expensive part of an inexpensive country. If you have time to explore, why don't you try the sea coast down around Malaga. Or the Costa Brava above Barcelona. Prices will be about half those of San Sebastian.

"Can we ship purchases home from Mexico safely?"

NO. IF YOU have the same experience I have had, only about 50 per cent of your things will get through. Some will be lost. Some stores will ship your things other people bought and ship your stuff to them. Some things just never will be shipped.

Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine's roving correspondent.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

French Travel Up

Travel in France will probably be more expensive this year despite the recent devaluation of the franc, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Following closely on the heels of the welcome news that the franc had been devalued, came advice from many French hotels in Paris and on the Riviera of "rate adjustments."

The Auto Club and travel agencies are now receiving corrected rate sheets from some of the French luxury hotels which show franc increases amounting to between 5 and 10 per cent in the dollar cost. An example of this is the famous George V in Paris which has increased its franc rate so much that the actual dollar rate for a room with twin beds has gone up $1.87 per night.

Make the question specific. Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Soothing Motorists' Nerves

One construction firm in San Diego, seeking to placate motorists' nerves, used a sign lettered in up-to-date rock 'n' roll jargon. Resulting snickers eased the strain of traffic tie-ups, making them just a little more bearable.

PET PARADE

Should You Own a Dog?

By Eleanor Avery Price

Chip, a rare Amertoy, is a lucky dog to have Lynn Jalbert as his mistress.

A DOG doesn't regard his master as an owner or even as his best friend: He thinks of him as either a super-dog parent or a pack leader, and the other members of the family as lesser relations or other members of the pack. Before you bind a dog to you in this lifelong fidelity, find out how capable you are for such a role by taking the following quiz:

- 1. Do you like children?
Dogs need care and firm but not abusive direction administered by someone who loves them. If the responsibility and understanding that children entail bore you, probably you won't make a good dog-parent.
- 2. Are you a perfectionist?
Dogs shed, track in mud, collect odors. If these disturb you, don't get a dog.
- 3. Are you easily upset by problems and anxieties?
If so, you may strike out unnecessarily at a dog and keep it in an unhealthy emotional state. Pets are not for you.
- 4. Are you fussy about your person and wardrobe?
Good. Your dog will be brushed, groomed, de-flea-ed, and have scrubbed teeth.
- 5. Do you have regular check-ups with your doctor or dentist?
Lucky dog. The veterinarian will be his friend.
- 6. Are you overly indulgent?
Kindness to the dog does not consist in giving him many snacks, neglecting his training, letting him run loose,

- coddling him in too many ways. Get a stuffed dog.
- 7. Can you make quick decisions?
If you can't, not even a dog will be admirably impressed by you.
- 8. Are you quick to praise?
If so, your dog will be well-behaved, wanting to please.
- 9. Are you responsible?
You must be, for you will be virtually a dog's only means of living.
- 10. Are you rain-proof?
Dogs like to go for walks in almost any weather.
- 11. Do you like to go places, do things?
Dogs do. They are real pals.

Electric Eye Does It

By The Shutterbug

RESULTS of 16 rolls of 8-mm. motion picture film taken on a trip to Europe by Mrs. Shutterbug, who qualifies very well as a novice, have answered a lot of questions concerning the electric eye principle for movie cameras.

Despite long years of association with a dyed-in-the-wool camera fan, Mrs. Shutterbug has never bothered her head over f-stops, or anything else faintly resembling the technical side of taking pictures. But she took over the electric eye camera and did a fine job, which leads to the following conclusions:

1. The electric eye principle is effective on movie cameras.
2. Under normal lighting conditions you will get perfect exposures all the time, but there are occasions when the electric eye is swayed by extreme lighting situations and the results are not perfect.
3. A novice can use an electric eye camera and be assured of consistently good exposures but that in itself may not make a good movie. More important is the choice of subject matter.
My wife's experience proves the effectiveness of the electric eye gadgetry. At no time during the 16 rolls of film she shot did she concern herself about a camera setting. Using the new Brownie Scopesight camera, all she had to do was to turn one dial to keep a black line in the center of her viewfinder. If that line couldn't be centered, then there wasn't enough light for the 1/1.9 lens to shoot by and she didn't take pictures.

WINGS OVER THE SOUTHLAND

A Bible Is His Co-Pilot

By Herb Shannon

SUNDAY school attendance literally soars wherever the Rev. Benjamin H. Cleveland goes, and he covers a lot of ground.

A real sky-pilot, the Rev. Mr. Cleveland flies his four-place Cessna 170 thousands of miles and hundreds of hours annually out of Long Beach Municipal Airport in the service of the Lord.

Part of this service is free airplane rides for kids of the churches from coast to coast where he stages revivals and acts as guest preacher.

"The children certainly like to see me come to town," the flying minister said happily. "I've been back to one place seven times, and each time the Sunday school gets a bigger crowd."

AN EVANGELIST for the Church of the Nazarene for 27 years, Cleveland soloed a plane 12 years ago at the age of 50 so he could get around to more churches in less time. Now he flies to Vancouver or St. Louis or Omaha on a weekend as a matter of course.

In his spare time, Cleveland is a furniture dealer with headquarters at 5444 N. Long Beach Blvd. However, this is a family enterprise which he founded principally for the benefit of his three sons who are associated in the business.

The preacher and his plane are registered with Civil Defense authorities and are available for search and rescue work in this area. Cleveland is chaplain of Group 13, Civil Air Patrol.

ALONG ABOUT this time of year, the minister and another member of the North Long Beach church to which he belongs look forward to a flying event which has become traditional.

The annual observance is the birthday of John V. Smith, a retired weaver of 320 Plymouth St., who is to be 94 today. For the past several years Cleveland has taken Smith up on a flight to celebrate the birthday.

"I've never been scared yet," commented Smith as he prepared for this year's birthday trip. "I have a very good pilot."

DESPITE HIS AGE, Smith takes an avid interest in flying, especially when he is actually in the air.

"Last time I took him up to 9,000 feet, just to see if he was paying attention," Sky Pilot B. H. Cleveland (l.) explains flight plan he will file when he takes up John V. Smith, 94, for birthday hop.

Cleveland disclosed. "After a while he said to me, 'Brother Cleveland, you're a little higher than usual, aren't you?' I had to admit I was."

"I keep telling Brother Smith I'm going to take him up on his 100th birthday."

One article, not usually found in a plane is standard equipment in Cleveland's cockpit.

"I carry a Bible with me on every flight," he explained. "Might not be a bad idea if other pilots did the same."

EXCLUSIVE—for readers of this section! As you've no doubt heard, the World Congress of Flight is to be held in Las Vegas, April 12-19. This promises to be one of the most comprehensive Aviation-Space meetings ever held, bringing together all elements of flight—designers, producers, operators, administrators, and users—for the advancement of both aeronautics and astronautics.

Seventy-seven governments have been invited to participate in the event which is sponsored by the Air Force Assn. in cooperation with the Air Transport Assn., the Electronics Industries Assn., the Flight Safety Foundation, the National Aeronautic Assn., the National Business Aircraft Assn., and the Space Education Foundation.

Sessions will combine conferences and forums, outdoor displays and indoor exhibits, air and ground demonstration, personalized consultations, personalized consultations.

Displays and exhibits, many of them from California, will be opened to the public on the weekend of April 18 and 19.

NOW THIS IS WHAT I have arranged for you—in appreciation of your wonderful support of these new aviation pages. . . . Because of the international interest in the World Congress of Flight, all Las Vegas hotels have been completely reserved for the past two months.

It helps to have wonderful friends, though, and with the cooperation of Bud Craft of the Las Vegas Hacienda, we have been able to reserve airplane transportation and hotel accommodations for 77 persons for each of the seven days. This is offered on a first come, first served basis. The plane leaves Long Beach Municipal Airport, bound non-stop to Las Vegas. Passengers will enjoy the benefits of the champagne flight—champagne en route, music from a piano bar, transportation to the hotel, dinner, dancing, transportation to exhibits, display, and the best sleeping accommodations. Each guest can reserve one night, two, three, or a week.

All this for less than the cost of round-trip air transportation alone.

So, round up your own friends for a really enjoyable and enlightening experience. Just mail a post card to me with the following information: Name, address, telephone, number of reservations desired, and date you would like to leave and return. We will contact you immediately to confirm your reservations. Send cards to: Dorothy Bower, Aviation c/o I, P-T, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

CONGRATULATIONS to Jack Roberts, owner of Haskell's Flying Service. Jack just received his helicopter rating. He celebrated the event by taking his charming wife, Louise, for a ride.

Jack now possesses every rating a pilot can hold, with

Perennials Are 'Anchor' Plants

By Joe Littlefield

PERENNIALS are plants that yield crops of flowers over a period of several years. Many types of perennials may be divided, old knobby portions thrown away, and rooted sections replanted. The new ones in turn last for several years before they need to be worked over.

Others, after several years, are started by cuttings from the old plants, then the old ones are thrown away. Or, old plants are replaced with new ones purchased from the nursery.

Perennials serve various landscape planting uses. A few of them planted in annual flower beds are "anchor" plants. When annuals have finished blooming and have been removed, the perennials add color or foliage until new annuals are established.

A BED OF PERENNIALS wisely selected as to different seasons of bloom, supplies color the year 'round. Hardy perennials planted in front of shrubs withstand shrubbery root encroachment, and produce needed color when shrubs are not blooming.

Edging, low growing perennials, add a neat trim effect bordering a rose bed; a flower bed, an outdoor planter box or around a tree, and soften the sharp dividing line between walk or driveway and lawn or flower bed.

Some perennials, like Dianthus Rose Marie and Hybrid Gazanias, blossom practically the year 'round, whereas, Bergenia (saxifrage) flowers during the winter. Coral bells bloom in the spring. Bedding begonias stand some sun, but generally prefer shade. They blossom the heaviest from late spring into fall. They'll flower some in milder sections during the winter.

Liriope muscari, "lily turf" or "perennial grape hyacinth," is a welcome addition in shade or partial shade and for outdoor planter boxes. It's a good pot plant for patio or porch. The outstanding quality of this plant is that it fills a need for lavender to orchid color during the summer when usually there's a lack of flowers furnishing this particular color. The mound-ing narrow foliage is attractive the year 'round.

A PARTIALLY SHADED garden isn't complete without some Helleborus orientalis or "lenten rose." The large, dark green, leathery and finger-like leaves are attractive the year round. The plants bloom from December into May and often through June. Resembling single-anemones, the blossoms may be an off-white, one of several shades of pink or rose,

This month you can dig up old clumps of dahlias and wash them off keeping them either in damp peat moss or laid out on a surface that can be kept moist but not wet. . . such as burlap or newspapers, spread in a garden flat where they can be placed in a warm place and sprinkled daily.

Now is also the time to begin preparing the soil in which you are going to plant, not only dahlias, but all plants you are going to put into the ground during March and April. Six weeks of "mellowing" the soil is not too long, during which time humus can be added, and a trace element product to correct the alkalinity, and plenty of good well-rotted steer manure.

Right now, spray old clumps of chrysanthemums because you want to keep them clean for the protection of the new young shoots that will be coming up next month, when you divide the old clumps and take the cuttings. Use a combination fungicide and insecticide. One containing nicotine and copper is excellent.

The blossoms hang on and need to be hand picked. When seed pods form, flower petals lose their color, turn a charreuse green and stiffen as if starched. As the seed pods burst open, scattering the seeds, the flower petals slowly dry and seemingly disappear unnoticed.

The seedling plants around the mother clump finally mature and blossom. The flower colors may be quite different from the parent flower.

THE CUT FLOWERS last for several days if stem ends are plunged into about four inches of hot water, as hot as it comes from the hot water faucet. Foliage, too, put in hot water holds up much better than if plunged into cold water. The foliage is excellent material to use in other flower arrangements.

Plant helleborus where plants will get at least two to three hours of sun daily. The sun helps draw the flower stems to reach for light. In heavy dense shade, stems are short.

Family Room That's a Happy Link

the adjoining family room which is two steps lower in level. Wide used brick steps lead down to this spacious all-purpose area. Here, a lofty, exposed-beam ceiling of waxed pine is spanned with rafters that contribute largely to an atmosphere that is at once informal and important.

Dominating the room is an enormous used brick fireplace that occupies virtually the entire end wall of the room. Its arched firebox is spanned by a wide raised hearth that negates the need for a fire screen. To the left of the fireplace is a built-in kitchenette, secluded behind louvered doors.

Cantilevered over the fireplace is the loft constructed of natural knotty pine, the same material used to panel the walls. Here are a couple of beds — making this suspended balcony-bedroom an ideal spot for guests and teenage slumber parties.

THE FAMILY ROOM addition, in itself, is not the only important metamorphosis the house has undergone. Nearly as ambitious an undertaking took place in the kitchen located to the left of the entry. Its new outlook: an expansive opening into the living room.

Should You Own a Dog?

12. Do you believe in routine?
Dogs thrive on it. If routine to you is for the birds, don't even get a bird.

13. Do you shun talk on the facts of life?
If so, shun dogs, too. They cater to instinct, have no misgivings.

14. Do you want a dog because it will build up your ego?

Relax. A devoted dog can prove a real moral support.
15. Do household chores bore you?
Relax some more. It's more fun to romp with Fido than mop a floor or mend the roof.
If you answered but seven questions correctly, don't get a pet, of any kind. If you scored 10, try a kitten. If you rated 11 or more, you should happen to a dog.

HOW TO Build a Mobile Storage Rack

1. MOST OF THE MATERIALS for this mobile storage rack can be pre-cut to size at lumberyard for little extra cost. Flat-plate type chest casters attach to bottom with screws and permit moving rack as desired with ease. Handle is located low for balance in pulling unit forward.

2. ALL HARDBOARD pieces come out of one 4x8 sheet, 1/2-inch thick. Letters match parts on assembly drawing.

3. START ASSEMBLY with storage box. Glue and nail two 1 x 8 end pieces to 2 x 4 cleats; glue and nail long 1 x 8 side pieces to ends of cleats and box ends. Center partition is next, including two 1 x 2s along top edge; 1/2-inch hardboard bottom (B) is glued and nailed to framework (including center partition). Glue and nail 2 x 4 brace under center of box so it protrudes 1/8 inch to each end. Cut large hardboard gussets (C) to shape; glue and nail to 2 x 4 vertical posts 1 1/2 inches above the bottom end of posts. Glue and nail 2x2 brace to underside of 1 x 10 shelf. Add two top gussets (D) to 2 x 2. Top gussets protrude 1 1/2 inches at each end. Fasten rod support to 2 x 2. Glue and fasten base gussets to 1 x 8 storage box. Use 3/4-inch No. 10 roundhead screws. From inside box, drive flathead screw into post. Screw shelf in position using 3/4-inch No. 10 roundhead screws through top gussets to posts. Fasten cabinet handle to upright at top of gusset plate. Screw casters through bottom into 2 x 4 cleats in ends of box. Run two 3-inch lag screws through 2x4 verticals into 2 x 4 bottom brace. Use one 3-inch lag screw through vertical 2 x 4s into 2 x 2 shelf brace at each end. Build loose-lids (A) of 1/2-inch hardboard backed by 1 x 2 framing. Allow about 1/8 inch in each direction for clearance with sides of the box. Add two cabinet handles to each top. Fasten clothes rod brackets on uprights for 1 1/4-inch diameter aluminum or wood rod. Center support for rod optional.

Materials Needed	No. Pieces	Size	Use
2	2	2 x 4 x 6 feet	posts, bottom brace
2	2	2 x 2 x 4 feet	box end cleats
1	1	1 x 10 x 6 feet, 3/4 inches	shelf

A Poet at the Broiler

IF POET Edward Fitzgerald were translating the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam today, he might—in keeping with the times—decide to paraphrase the passage in this manner: "A bowl of salad, a jug of wine and thou beside me singing in the wilderness..."

On the other hand, he might not, because poets are a pretty unpredictable lot. But were he alive today Fitzgerald would not be able to deny the fact that the salad bowl has become as significant as the loaf of bread was back in Omar's day.

Many of today's restaurant-goers use the salad as a barometer to foretell what the quality of the rest of their meal will be like. The rule is simple: if the salad's excellent, the rest of the dishes will be excellent also. This rule is particularly applicable at one of Long Beach's best restaurants—Hoefly's at 4911 E. 2nd St., Belmont Shore. Hoefly's tossed salad is absolutely perfect—and is always a harbinger of more excellence to come.

IN THEIR OWN WAY, Irving Solomon Hoefly's owner, and Chef Charlie Cole are poets too. Thanks to their efforts, there is a rhythm of efficiency at Hoefly's as smooth as the meter in good poetry. Hoefly's superb prime rib au jus (a 16-ounce cut for $3.75) is worthy of a dozen skillfully selected adjectives. And so are the charcoal-broiled steaks—top sirloin, $3.95, and New York cuts and filets, $4.50.

Moreover, the prices at Hoefly's will suit any purse. Today, for example, Chef Cole will offer these gourmet specials: fresh shrimp creole, $2.75; braised swiss steak with mushrooms, $2.50; breast of chicken Mandarin, $3.50 and an elaborate fried chicken dinner (from soup to dessert) for $2.75. All are remarkably delicious. —TEDD THOMEY

WHO was our richest president?

ARE today's women better off?

WHAT'S new in Russia's schools?

Two men on Iwo Jima

by RENÉ GAGNON Ex-Corporal, U.S. Marine Corps

Fourteen years ago, on February 23, 1945, I scrambled to the top of Mount Suribachi and helped raise our flag above the roaring battle of Iwo Jima.

As the six of us turned back to continue the fighting, not one of us realized we were to become famous. Our thoughts were concentrated on survival, on duty and on dead Marines. Today, only two of us are alive.

Since those terrible days I have been asked many times about my own most vivid memory of Iwo Jima.

Though the 23,000 Marine casualties and 31,000 Japanese dead made Iwo Jima one of the bloodiest battles of history, my sharpest recollection involves two unharmed riflemen—both Japanese.

Following the flag-raising, we helped eliminate enemy resistance on top of the mountain. Then the remains of our outfit moved back down the slopes to help crush the main Japanese forces in the area.

It was "victory or death" on both sides. I had not seen a single prisoner.

A friend and I went searching for snipers in over-run enemy positions. We took pistols with us, nothing else.

Suddenly I spotted two burly Japanese in a cave. We opened up on them with very rapid fire. Before we realized it, we had used up our ammunition supply without harming either man.

We ducked behind a boulder, and got ready to meet their counter-attack with pistol butts.

In a few seconds the two rushed toward us—with their hands in the air!

I can't describe my feelings at that moment. Most of my friends were dead. I had spent over a month fearing every shadow, killing every unfamiliar human being. The only enemy I had met before this instant either stared at me with the unseeing eyes of the dead, or charged into our blazing guns with hate-filled faces.

Yet in the few seconds it took to seize their abandoned rifles, we realized these were no longer "death-is-glory" fighters. They were just two frightened men, anxious to return from hell to life.

I felt better about taking those two guys alive than about all the killing.

We brought them back to company headquarters. It was strange to see the attitude of the other Marines toward them. Most of them seemed glad that at least two of the enemy would survive—two who some day might tell Japanese at home what it was really like.

I was 18 then. Now I'm 32, and I probably couldn't even walk to the top of Suribachi without puffing.

My wife Pauline, René Jr. and I live in a ranch-style house we've built just outside Manchester, N.H., where I have a satisfying job with Northeast Airlines.

I am very happy with the way things are. But I pray I'll never forget the thousands of Marines who never left Iwo Jima—or the two Japanese riflemen.

AS TOLD TO CHARLES U. DALY

On Parade

On the occasion of George Washington's birthday, the article by Peter Hackes on page 8 (They Left the White House Broke) informs us that, financially speaking, Washington was one of the more fortunate of our Chief Executives. For too many of the others, it was the grim story of a President leaving the White House, only to find the wolf baying at his door. We can all applaud the new presidential pension plan, which should insulate future ex-Chief Executives from money troubles.

This is the first time that all the facts have been gathered up in a single article. One of our two living ex-presidents, Harry S. Truman, saw the article in Washington. An authority on White House and presidential history, Mr. Truman commented:

"This is a moving piece of American history, which every American should know. The lot of many ex-presidents has been bitter indeed."

Spring training starts in a few days for big-league baseball teams. Bob Turley, pride of the New York Yankees' pitching staff, offers advice to Little Leaguers on page 23. Our cover this week shows that Bob can take advice, too—handed him by Little League catcher Andrew Schellhammer Jr. of Lindenhurst, N.Y.

Eleven-year-old Andy, by the way, is the son of Andy Schellhammer, vice president of the Little Leagues in Lindenhurst. He tells us that New York's Yankee Stadium, where the cover was "shot," is certain to have special meaning for both father and son from now on.

Are women better off today?

A few weeks ago, Dr. Anne Steinmann, a New York psychologist who wrote the article on this page, made headlines by saying: 1) Most women fear not being able to find a husband; 2) Increasingly, college women are abandoning plans for careers; 3) Most women feel they cannot mix home and career. At right, prominent Americans—and a French woman—give their views on the subject.

by DR. ANNE STEINMANN

Department of Psychology, Hofstra College

Are women better off now than women 100, 200 or even 400 years ago? My answer is no—a qualified no, but still no. My own studies and those at Harvard, Columbia and other universities bear out that answer.

Let me explain. American women today, married or single, obviously have many mechanical advantages, what with labor-saving devices. Also, they have gained many rights not enjoyed previously.

However, many women today find themselves in a dilemma as far as their emotional lives are concerned. They fail to see exactly how or where they fit into contemporary life and so become deeply distressed. And this emotional upheaval often undermines woman's gains in all other areas of living. Here are some of the results:

- 1) Family disputes and an unhealthy "home climate."
- 2) Impaired childrearing—because mother's emotional problems interfere.
- 3) Emotional breakdowns among women who began with limited emotional reserve.

I believe this did not happen as often centuries ago because a woman's position was clearly defined. Her place was the home. Children and chores kept her in a tightly-knit family. She knew where she stood and so did the rest of the family. As a result, everyone concerned gained—in terms of security.

But things have changed. The Machine Age has loosened the family unit. Now we have more leisure, more time, more mobility.

One result: now women find herself in a psychological fix. Strong claims are made on her interests and energies—emotional, social, intellectual—in the home and outside it.

Take the case of a 31-year-old businesswoman I know in New Jersey. She has a husband and children and now is separated from both. Her job required extensive travel. Before you knew it, family "friends" convinced her husband that she was not a fit mother. The final chapter in this story took place in a divorce court.

This example spotlights the tug of war many women are having with their emotions nowadays. On one hand, they are told: "be a good mother." On the other: "don't waste your talents; be a career woman; be a joiner; don't allow yourself to be stifled in the home."

Thus, many recent studies show American women to be bewildered, seemingly living in a world of contradiction. They realize that, if they spread themselves too thin, they will not do anything well.

No one is to blame, really; it's simply a fact of our present way of life.

Is there an answer to the dilemma? We cannot and should not return to the old family unit of generations ago. To do so would negate much progress that has been made. Of course, no single formula fits everyone's circumstances. However, here are some guideposts for action that I believe can be helpful:

Take time to think. I am amazed that women (and men, too) devote so little time to thinking out their motives and needs in life. The pace of our living is a cause, but not a valid excuse.

Be yourself. Don't be stamped by social pressures. If you really want to be "just a housewife," and feel emotionally fulfilled, be a housewife. If you feel you need something more, by all means seek new outlets.

Don't feel guilty. If household duties bore you, take up some outside pursuits. You will not be the first to feel such a need. The critical factor is whether your action helps or hurts you, your children and your marriage.

Plan for the middle years. Before a woman reaches her 40s, she must plan for the day when she will be an "unemployed mother." New outlets for her energies must be developed.

I know a grandmother who embarked on a teaching career at age 59—after her children had married and left home. Today, she's as happy as she can be.

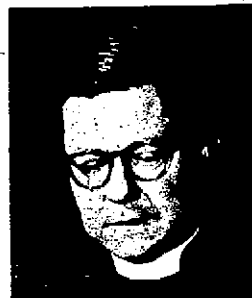

There's a lesson in her experience for all women. Through life, women must define their needs and goals and go about achieving them in a reasonable fashion.

A woman in today's world is faced by almost limitless opportunity. In living an emotionally balanced life, a woman owes it to herself to fulfill herself not only as a woman, but as a human being as well. ■

Simone de Beauvoir
Author of "The Second Sex" (Houghton)

The greater part of the discomforts that modern-day women are due to pay their careers. Women have suddenly appeared in the front of their strength because of all the tasks they perform, because of the contradictions among which they struggle. This does not mean that their life was imaginary.

The Right Hon. Joseph A. Phipps
Governor of California

A person should not live while unconsciously feeling unable to subject to proper psychological action. This is, perhaps, more apparent in the case of working mothers. There are a diversity of gifts and a variety of administrative and the question of personal fulfillment is an important one.

Margaret Chiles Smith
U.S. Senator, Idaho

I believe women are better off than they were many years ago. They certainly are better off as far as their rights are concerned and their status in children. They have won the right of suffrage. In addition, they have taken on greater leadership roles in the public affairs of our country.

Mary Martin
Actress

Women always have had more freedom about choosing the careers in the various of society. They have been the cause for a lot more freedom in the concerned. I don't believe we have off balance as much as we are in 1959. Unfortunately, the third women take their great advantage for granted.

Henry Morgan
TV Anchor

No woman are any better off than ever. They achieved a kind of equality they've been working for and then discovered too late that it wasn't what they had in mind in the first place. A woman is happy when she is being a woman, which is a good thing. If it's something better, it's something better.

Mildred C. Mansbach
President, National Council

I believe women are any better off than ever. Women have opened to new fields of action. They are freed from domestic slavery and are less often worried by economic in their time. They are concerned in responsible leadership and are taking their own responsibility for the future of our country.

A FIRST LOOK AT Russia's changing

Khrushchev called Soviet education 'isolated from life.'

On these pages you see, exclusively, the first photos of Russia's "new" school program. Despite puffery boasting about Soviet education, the Kremlin recently shook up its schools from top to bottom. And in this change is a note of hope for the free world—and a sign of uneasiness among the leaders of communism.

Today, as the photos show, each student must find time for work in factory or field as well as time for study. The announced reason: a blast by Comrade Nikita Khrushchev that schools were "isolated from life."

But a close study of the dutiful decree that followed Khrushchev's blast convinced Russian experts that the real reasons for the change go deeper. The decree extended compulsory education from seven to eight years, divided the rest of the 10-year program into three "tracks." One group of students now goes directly into the labor force, continuing studies at night. A second takes an educational program lopsided with vocational studies. A third has the academic track, but even there manual labor will not be slighted. Academic students work while completing school, then may apply to a university.

The higher school—formerly Russia's pride—came in for particularly hard knocks. Under the new plan, its aim not only is to turn out specialists, but specialists with practical experience in the factories. In promoting its students, it must take into account production records as well as class work.

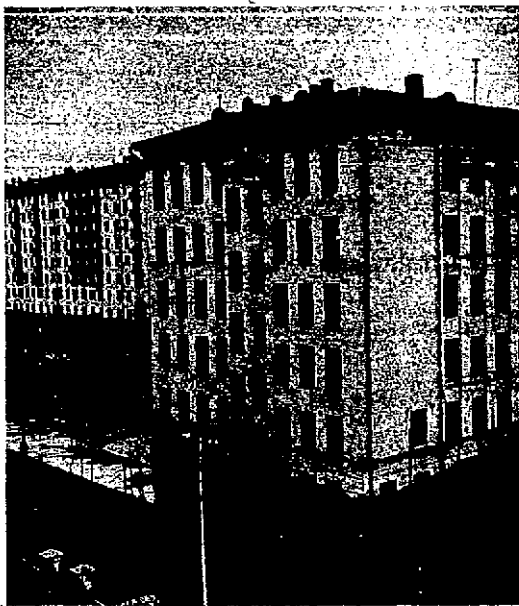

And, the decree went on, an additional duty is to train teachers with a respect for hard work and for building communism.

Khrushchev himself implied that the schools were graduating worshippers of abstract knowledge who were unable or unwilling to work with their hands. And in the decree were these additional give-away phrases:

- "Every person who lives in communist society must contribute through his labor..."
- "The secondary... schools should radically improve their work in teaching the Marxist-Leninist world outlook..."
- "The schools [shall] inculcate in the pupils... respect for men of labor... boundless loyalty... cultured behavior in the school, the home and the street."

Here's why he worries

Between those lines. Russian experts say, is admission that schools in the "classless society" have built up a new class. Young, educated above the laboring level, this class sees little value in Russia's work-hard-to-build-communism theme, watches in irritation as party hacks vault over the backs of the population to power, prosperity and prestige. This is the class from which young jazz-lovers, literature-buffs and "hooligans" come. And its ranks are increasing.

Can Comrade Khrushchev's big switch really close the door on this class? Russian experts, of course, can't be sure. But, they say, he might first have remembered a line of poetry from Alexander Pope:

"A little learning is a dangerous thing."

In the factory, student fills out day with labor training in a Moscow plant. The course of study requires three years.

We're finally ending shabby treatment of ex-presidents

THOMAS JEFFERSON

by PETER HACKES

Today, for the first time in American history, a man can enter the White House as president without fear of leaving it as a pauper.

A new law, signed by President Eisenhower last summer, providing pensions for ex-presidents and presidential widows, has removed the specter of poverty that has haunted so many of the men who have held the top job in the world's richest country. And this despite a salary that has been increased steadily from the original $25,000 figure to $100,000, at which it was fixed 10 years ago.

It is a little known but tragic fact that only a handful of former presidents has been able to retire in even reasonable comfort, and then mainly because of independent personal wealth. Here are highlights of some of the others:

- Three presidents—John Adams, Jefferson and Madison—died in the humiliation of abject poverty.
 - Five more—Monroe, Jackson, Tyler, Grant and Wilson—were so heavily in financial distress they had to depend upon the charity of friends.
 - Jefferson, eaten out of house and home by free-loaders, had to sell his cherished library.
 - Mrs. Lincoln had to petition Congress again and again for money on which to live.
 - Grant at one time was destitute, with $80 to his name.
 - John Adams had to take a poor-paying job as city surveyor.
 - Harry Truman has confessed that, but for some inherited real estate, he would have been insolvent.
- Only two ex-presidents, Truman and Herbert

Hoover, and two presidential widows, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, currently are receiving the new pensions. Truman has been drawing his since last September, and finds it has lifted a great burden from his shoulders. Until then, he says, he could barely afford to keep a staff to answer the thousands of letters he receives each month.

Hoover does not draw his pension, donating it to charity. His engineering interests and investments have made him a multimillionaire and probably the richest of all ex-presidents, heading the very short list of men who have left the White House in comfort and security.

Of these, Van Buren, Fillmore, Buchanan, Arthur, Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison each left an estate totaling $200,000 or more—a sizeable sum before the turn of the century. Half-million-dollar estates were left by Taft and Coolidge, and Theodore Roosevelt was a millionaire.

George Washington, whose birthday takes place this Sunday, also was prosperous. His plantation at Mount Vernon, Va., flourished. He also was a bank director, real estate owner and stockholder in many companies. Washington refused to accept any salary for his services as president, but he was too thrifty to allow Congress to save money at his expense.

At the end of his second term, he presented Congress with the nation's first whopping expense account. The bills he submitted totaled nearly $197,000—just $3,000 less than the salary he refused during his tenure.

Since Washington, only Hoover has renounced a presidential salary, but then he never has accepted a cent for any of the work he has done for the nation. He explains: "America provided me with an education, including a profession. I practiced that profession in years when there was no income tax, or only a small amount. I was able to save a competence. I consider that I have a great debt to my country for the opportunity it has given me. Therefore I have made it a practice to devote all personal compensation derived from our Government to public service or charity."

He is quick to add that his case should not be regarded as a precedent. "Most public officials," he says, "could not live or serve but for their salaries. Former presidents have deserved, and often have badly needed, such a pension as that now-granted."

Hoover, who at 27 was a partner in the British firm of Bewick, Moreing & Company, one of the largest mining concerns in the world, must have had Thomas Jefferson in mind. For there is no more pathetic example of a poverty-ridden ex-president than the author of the Declaration of Independence.

Living Beyond His Means

Jefferson dragged out the last 17 years of his retirement at Monticello, Va., barely able to exist on the charity of benefactors.

Jefferson's misfortunes can be traced to his lack of business competence, bad luck and boundless generosity. With the exception of one term as vice president, he lived each year beyond his means, and left the White House $20,000 in debt. His land was plagued constantly by crop failures.

Where other men might have economized, he went on spending lavishly. He always was entertaining members of Congress or other leaders of the day. It is said that Monticello—where 12 bedrooms were filled continuously with guests—once housed and fed 70.

Jefferson also signed notes for friends, who let him down. Inevitably he had to sell off land and, in 1815, the bulk of his prized library.

Ten years later, Jefferson's creditors again were hammering on the door of Monticello, this time threatening to evict him from his cherished home. Friends succeeded in raising $16,000 to keep them at bay, but, even so, Jefferson died penniless the following year. His daughter, Mrs. Martha Randolph, had to auction off more land and buildings to repay in part his massive debts.

Four other presidents of his era—John Adams, Madison, Monroe and John Quincy Adams—all had serious money troubles, too.

When John Adams left the presidency in 1801 (as he put it, "buried and forgotten" by his countrymen), his farms and investments in his home town of Quincy, Mass., gave him only the scantiest of livings. He lost a

The author, Peter Hackes, a Washington correspondent of NBC News, has made a hobby of the personal stories of the presidents. The Pentagon and related science and defense agencies are his beat, but occasionally he gets to see today's President at a press conference.

ULYSSES S. GRANT

WOODROW WILSON

HOUSE BROKE

George Washington refused to take any pay as president

Our first Chief Executive had turned down a salary as commander in chief of the Revolutionary Army, asking expenses only. In his first inaugural address, he said he would follow the same procedure. His expense bill, though, was a whopper.

$10,000 loan when his son's business failed, and he had to turn again to politics. He served as Selectman for Quincy, City Assessor and Surveyor of Highways. When he died in 1826, at the age of 90, he was deeply in debt, having just borrowed $10,000 for current expenses.

Madison, like his old friend and Virginia neighbor Jefferson, also suffered from a poor head for figures and a capacity for hospitality. He often entertained as many as 90 at dinner at Montpelier, where the famed Dolly was hostess. He also signed a number of notes for defaulting friends, including one for $6,000 for a scapegoat stepson.

In 1825, the same year Jefferson was facing eviction, a bank refused Madison a loan on his property, so it was sold—land, farm equipment, livestock, even the slaves (with their consent).

Madison wrote his memoirs of the Constitutional Convention, confident they would bring at least $10,000. When Dolly tried to sell them in 1836, no publisher would buy. Later, noting her financial embarrassment, Congress bought the notes for $30,000.

Dolly moved back to Washington to sell off what remained of the Madison property in Virginia, mortgage her home and pawn her silverware and jewelry. In the end she appealed to Congress and friends.

Creditors at His Heels

Monroe's creditors followed him 30 miles from Washington to his home at Oak Hill, near Leesburg, Va. His resources already strained by poor crops, a bad market and extravagant living, he was further harassed by the Government's long delay in paying his salaries and expenses as Ambassador to Spain and France from the period before he became president.

When his wife died in 1830, he went to New York to live with his daughters. Still unable to make ends meet, however, he was forced to sell Oak Hill. Congress at last paid him $30,000 for his ambassadorial arrears and also bought his official papers for $20,000. The cash went at once to creditors. Wrote his friend John Quincy Adams: "Monroe is now dying in wretchedness and beggary." And indeed he was... he died penniless and in debt in 1831.

John Quincy Adams tried writing a history of the United States and a biography of his father, but his work brought less than enough to support his family. In 1830, desperate, he ran for Congress, was elected and re-elected every two years thereafter until his death in 1848. But many considered it degrading for an ex-president to return to Congress, and he himself wrote, "My return to public life in a subordinate station is disagreeable to my family and disapproved of by my friends."

Jackson, so the story goes, had only $90 in his pocket when he returned from the White House to his home, the Hermitage, near Nashville, Tenn. Poor management of the estate, unwise investments and his son's gambling debts soon pushed Jackson into bankruptcy. After his death in 1845, more gambling debts forced the son to sell the Hermitage to the state of Tennessee for $48,000.

Vice President John Tyler had to borrow money to get to Washington by boat and buggy when President William Henry Harrison died, just a month after taking office. Tyler's large family—14 children by two wives, more offspring than any other president—gave him a constant financial headache. As an ex-president, he still had to struggle for a living. His widow barely managed after his death.

Grant, with an income of $20,000 a year when he left the White House, bought his son a partnership in an investment firm, and for a time it brought a handsome return. Then the son's partner was revealed as an embezzler, and within three years the firm was bankrupt to the tune of $2,000,000.

A Major Scandal

Here was a scandal of epic proportions, and it ruined Grant's reputation and fortune. He was left destitute, with only $80. Selling a few articles helped to keep him alive, but thereafter his existence was tragic, climaxed when he was stricken with a fatal cancer.

Toward the end, Mark Twain's publishing firm accepted his memoirs. Grant began writing at once in a race against the disease that was killing him. He won, completing the last chapter one week before his death.

He never saw the money that was to come from his work, but his widow in time received nearly $500,000 in royalties, more money than Grant had earned in his lifetime.

Woodrow Wilson was the last ex-president to experience dire financial need. Although he was reputed to have had $500,000 invested when he retired, in fact, it had been largely drained away by medical fees during long years of ill health.

Shortly before his death in 1924, a group of friends bought him a Rolls-Royce automobile so that he could be driven around Washington occasionally, and also provided money for repairs to the Wilson home there.

After Washington, the earliest ex-president to be considered affluent and far from the pinch of need was Martin Van Buren. He had 21 years of comfortable retirement at Kinderhook, N.Y.

Polk left a considerable estate, as did Fillmore, a successful businessman; Pierce, from frugal New Hampshire, and bachelor James Buchanan, who became a gentleman farmer near Philadelphia and developed a valuable business in farm real estate.

Of other prosperous 19th-century ex-presidents, Hayes was independently wealthy, and Arthur, Cleveland and Harrison resumed lucrative law practices. All wrote for popular magazines of the day.

Even in debt, no ex-president ever lowered the dignity of the office he held Theodore Roosevelt, already wealthy, added to his income by writing and lecturing on his hunting trips in Africa and Brazil. In later years he became an editor of Outlook magazine and a newspaper columnist.

His successor in the White House, William Howard Taft, saved $100,000 while in office. On retirement he became a professor of law at Yale University, and later did considerable writing and lecturing until his appointment to the Supreme Court in 1921. As Chief Justice, Taft earned $20,500 a year. When he died, his estate was valued at $500,000.

Seven presidents have died in office. While Franklin D. Roosevelt was reputedly a millionaire, William Henry Harrison left barely enough to care for his wife and 10 children.

Lincoln, who began life with very little, left what was considered quite a large estate of $110,000. It was divided equally between Mrs. Lincoln and two sons, but Mrs. Lincoln, not the most prudent of women, soon exhausted her share, plus an added year's presidential salary voted to her by Congress.

Her obsessive need to buy things left her continually asking Congress for support. In 1870, she was given a lifetime pension of $3,000. Twelve years later, it was raised to $5,000.

Twelve presidential widows have been voted pensions by Congress, most of them around $5,000 a year.

Dignity at All Costs

The lot of many of the "hard-luck" ex-presidents might have been vastly different but for their profound loyalty to the dignity of the office they had held. None wished to demean its prestige by allowing its title to be used for personal gain. Nor did early presidents believe that a man elected president should serve in a less exalted political position.

Although the question of a presidential pension frequently came before Congress, in early days its members did not look with favor on pensions of any kind.

To get around this, there were proposals that ex-presidents should become "members at large" of the House or Senate. President Hayes, in 1889, went on record against this idea, calling it "... inconsistent with the principles of popular government."

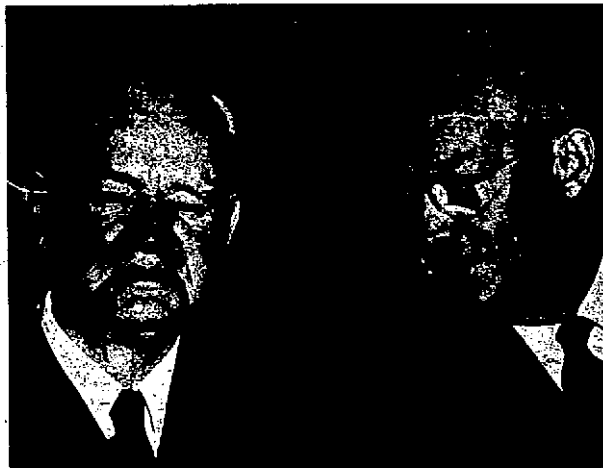

Only one ex-president, Andrew Johnson, ever served in the Senate, and only one, John Quincy Adams, in the House. Tyler was elected to the Confederate House of Representatives, but died before it convened. Hoover refused an appointment to the Senate offered by New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in 1949.

In the 1880s, President Arthur attempted to promote a presidential pension plan to aid the failing Grant. But the proud general wrote to the committee concerned saying that under no circumstances would he accept a pension.

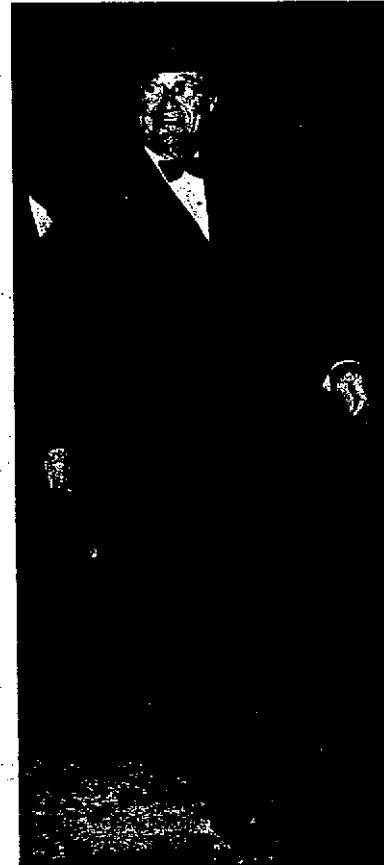

President Cleveland once was asked his reaction to a facetious suggestion that the only solution to ex-presidents' problems was "... to take them out to a five-acre lot and shoot them!"

He replied: "Five acres seems needlessly large and, in the second place, an ex-president has already suffered enough."

Taft wanted most of all to return to law practice in Ohio but finally decided against it. He felt that in good conscience he could not appear before judges he had himself appointed—55 per cent of all Circuit Judges, six Supreme Court Justices and many more.

Hoover and Eisenhower have no financial woes. Pension aids Truman (r.).

What ex-presidents get now

The presidential pensions act, signed by President Eisenhower last August, provides for ex-presidents:

- ▶ A pension of $25,000 a year.
- ▶ Authorized funds up to $50,000 for staff, including a $16,000-a-year chief aide.
- ▶ Free office space.
- ▶ Free mailing.
- ▶ Presidents' widows receive pensions of $10,000 a year.

Woodrow Wilson did return to the bar, but experienced the same sort of ethical difficulty. He said he felt he should not accept any case involving the Government. He accepted only one fee as a lawyer and withdrew from the firm after two years.

Calvin Coolidge turned down a number of excellent offers on leaving the White House. He said: "These people are trying to hire not Calvin Coolidge but a former president of the United States. I cannot do anything that might take away from the presidency any of its dignity, or any of the faith people have in it."

Eisenhower's Holdings

On a later occasion, Hoover agreed, saying: "There are but small pickings for former presidents who are lawyers and engineers, except for corporate connections. The alternatives are to become a columnist and crowd some worthy workman out of the press; to take soap, or insurance, or pill money for broadcasting news comments; or become a merchant or industrial executive; or take payments for public speaking. Any of these means more or less exploitation of the office of president."

Just as Hoover was able truly to retire, so may President Eisenhower, who is to leave the White House in January, 1961.

Pension aside, it is estimated that his holdings, largely derived from his book, Crusade in Europe, are somewhere between $500,000 and $1,000,000. The Gettysburg farm—land, equipment, livestock, buildings—is worth several hundred thousand more.

All Ike's money, including his $100,000-a-year salary, is handled for him to avoid any suspicion of conflict of interest. He will not resume full control until he leaves the White House.

He is not entitled, as many believe, to retirement pay as a five-star general. He resigned his commission when he ran for office, and would have to petition Congress formally for reinstatement before he could receive a military pension.

Thanks to the new law, Truman's money situation has been vastly improved. His pension of $2,100 a month (less taxes), plus his now-free clerical staff and office space, has proved a great help. Unlike Author Ike, Author Truman's books, Years of Decisions and Years of Trial and Hope, returned only a small amount after taxes and expenses.

Now, with what he owns in Government bonds, the income from his newspaper articles, certain investments, lecture fees and the sale of some family farmland at Grandview, Mo., for a shopping center, he can live and work as all Americans would wish an ex-president to live and work—in comfort, dignity and security.

No longer will Truman, or any other ex-president, repeat the sharp words he uttered in 1958: "The United States Government turns its Chief Executives out to grass... they are just allowed to starve..." ■

Laughing out loud

These funny stories are selected from comic Myron Cohen's current best-seller. He tells some rib-ticklers dealing, among other things, with a wife-trader, Paul Revere and finance aboard a submarine.

A MAN ON THE WAY to his office in New York City passed a pair of odd-looking fellows and overheard the pair discussing a cute little cocker spaniel one of them was taking for its morning walk.

"Oh, what a cute little pup," commented the first one.

"I got it for my wife," beamed the other.

"How'd you ever make a trade like that?"

A BOSTONIAN and a Texan met on a plane headed for New York. Naturally, the cow-poke steered the conversation around to his native state.

"There's no place like Texas," he boasted. "Even our heroes are the bravest men in the world. Did Boston ever have anyone to match Sam Houston?"

"Well," countered the easterner confidently, "you've heard of Paul Revere."

"Paul Revere?" repeated the Texan. "Isn't he the guy who had to run for help?"

A CERTAIN silk goods manufacturer, now prosperous, had started off as a cutter, taken courses in business administration at night school, jumped to the rank of executive and eventually reached the top as a full partner in the firm. When his partner died, sure enough he became the head man.

One morning near the end of his most profitable year, his secretary brought in some checks for him to sign.

"This one," she explained, "is for the house you are buying. It's for $200,000."

"That's wonderful," said the manufacturer, beaming.

"And this one for $825,000 is for that new office we're opening in Paris."

"Good."

"This one covers your son's wedding present. It's for $125,000."

"He deserves it. He's a good boy."

"And now," said the secretary, "I'd like to ask you for a raise for myself. I've been with you for more than two years now. Would $15 be all right?"

"Fifteen dollars!" shouted the boss. "What do you think I am, a millionaire?"

THE SCION of a wealthy family, who was a petty officer on a submarine during the last war, listened carefully as he heard the captain warn the crew: "Torpedoes are expensive. Before you release one, make sure you are going to hit the target."

Shortly after this lecture, the million-dollar officer spotted a destroyer coming toward the sub. "Destroyer spotted on the port-side," he yelled into the megaphone.

There was no answer.

"Destroyer 400 yards away!" he bellowed. Pause.

"Two hundred yards away!" shouted the rich boy.

Still no answer, and no action.

"One hundred yards away!"

No answer; no action.

"Fifty yards away!"

Nothing.

"Fire!" bawled the playboy. "I'll pay for it!"

A YOUNG MAN, who had recently graduated from Harvard, had started out with a large textile firm in the stockroom. He was a bright lad and within six months was made a salesman. In another six months he was upped to sales manager and shortly afterward to general manager.

A few days after his last promotion, he was summoned by the president of the firm, who explained that he would retire soon and would turn the presidency over to him.

Overwhelmed, the young man said, "Thanks."

"Thanks!" growled the president. "You've been with this firm only a year. Is that all you can think of to say?"

"Well," said the young man, "thanks a lot, Dad."

TWO CATTY MODELS met in a showroom. The first was of the ultra-thin fashion school, the second was the full-blown, buxom type.

"To look at you, one would think there was a famine in the United States," said the buxom one.

"And to look at you," the thin one retorted, "one would think you were the cause of it!"

THE EXPENSIVE-TASTING SPREAD AT THE POPULAR PRICE

(assuming that you want a second income)

Suppose you make the big decision: you are going to invest in stocks or bonds with the idea of getting the satisfaction of a second income. The question is, how do you go about it?

It's simple. Get facts and good advice. You can get them in the office of a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. A Partner or Registered Representative will gladly act as your guide to investment opportunities.

Look at the facts

Member Firms, all told, spend millions of dollars on research; they will gladly share their knowledge with you, without charge.

When investing, always look at the facts. Never act on tips or rumors. And invest only money left over after living expenses and possible emergencies have been provided for. Millions of American families are getting a second income from dividends on stock or interest on bonds; still, a company may not make a profit, may not pay a dividend or interest. Stock and bond prices go down as well as up.

Let your guide help you

Before he could advise investors, your Registered Representative had to pass a tough examination on his knowledge of the securities business. His personal integrity was also carefully investigated.

When you want to consider a second income, he is well prepared to help. You will find him friendly and easy to talk with, regardless of the amount you have to invest. Member Firms offer the Monthly Investment Plan, through which you can become part-owner of a prosperous company for as little as $40 every three months up to $1000 a month.

The nation's market place

Let's say you've examined the facts, you've consulted with your Partner or Registered Representative, and now you've decided what securities you want to buy. You give your order, and right away it is transmitted to the Member Firm representative on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange—the market place where orders to buy and sell come together from investors everywhere. He will buy for you there at the lowest price he can; and usually, in a matter of minutes, your order is executed.

It's important, from time to time, to ask your Registered Representative to review your holdings with you, to take advantage of new developments or investment opportunities that may arise.

HOW THE VERY RICH

THOUSAND OAKS, CALIF.

ONE HOUR'S DRIVE from Beverly Hills, on the fertile floor of this incredibly picturesque California valley, is the most exclusive reducing resort in the world—the Comancias Guest Ranch, an estate of 765 acres boasting nearly every weight-reducing device originated by man.

Known only to a handful of overweight, career women, actresses, society matrons (and an occasional husband, for whom exceptions are made), Comancias is the property of the Bernard Williams family, which runs it much like a country manor estate.

Formerly owned by Frank Powell, late cement tycoon who sank $10,000,000 into it, Comancias accepts only 22 guests at a time.

Kay Mulvey Williams, wife of the proprietor and a former magazine editor, is in over-all charge. She will gladly talk about anything concerning Comancias—its special menus (below), its personnel, its weight-reducing secrets—but she will not reveal the names of those who patronize the resort.

"Frankly," she declares, "this is one place where women are entitled to enjoy the luxury of privacy. They come here either to rest and tone up their muscles or to lose weight. They don't come for publicity."

Reducing, according to Mrs. Williams, is a most effective physical and mental stimulant. "Our average weight loss," she says, "is five to seven pounds a week. The women who play tennis, volleyball, ride horses or swim a lot in our pool firm up a little faster than the women who stay exclusively with the reducing machinery in the gymnasium."

At Comancias, the woman who checks in is first asked about her objective. Does she want to lose weight? If so, where, how much and how quickly? Perhaps she has no weight problem at all but merely wants to vacation in the sun. Or maybe she's like the Hollywood actress who drove in three weeks ago and explained, "I'm tired of being pursued by men. I'm looking for a female Shangri-la." An hour later she was in the beauty salon ordering a facial and a permanent. She had a date that night with Rock Hudson and was determined to keep it.

Mrs. Williams reports that of late many of the motion-picture studios have been sending over their glamor girls for the whole body-conditioning routine.

"One of them," she explains, "arrived in perfect physical shape. I was sure a mistake had been made, so I phoned the studio executive in charge. 'Please!' he said. 'For $150 a week keep her there as long as possible. Down here she's a stiff pain in the neck!'"

New Yorkers were SHOCKED
By The Recent EXPOSE of PATENT MEDICINE PRACTICES
Now You Too Can Learn How To SAVE...

STOP PAYING HIGH PRICES FOR VITAMINS

A recent public service study of Patent Medicines in one of New York's leading evening newspapers, devoted one entire installment to VITAMINS and disclosed many interesting highlights about the sale of Vitamins and Vitamin-Mineral combinations.

One of the startling revelations in this frank article was the wide variance of Vitamin prices.

The following three paragraphs taken from the series, as it appeared, are of particular concern to everyone buying Vitamins.

"Any particular vitamin bottled under one label is, for all practical and therapeutic purposes, the same as if it is bottled under another label. The fact is, most of the Vitamin concentrates consumed in America are produced by only a few companies.

"The list of ingredients in a Vitamin compound is one thing the consumer can almost always depend on to be correct. Any company which fails to label the bottle with the exact formula and amount (or unit strength) of each ingredient risks a seizure by the U.S. Government.

"Bearing that in mind, it is interesting to pick up a few Vitamin catalogs and compare the prices charged by different companies for the same Vitamin compounds."

Following publication of the installment we received hundreds of phone calls requesting copies of the Hudson Vitamin Catalog.

This interest prompted us to tell the entire nation our story.

Hudson Vitamin Products has been serving doctors and nurses for over 25 years and now you, too, can purchase your Vitamins DIRECT from Hudson at savings that are up to 50% and more. Page after page in the Free Hudson Catalog shows tremendous dollar savings on Vitamins, Vitamin-Mineral combinations and Food Supplements.

For example, a very popular multi-vitamin and mineral formula (sold nationally for $19.50 by door-to-door salesmen) is sold for only $5.95 through the Hudson Vitamin Catalog.

Here's another — a well-known high potency B complex formula with Vitamin C and minerals, nationally advertised at $5.95 per 100 . . . can be purchased for only $2.75 per 100 DIRECT from the Hudson Vitamin Catalog.

These are only two examples that you will find in our 32 page catalog that is simple, easy to read and has been a Vitamin buying guide for millions from coast-to-coast.

Write for the Catalog and show it to your doctor if you like — but, by all means, discover for yourself why Hudson has become a DIRECT MONEY-SAVING source for Vitamins throughout the nation. All Hudson Vitamin Products are sold with a complete money back guarantee.

WORLD'S MOST BEAUTIFULLY PROPORTIONED CARS

The author as a little leaguer: Hero of 1958 World Series—winning the deciding game—he took 21 in season, was American League's outstanding pitcher.

WHEN I WAS A LITTLE LEAGUER

by BOB TURLEY

Pitching star of the New York Yankees

I BELIEVE I AM the first little-league baseball player who grew up to make the major leagues. I know that if it hadn't been for those two years in the little leagues, I wouldn't be in the big leagues today.

Later on I'll explain why. But first let me tell you about the little league I played in. I was born in Troy, Ill., but grew up in the Rosemont section of East St. Louis, Ill. It was not a heavily populated area so we used to have a tough time getting 18 of us together for a regular baseball game.

What we played instead was Indian ball, where you needed only two or three players. One kid pitched underhanded to the batter, who tried to hit the ball over the pitcher's or outfielder's head. That was the only kind of baseball I knew. In fact, until the little league came to town—when I was 12—I don't recall ever playing a real game of baseball.

To make matters worse, since there were so few of us, we never had enough bats, balls or gloves. We hardly knew what a catcher's mask looked like. Our bats were the saddest things you ever did see; some of them were just nailed-together boards. It was only after the little league started that I saw, for the first time in my life, a brand-new baseball.

The little league came to East St. Louis in the summer of 1943. Organized by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, there were two leagues—a "little league" for boys 10 to 13,

HOW MILLIONS ESCAPE DANGER OF DISTRESSING

"Laxative Morning-After Weakness!"

Millions have found that the distressing "morning-after" feeling of headache and weakness which often follows the taking of a laxative can be avoided.

The medical formula which has made this possible is Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. These pure vegetable tablets do not work in the stomach. Hence do not upset digestion. What they do is relax the muscles in the lower digestive system . . . promoting easy elimination without discomfort . . . without weakening distress of any kind.

That is why Olive Tablets proved 58% more effective than 6 other types of laxatives in hospital tests. Guaranteed to give satisfactory results. For economy get large size.

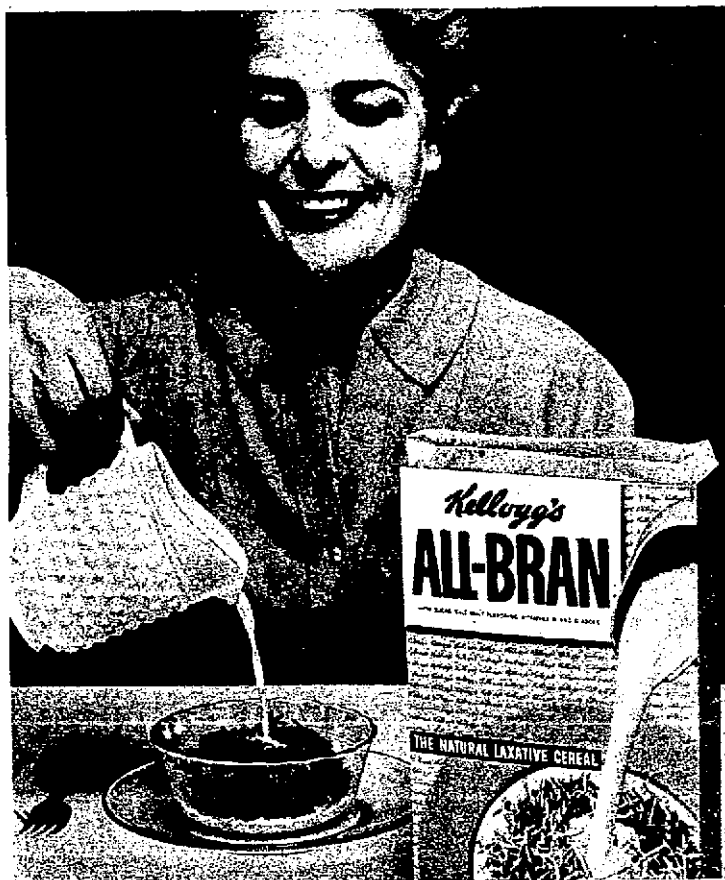

That tired, "washed-out" feeling in the morning may come from a laxative that's all wrong for you!

Dr. Edwards' OLIVE Tablets

All Vegetable LAXATIVE

Olive Tablets act "like a charm" but with surprising gentleness. That's because they do not affect stomach.

BREAK THE CHAIN LAXATIVE HABIT

Millions find gentle, safe relief with Kellogg's All-Bran and milk

For irregularity caused by lack of bulk

Wouldn't you like to rid yourself of harsh laxative drugs and find a safe, gentle way to natural regularity?

You can, you know, because there is a way—a very delicious way—the Kellogg's All-Bran way. And every year more and more people discover that this good cereal food can do for them what laxative drugs never could.

Actually, there's a good reason why Kellogg's All-Bran works when laxative drugs don't. You see, one of the common causes of irregularity is lack of bulk in the diet. And laxative drugs which contain no bulk can do nothing to correct the cause of the trouble.

Kellogg's All-Bran, on the other hand, is a whole bran cereal. And since bran is nature's best bulk-forming food, a half-cup of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk provides all of the good bulk food needed for consistent, natural regularity. (Wonderful old-fashioned bran muffin flavor and good nutrition, too!)

If you would like to try this common-sense way to get back on schedule—without the use of harsh laxative drugs—we'd like to make this offer. Enjoy Kellogg's All-Bran with milk every day for 10 days. Then, if you are not completely satisfied, just return the empty carton to us. By return mail we'll send you double your money back and that's a promise from Kellogg's of Battle Creek.

and an "A" league for boys 14 to 16. Our "little league," or "B" league, as it was called, was modeled after the now-famous Little League, organized in 1939 in Pennsylvania. We had the exact same rules—shortened base lines; no stealing, six-inning games. For us kids, though, the most important thing our little league had was its equipment: brand-new bats and shiny balls, and something we found almost impossible to believe—uniforms!

There were six teams in the league, each representing a zone of East St. Louis. Just as in today's little leagues, the teams were sponsored by local businessmen. Money for our team came from the Burke Funeral Parlors, and we soon became known as "The Undertakers."

One day, in June I think, tryouts started for the Undertakers. Being kind of shy, I hugged the sidelines as the other kids—there must have been over a hundred of them—warmed up. But the team coach, Ross Elkins, saw me and made me work out. If it hadn't been for him, I might have given up baseball then and there.

In the first workout, I almost got knocked off the team anyway. I was catching tosses at first base when I turned to say something to Mr. Elkins. A ball smacked me square in the eye and I learned—right off the bat—baseball's first rule: Always keep your eye on the ball.

Black eye and all, though, I made the team, along with 14 other boys. Nearly a hundred boys, of course, were disappointed by being left off. I am glad this doesn't happen in little leagues today since there is the money to finance enough teams so everyone can play.

Sleeping Batters

We lucky ones were given uniforms. We wore the caps to school every day. Some of the boys even put on the uniforms to walk in the streets. And I suspect a few even wore them to bed.

I pitched our first game and we won, 2-1. Big for my age (the kids called me "Clunker"), I was fast—but nervous. When we got the last out I was so happy I was close to tears.

We played 20 games. I don't recall how many we won, but we did finish just a half-game out of first place. Sometimes I look back and think we might have won if we hadn't practiced so hard. We were so tickled with our uniforms and equipment that we would show up for a 6:30 twilight game at about noon. After six and a half hours of "warming up" for a six-inning game, I sometimes think we were too bushed to play.

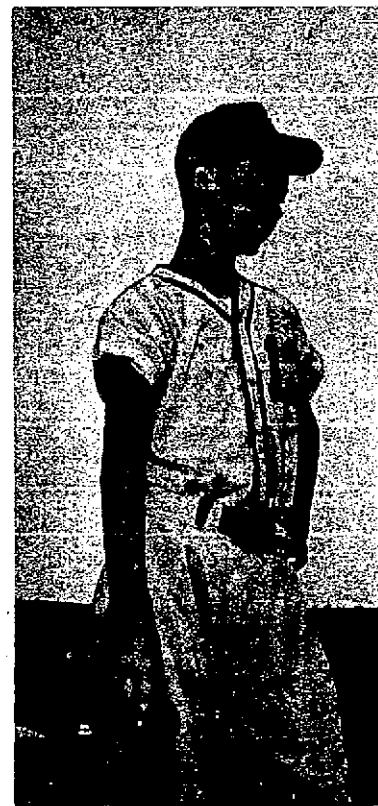

As for my pitching, I won about 10 of 12 games. My biggest problem was control, especially when I used a wind-up. So I threw without a wind-up. Ironically, I went back to a wind-up in pro baseball and was wild till I switched again—in 1956, with the Yankees—back to the no-wind-up delivery of my little-league days.

I remember best a game in which I struck out 17 of the 18 batters I faced. A few times, though, I was clipped hard. Today, when I visit East St. Louis, there are fellows I played against who say, grinning: "You, a big leaguer? Say, I always hit you good."

A Mother's Voice

My mom watched nearly all the games (my father was in the service). Like all little-league mothers, she thought her son was the best, and she wasn't shy about letting this be known. The result was some pretty fierce bickering in the stands between her and the mothers of other players.

Those ladies could be tough. Once I threw a fast ball that almost hit a batter. The kid's mother dashed out of the stands after me. If people hadn't stopped her in time, I think she would have clubbed me.

Little leaguer Andy Schellhammer (r.)

Once the St. Louis Cardinals invited us to a game. We got to warm up with our Cardinal heroes, including Enos Slaughter, who was a teammate of mine last season on the New York Yankees.

After warming up I asked pitcher Harry Brecheen for his autograph. He turned me down flat. Eight years later, when I joined the St. Louis Browns, I was assigned a roomie—Brecheen. Of course he didn't remember the incident—but I reminded him.

In the summer of 1944, now 13, I played again in the "B" league, but mostly as an outfielder. It seemed that some parents protested that I threw so fast I might injure one of the other kids. So, on account of me, they passed a rule forbidding kids of 13 to pitch.

But if it hadn't been for the East St. Louis kids' league—and Mr. Elkins—I'm sure I wouldn't be a ballplayer today. I'll tell you why: I never cared about baseball till the league started. When I played in actual games—with good equipment and uniforms—I saw what baseball was really like. And suddenly I was in love with it, enough to make it a career.

Having been a little leaguer, I'm often asked for tips on baseball by kids and their parents. I tell the kids to play for fun. If you become a big leaguer, great; if not, worse things could happen.

I tell the adults to treat children like children, not grown-ups. Too many little-league coaches drill kids on technical stuff, like throwing curves or learning cut-off plays. They take the fun out of baseball.

And lastly, I tell them that little leagues are the greatest thing that ever happened to baseball, to youth—and to Bob Turley.

—see cover and page 2—and brother Don chat with Turley.

EASY RULES

- ENTRY COUPON. Send in your solution on one of the Free Entry Coupons below. 3 words must read Across and 3 words must read Down. One of the words used must be the identity of the object illustrated in the Official Puzzle. Each of the 9 letters used is worth a certain number of points—add them up and you've got your score. That's right—add the values for the 9 letters—but add them only once as shown in the sample! The 6 words must all be from the Word List—the Letter Values are listed beside the Word List. Use no word more than once.
- PRIZES. The highest scoring contestants, in accordance with the official rules, will win the prizes, which will be awarded in order of relative scoring rank.
- WHO MAY NOT ENTER. This contest is closed to employees, agents, relatives and others connected with this contest, including anyone who has won over $500 in a single puzzle contest before entering this contest.
- TIES. Ties are to be expected, in which event, tied-for prizes will be reserved until ties are broken. Such tied contestants will compete in as many additional free puzzles as required to break ties, but not to exceed nine more, after which if ties still exist, duplicate prizes will be awarded. Tiebreakers will be more difficult and values may also be given for combinations of letters, and the puzzles may be made up of more than one frame each. Tie-breaker puzzles will be required to be solved and judged only if ties still exist after judging of preceding puzzles. No payments or purchases of any kind will be required with tie-breaking submissions to compete for the $1,500 1st Prize and the other basic prizes listed in the headline, including the Bonus Prize. At least 3 days will be allowed for the solution of each mailed tiebreaker. If necessary, tied contestants may be required to do one or more tie-breaking puzzles under supervision and without assistance in a 2-6 hour period per tiebreaker. The right is reserved to make such further rules as deemed necessary for proper functioning of contest and to assure fair and equal opportunity to all contestants, and all contestants agree to be bound by same.
- DATES. Entries must be postmarked not later than July 4, 1959. Everyone in the family may enter—but only one entry per person. Each entry must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Original and tie-breaker solutions NOT accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope may be disqualified. You may draw by hand a copy of the Free Entry Coupon and use it to enter. The right is reserved to offer increased, additional or duplicate prizes. Contest subject to applicable State and Federal regulations. No submission will be returned and no responsibility is assumed for lost or delayed mail or delivery thereof. Judges' decisions final. Prize money on deposit in bank. Full list of winners available to all contestants as soon as final judging is completed. HIGH SCORE FOR THIS PUZZLE WILL BE MAILED TO EACH ENTRANT WITHIN 14 DAYS OF DATE ENTRY IS RECEIVED.

Just Imagine! MY STORY IN THIS NEWSPAPER!

Who'd have thought when I wrote to the folks at Vitasafe that they would actually print my letter in their ads! Yes, they told me that my story was so typical of the many letters they received, they wanted to publish it. My husband and I agreed — so here it is.

"He Made Me Feel Like A Bride Again"

Posed by professional models.

It's hard for me to believe that a few weeks ago I actually thought about leaving my husband! He had become so nervous and irritable—so cross with the children and me that there was just no living with him. He was always "too tired" to do anything—to visit friends, go to the movies—too run-down to have fun with his family. Even our children were puzzled and hurt by his week-in, week-out grumpiness. Frankly we bickered and fought so much I thought our marriage was over.

When Jim finally went to our family doctor, the examination proved there was nothing really wrong. The doctor said Jim's condition was merely caused by an easily corrected nutritional deficiency in his diet. You can imagine how shocked I was to discover that even though Jim was well-fed, he was actually poorly nourished due to a lack of vitamins, minerals and lipotropic factors.

Just when things looked blackest, we learned about the famous Vitasafe Plan through an ad in our newspaper. It told how other people with Jim's condition had been helped by taking just one Vitasafe Capsule a day. Naturally, we sent for a trial month's supply. What a difference it has made! Vitasafe High-Potency Capsules have helped him snap back with increased vigor and vim. I'm so happy, I feel like a bride again!

Perhaps someone in your family feels tired and run-down because of a nutritional deficiency. Why don't you take advantage right now of this sensational trial offer as we did?

LIPOTROPIC FACTORS, MINERALS and VITAMINS

Safe, Nutritional Formula Containing 27 Proven Ingredients: Glutamic Acid, Choline, Inositol, Methionine, Citrus Bioflavonoid, 11 Vitamins (Including Blood-Building B-12 and Folic Acid) Plus 11 Minerals

To prove to you the remarkable advantages of the Vitasafe Plan... we will send you, without charge, a 30-day free supply of high-potency VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES so you can discover for yourself how much stronger, happier and peppier you may feel after a few days' trial! Just one of these capsules each day supplies your body with over twice the minimum adult daily requirements of Vitamins A, C, and D... five times the minimum adult requirement of Vitamin B-1 and the full concentration recommended by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council for the other four important vitamins! Each capsule contains the amazing Vitamin B-12 — one of the most remarkable nutrients science has yet discovered—a vitamin that actually helps strengthen your blood and nourish your body organs.

Glutamic Acid, an important protein derived from natural wheat gluten, is also included in Vitasafe Capsules. And to top off this exclusive formula, each capsule now brings you an important dosage of Citrus Bioflavonoid. This formula is so complete it is available nowhere else at this price!

WHY YOU MAY NEED THESE SAFE HIGH-POTENCY CAPSULES

As your own doctor will tell you, scientists have discovered that not only is a daily minimum of vitamins and minerals, in one form or another, absolutely indispensable for proper health... but some people actually need more than the average daily requirements established by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council. If you tire easily... if you work under pressure, subject to the stress of travel, worry and other strains, with resulting improper eating habits... then you may be one of the people who needs this extra supply of vitamins. In that case, VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES may be "just what the doctor ordered"—because they contain the most frequently recommended food supplement formula for people in this category!

POTENCY AND PURITY GUARANTEED

There is no mystery to vitamin potency. As you probably know, the U.S. Government strictly controls each vitamin manufacturer and requires the exact quantity of each vitamin and mineral to be clearly stated on the label. This means that the purity of each ingredient, and the sanitary conditions of manufacture are carefully controlled for your protection! When you use VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES you can be sure you're getting exactly what the label states... pure ingredients whose beneficial effects have been proven time and again!

WHY WE WANT YOU TO TRY A 30-DAY SUPPLY — FREE!

We offer you this 30-day free trial of valuable VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES for just one reason. So many
